Robbing Graves.

We have been informed that there are certain parties in this city who make it a practice to visit Cedar Grove Cemetery at the opening of spring and gather the flowers in bloom around the graves. If these persons do this without due consideration—not remembering that they are robbing the dead of that which is placed there as a last memento of love and respect by friends and relatives—then they, perhaps, might be excused for what they have done; but, if in the face of the knowledge and appreciation of these facts, this thing has been recklessly done, and if it is continued in, a City Ordinance should be passed to punish the guilty party. The theft of flowers is as great a crime as the theft of money.

A Hint to Meddlers.

Those who make it a point to measure other people's corn by their half bushel should take a hint by this. I am informed that there are a few very intelligent and learned seamen who seem to doubt my competency to manage and navigate a vessel. I would say that I am one of those fellows who is always ready to learn, and if any man, boy or female will help to advance my small portion of education, especially the Nautical part, I am ready to accept. I do not profess to be a Navigator, but what I have learned has been from first-class Navigators and men of experience and judgment. If any one desires to know of my judgment and ability to manage a vessel, I refer them, by permission, to Capt. D. H. Roberts, of the schooner Melvin. Respectfully,

E. D. BURRUS.

Bishop Lyman's Appointments.

Married.

In Washington, N. C., March 2, 1875, by Rev. Nat. Harding, Mr. HENRY H. BROWN to Miss LENA E. TELFEUR, all of Washington.

We learn that Scott's Liniment is making many miraculous cures of Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Headache, &c., in our city. Call and see the young man; perhaps it may be for your good as he has been afflicted himself, and is only going to remain in our city a few days more. Residence at James Robert's, on Broad street, opposite Eugene Tucker's.

Truckers' and Gardeners' supplied with fresh Seed at low prices at R. Berry's.

Seegya's at hard times prices. 3 cents for a Cigar, as good as can be bought elsewhere for 5 cents, at Berry's Drug Store.

A prudent father thoughtfully put his front door in the parlor, so that his daughter and a young man can swing on it without taking cold during the cold weather.

Nothing so much destroys a man's peace of mind as to hear a woman express an intention to give him a piece of hers.

Dr. Moran in New York.

Rev. R. S. Moran, D. D., late pastor of the Front Street Methodist Church, in this city, has been occupying the pulpit of the Church of the Strangers, New York, during the absence of Rev. Dr. Deems in Florida. The journals of that city have given considerable publicity to his sermons. A New York correspondent of the Suffolk Christian Sun speaks of a recent discourse on the "Historic Development of religious Truth," as one of surpassing excellence.—Wil. Star.

Notice.

All persons having allowed claims against the City of Newbern prior to March 1, 1875, are requested to present the same within twenty days from this date to the Auditing Committee. The object being to ascertain the debt due by the city, with a view of making a settlement of the same.

Cigars! Cigars!! Cigars!!!

Having somewhat enlarged our manufacturing department, we are now prepared to offer to the merchants and people of Newbern and adjacent counties a fine and well gotten up stock of work, excelled by no FACTORY in NORTH CAROLINA. Our own labor and a thorough knowledge of the business in its every form will guarantee this assertion. A trial is all we ask.

P. S. Factory open to all.

LASH & JENKINS.

Removed.

Dr. D. E. Everitt, Dentist, has removed his office to the rooms above F. M. Agostine's Dry Goods store, on Pollok Street, where he will be pleased to serve his customers.

A driving easterly snow storm prevailed in New York last night.

NORTH CAROLINA STATE LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.

Read the following endorsement of well known gentlemen in this city:

We, the undersigned, from a personal acquaintance with many of the Stockholders, Directors and officers of the North Carolina State Life Insurance Company, take pleasure in commending it to the favor and confidence of all who wish to avail themselves of the benefits of Life Insurance. The fact that it is a Home Company, retaining its entire assets in the State, and now proposing to loan in the various counties, the amount of premium collected therefrom, should in our opinion give it a decided popularity with the insuring public.

M. E. Manly, J. H. Houghton, George Green, Charles C. Clark, John Hughes, P. O. Roberts, M. DeW. Stevenson, H. R. Bryan.

Persons desiring Insurance can learn terms, etc., by application to

D. T. CARRAWAY,

District Agent, Newbern, N. C.
