The Bank of New Hanover having discontinued its business at Tarboro, M. Mathew Waddell, the President of the Bank at that place, will continue the collecting business.

The Greensboro Patriot says: We understand that Col. Buford has signified to Gov. Brogden his intention to begin the change of gauge on the North Carolina road east of Greensboro. This is perhaps the shortest way to test the validity of the recent legislative enactment.

We learn about 80 names have been enrolled on the list for the revival of the Elm City Rifles, and all are requested to meet promptly at the Atlantic Hook & Ladder Truck House Tuesday night, 25th inst., at 8 1/2 o'clock, for re-organization and election of officers.

Just Made.

A beautiful assortment of Black Alpaca Sacks, and will continue to make through the season. Warranted home-made. Standard price, $4. A. McLACKLAN, Middle St., opposite Baptist Church.

The Centennial.

Our city was comparatively quiet during Thursday, notwithstanding the fact that nearly all the stores and other places of business were closed part of the day, and Newbern was on a Centennialize. However, we are a quiet kind of a folk down here, and can rejoice over a great occasion, in some secluded creek, on the sunny side of a boat sail, getting "nibbles" "from a bang up," with an occasional "bite," with just as much vim as can those who are making the welkin ring with marshal music and cannonade in the crowded streets of the city.

Keep Cool! Keep Cool!!

The way to do that at very little expense, and in a very delicious manner, is to go to Messrs. Cutler & Gates and get one of their Gooch's Patent I-XL Ice Cream Freezers, with directions how to make good "Cream." A very nice present is given to each purchaser of a Freezer.

Festival.

The Ladies of the Presbyterian Church, will hold a Festival on Tuesday evening May 25th in the McLean Building. Ice Cream Cake and other refreshments will be served.

Ice Cream.

Miles Shepherd, at the old stand on Middle Street, near South Front Street, has in hand the best article offered to the public in the city. As a vender of this luxury he has no equal.

Very Important.

If you want to buy your goods cheaper than you can with those who advertise prices, go to Rountree's, next door to National Bank, and you will find the cheapest and best stock of goods in the city. No trouble to show goods there. Samples always given on application. Be sure to call and see for yourselves.

Gates & Foy return their thanks to their numerous friends and customers for the liberal patronage heretofore extended to them, and beg leave to announce the fact that they are now receiving their new spring stock, which will be found complete in every respect in their line. Call and see us before purchasing elsewhere.

If your boot or shoe needs a neat patch, or half-sole, carry it to E. Havens, on Middle Street, near South Front Street, where it will be done cheap, quick and to your satisfaction.

Miss Susan Dimock.

We take from the Echo the following tribute of respect written by our worthy townswoman and distinguished Poet, Mrs. Mary Bayard Clarke, to the memory of Miss Sue Dimock, of Washington, N. C., a most estimable and talented lady, wrecked on the unfortunate Str. Schiller. We learn Miss Dimock had been studying Medicine in New York, and had taken passage on the Schiller for the purpose of completing her studies in Europe.

IN MEMORIAM.

MISS SUSAN DIMOCK, M. D., BORN IN WASHINGTON, N. C., AND LOST ON THE SCHILLER.

O ye who late have scattered flowers
Where Carolina's heroes sleep,
Bow down your heads in sorrow now,
And for her noblest daughter weep.

Weep for a soul that bravely met
The careless scoff, the scorn, the sneer,
And undismayed amid them all
Achieved a woman's grand career.

In sickness, woman's instinct leads
At once to soothe and lessen pain,
And to that instinct she but brought
A woman's noble soul and brain.

Say not she stepped her "sphere" beyond,
For with a woman's honest pride
She sought its borders to enlarge,
And in the glorious effort died.

But whom the gods love most die young.
Before life's brightest blossoms fall,
And disappointment wrings the cry,
"The fruit is dust and ashes all."

She'd gained her place, and in her prime,
With earnest zeal her work begun;
O! let her mourning sisters see,
That work by them is fully done.

And glory in the woman's soul
That steadfast conquered in the strife,
For tho' she sank beneath Death's waves,
She grandly rose o'er those of life.
