National Campaign, 1872. THE SUPREMACY OF CIVIL LAW

FOR PRESIDENT: W.S. HANCOCK OF PENNSYLVANIA.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT: GRATZ BROWN. OF MISSOURI.

Platform.

DEMOCRACY .- A strict construction of the Constitution : the Sovereignty of the People; the Rights of he States unimpaired; the Preservation of the General Government in its whole Constitutional vigor a Faithful and Economical Administration of National and State Affairs, that Labor may be lightly burdened, and Agriculture. Commerce and Mechanics encouraged; the Surremacy of the Civil Law over he Military Authority : Equal and Exact Justice to all Men. Exclusive Privileges to None; the Sacred Bights of Minorities, and a Peaceful Acquiescence in the decisions of Majorities; the diffusion of knowledge, and arraignment of all abuses at the Bar of Public Reason; Freedom of Religion; Free Speech ; Freedom of the Press; Freedom of Person, under the protection of the Habeas Corpus, and speedy trial by Juries impartially selected.

The Carolinian has neither type nor press, as we learn from the proprietors of a job office, where we have a part of the press work done for the legislature. The Carolinian is printed at the same job office by contract, as the owners of the office have stated.-Raleigh Sentinel.

OFFICE NORTH CAROLINIAN. FAYETTEVILLE STREET, Raleigh, Jan. 12, 1872. Messes. Edwards & Broughton. Raleigh, N. C .:

GENTLEMEN: Did either of you ever tell either of the Editors of the Sentinel, or authorize any one else to tell them or tell anybody, that you owned the newspaper press and material with which the Carolinian is printed?

And are you not aware of the fact that I, as Manager of this paper, purchased the old Standard presses and material last October, shortly after you purchased the Job material of the same; and although printing the Carolinian by contract are you not using the Carolinian type and press? And is this not the press on which the State work from the Sentinel office has been done, and is it not by my consent, as the Manager of the Carolinian, and the controller of its presses and material? Please answer soon.

Very Truly,

WM. A. HEARNE. RALLIGH, N. C. Jan. 12th, 1872. Major W. A. Hearne,

Manager Dail y Carolinian, SIR :- Yours of to day, making certain interrogations to hand and them as follows:

1. We have never told the editors of the Sentinel or anybody else, that we owned the newspaper press and material with which the Carolinian is printed.

2. We are aware of the fact that you purchased the old Standard presses and material in October last, for the Carolinian. 3. We are doing your work by contract, but that contract stipulates the furnishing of the material by yourself.

4. The press upon which the State work is now being done, is owned by the Carolinian, and it is by your consent, or in other words by a contract between us, that we are doing said work for Mr. Turner.

The above we deem tully enough answers your questions to set you right.

Now, in justice to Mr. Turner, we will state that early in September last, the junior member of our firm, (Mr. Broughton) in conversation with Mr. Turner, told . tyrrany and corruption of the Radical him that we were going to get out your paper by contract (which was then only proposed to be a weekly) with our mate-

Early in October last, with a view to publishing a Daily, you purchased the Standard material, &c., which we believe you stated in an issue of your paper of that month you had done. Very respectfully,

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON

Blue Ruin,

A Beaufort letter to Dr. Martin. Representative from Carteret, says: "Our County Commissioners have levied a Railroad tax of $2,50 on the $100,00 valuation, and $4,00 on the poll. As you may readily apdispleased."

Why don't the Legislature fix up, compromise and levy a tax to pay the interest on a reduced debt ?-Here are the people of one county going to ruin, and the balance of the people stand by and refuse to bear a part of the public burden.

What are our Assemblymen thinking about that they do not take some practicable step in the matter of the debt of the State?

Agricultural Convention.

The Agricultural Convention in this city adjourned last evening, and most of the delegates have retired to their homes. We made arrangements for full reports of yesterday's proceedings, but up to this time our reporter remains in the bush, and probably will, ere long, come up groggy.

THE NEEDS of the metropolis are thus truthfully narrated by a provincial paper:

"WANTED

A Democratic organ at Raleigh. A journal devoted to the pure and undefiled principles of the Democratic party. A paper controlled by gentlemen of recognized ability and experience, thorough y qualified to discuss all grave matters of State and National interest. A paper managