

WITICISMS.

Mrs. Partington writes that she doesn't see what fun there can be in spelling matches, about which all the papers are full. She always spells them m-a-t-c-h-e-s.

Over the shop door of a pork butcher in an English village in an eastern county may be seen a sign-board representing a man in a black coat brandishing a hatchet, with the inscription, "John Smith kills pigs like his father."

A female servant, sweeping out a bachelor's room, found a four-penny piece on the carpet, which she carried to the owner.

"You may keep it for your honesty," said he.

A short time after he missed his gold pencil-case, and inquired of the girl if she had seen it.

"Yes, sir," was the reply.

"And what did you do with it?"

"Kept it for my honesty, sir!"

A Nevada woman recently knocked down seven burglars one after another. Her husband watched her from the top of the stairs and he felt so brimful of battle that he couldn't cool off until he had jerked his eight year old boy out of bed and "whaled" him soundly for not helping his mother.

Great excitement was caused in a rich family in New York by the unaccountable disappearance of a gold snuff box, richly set with brilliants, and equal satisfaction when a young gentleman of six acknowledged that he had utilized it as a coffin, and buried it with his pet canary in the garden.
