

THE SENTINEL.

NEWBERN: FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1833.

New Stage Route.—We lately addressed our Representative in relation to the establishment of a line of stages between this place and Beaufort.

Immediately on the receipt of your letter, I waited on my mutual friend, O. B. Brown, Esq.

A number of the subscribers to the Sentinel who receive no other newspaper, and who have not therefore had an opportunity of reading the Proclamation of Governor Hayne, have requested its insertion in our columns.

Documents.—We have received from our attentive Correspondent at Washington, the President's Message upon the subject of the South Carolina proceedings, with the accompanying documents.

Virginia.—The Virginia Legislature, after some months of debate on the expediency of the measure, have at length sent a mediator to South Carolina.

LATER FROM ENGLAND.

Surrender of the Citadel of Antwerp.

The packet ship Florida, at New York, from London, brings English papers to the 27th of December, containing intelligence of the surrender of the citadel of Antwerp and its dependencies, on the 23d.

the reply of the King of Holland as to his future intentions. Those best acquainted with Dutch politics, feel certain, that William never will consent to give up the forts in question voluntarily, and from the consistency of the line of politics he has hitherto followed, the French will be compelled to reduce these forts, and take them if they can.

The city of Antwerp presents an aspect very different to what it did a few days since. The shops are open again, the gay merchant line is once more at the windows, and rolling into the town with its emigrant inhabitants.

The French have now only a few sentinels in the trenches, who strictly prevent all but military men from inspecting the works.

The following is from the Antwerp paper, the Journal du Commerce:—When the news of the capitulation was known, general joy prevailed in Antwerp.

While the Senate is so earnestly engaged in the discussion of the bill of the Committee on the Judiciary, the House of Representatives is not idle with the Tariff question.

The deplorable condition in which Major de la Fontaine found the citadel, beggars all description. Not a house was left which could shelter the garrison; their ammunition or provisions were either destroyed, burnt or blown up, and only sufficient food was left for one day's rations.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT. WASHINGTON, D. C. Jan. 29 1833.

I write to you in haste, and early in the morning, in consequence of the extreme interest which appears to be felt as to the proceedings of the Senate to-day.

I write this as a postscript to a letter which you will receive of the same date. Mr. Pearce has moved to strike out the enacting clause of the Tariff bill, and the vote upon the motion, when taken, will be considered a test of the opinion of the House of Representatives.

The debate yesterday, or at least that part of it which formed the subject of the greatest interest, was upon the resolutions introduced by Mr. Calhoun, and the amendment thereto proposed by Mr. Grundy.

One serious word, however, to the officers of that valiant corps, who declare themselves hot to march against us. If they mean any thing more than a mere bravado; if their appetite for fighting be of a sudden so keen, they can be accommodated without the pain of a journey of a thousand miles.

6 P. M.—The Senate adjourned to day at an earlier hour than was anticipated. Mr. Wilkins spoke until about 3 o'clock, on the bill from the Judiciary Committee, when the doors were closed for the transaction of Executive business.

In the House of Representatives, the debate on the Tariff was commenced by Mr. William B. Shepard, who argued against the bill, principally on the ground that the act of July last has not yet gone into operation, and that therefore the merits or demerits of that measure cannot yet be directly determined.

The great question which in its results perhaps is to fix the destinies of the Republic, is still progressing, although at present, but slowly. The Senate bill is debated day by day, and will probably continue to be so for a period longer than the present week.

While the Senate is so earnestly engaged in the discussion of the bill of the Committee on the Judiciary, the House of Representatives is not idle with the Tariff question. Mr. Bates, of Massachusetts, spoke to-day for an hour or two, and was followed by Mr. Pearce, of Rhode Island, who in the course of his remarks diverted the House by the observation that if the Tariff system should be abandoned, the inhabitants of the manufacturing districts would be ready for "treasons, stratagems, and spoils, together with Nullification and every thing else."

Mr. John Q. Adams, this morning, has presented a report from a joint Committee of the Massachusetts Legislature remonstrating against the passage of the Tariff Bill.

I write this as a postscript to a letter which you will receive of the same date. Mr. Pearce has moved to strike out the enacting clause of the Tariff bill, and the vote upon the motion, when taken, will be considered a test of the opinion of the House of Representatives.

8 P. M.—Mr. Pearce has just closed, and on the motion of Mr. Banks, the Committee rose and the House adjourned.

Extract of a letter from Washington, giving a sketch of John C. Calhoun, when speaking on the Message of the President, relating to Nullification, &c:

There was a fire, an impetuosity, a glowing fancy, and an interesting and beautiful extravagance in his manner, that nothing could exceed.

Challenge en masse.—The Columbia (S. C.) Telegraph sends the following challenge to one of the New York militia corps, which had volunteered its services to the President to aid him in sustaining the laws of the Union:

One serious word, however, to the officers of that valiant corps, who declare themselves hot to march against us. If they mean any thing more than a mere bravado; if their appetite for fighting be of a sudden so keen, they can be accommodated without the pain of a journey of a thousand miles.

The elections in England have resulted in returning a majority of 257 Reformers to the House of Commons, and Scotland is expected to make up the number to 300.

The Rev. John Breckenridge, of the Presbyterian Church, and Rev. John Hughes, of the Roman Catholic Church, in Philadelphia, are engaged in the discussion of the question,—“Is the Protestant Religion the Religion of Christ?”

In certain quarters the disposition manifested in Congress to modify the revenue and allay the public discontents, has been denounced as a mean submission to the South Carolina nullifiers. This imputation is conceived in the same mischievous spirit which makes the nullifiers themselves in South Carolina reproach the friends of the Union there with the term “submission men,” because the latter repudiate nullification, and place their hopes upon the wisdom of Congress.

Let liberty and love of Union for once triumph—let the manufacturers be careful how they endanger their own interests by allowing themselves to be guided by those ultra-tariff politicians who have brought the nation to the verge of disruption.—Pennsylvanian.

Nullification in the East.—The resolutions reported by a joint Committee of both branches of the Massachusetts Legislature, protesting against a modification of the Tariff, and instructing the Senators of the State in Congress to oppose Mr. Verplanck's bill, were adopted in the House of Representatives on Tuesday by a vote of 406 to 58.

Such threats we trust will pass by Congress, as the idle wind. As the threats of South Carolina should form no motive for passing the bill, so neither should the blusterings of a party in Massachusetts have any effect to prevent it.

U. S. Bank stock was sold yesterday at 101 to 101 1/2, in large quantities, and it is said to have been offered even at 101.

Resolved, that while we cannot for a moment anticipate the possibility of the passage into a law of a bill of this description, in a Congress which, within a few months has by a large majority, pledged itself to the policy which it is now proposed to adopt, we yet deem it our duty formally to protest against the adoption of the measure proposed, as subversive of the best interests of the country.

Resolved, that our Senators in Congress be instructed, a due regard to the public interest being their primary consideration, to oppose the passage of the bill reported by the committee of Ways and Means from passing into a law.

The above is from the last New York Standard.—It is probable, we think, that the stock market has been affected by the rumour that the Committee of Ways and Means will report a bill for selling the U. S. Shares of the Bank Stock, under certain limitations—one of which is, that it shall not sell below par.

The Union men of Lynch's Creek, S. C. profess themselves favorable to club law. They held a meeting on the 10th ult. at which the following resolution was passed:

Resolved, that Gen. James Blair deserves the thanks of the Union Party of this State for his very forcible and conclusive arguments, in the discussion of the question with Duff Green, whether the Union men of South Carolina were Tories.

General Blair has been sentenced by the Circuit Court at Washington, to pay a fine of three hundred dollars, for his assault and battery on Duff Green.

At a meeting of the Judges of the Supreme Court of North Carolina, of the Officers of the Court and of the Gentlemen of the Bar in attendance on it, at the Court-room in the city of Raleigh, on the 31st of January, 1833, the Hon. Chief Justice Leonard Haywood, being called to the Chair, and Wm. H. Haywood, Jr. appointed Secretary, the following resolutions were moved by William Gaston, Esq. and unanimously adopted, viz:

Resolved, That the intelligence which has just been received of the death of the Hon. JOHN HALL, lately a Judge of the Supreme Court of North Carolina, requires of us an expression of the sense we entertain of the merits of the deceased, and the regret we feel for his removal from among us.

Resolved, That the able, faithful and devoted services which the deceased rendered to the community during the thirty-two years in which he has acted as a Judge of the Superior and Supreme Courts of the State, entitle his memory to our highest respect, while his private virtues command for his name a firm place in our affections.

Resolved, That, in testimony of this respect and affection, we will wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days.

LEONARD HENDERSON, Chairman. Teste, WILL. H. HAYWOOD, Jr. Sec'y.

New York Prices Current, February 1. Corrox, Upland, 10 a 11 1/2, Tar, 187 1/2, Turpentine, Wil, soft 2 81, do N. County, 2 37 1/2, 2 50.

DIED. In this town, on Friday last, Mrs. ELIZABETH FLANNER, wife of Mr. Bennet Flanner. At his residence in Warrenton, on the 29th ult. the Hon. JOHN HALL, for many years one of the Judges of the Circuit Court, and, since its organization, of the Supreme Court of North Carolina.

PORT OF NEWBERN. ARRIVED, Schr. Jubilee, Read, 7 days from New York, George and Phoebe, Sears, 12 days from New Bedford, Schr. Jane, Read, 10 days from Boston, January, Washburn, from Kingston, Jamaica, Philadelphia, Casey, from Charleston, Md. to M. W. Jarvis.

DENTAL SURGERY. DR. WAKEFIELD. I FORMS the Ladies and Gentlemen of Newbern, that he intends to remain for a short time at Mr. Bell's Hotel, where he will be happy to wait upon those who may desire his professional services. He humbly trusts that his experience in his profession will procure him as liberal a patronage in this city as has hitherto attended his exertions in others.

TRUST SALE. WILL BE SOLD, at Public Auction, on the 1st of March next, if not previously disposed of at private sale, Lot No. 71, & Improvements, on Middle-Street, 1-4 of Lots No. 339 and 340, and Improvements, on Hancock-Street.

Land Adjoining Town FOR SALE. THE subscriber, agent for EDWARD G. PASTEUR, will sell at Public Auction, on the premises, on Monday the 25th day of February, (if not previously disposed of at Private Sale), all the LAND (except one Lot) belonging to EDWARD G. PASTEUR, adjoining the town of Newbern, on its Northern Boundary.

THE subscriber, agent for EDWARD G. PASTEUR, will sell at Public Auction, on the premises, on Monday the 25th day of February, (if not previously disposed of at Private Sale), all the LAND (except one Lot) belonging to EDWARD G. PASTEUR, adjoining the town of Newbern, on its Northern Boundary.

Molasses. 10 hds. and 11 tierces prime retailing Molasses, for sale by M. W. JARVIS. Feb. 8.

CHARLES S. WARD, DRUGGIST & APOTHECARY. Has for sale, at his Shop, next door to Bell's Tavern, A GENERAL ASSORTMENT OF DRUGS, MEDICINES, PAINTS & PAINT BRUSHES. Oil, Dyestuffs, Varnishes, and various Brushes, Perfumery and Cosmetics.

The above articles are fresh, and of the very best quality. Newbern, February 1st 1833.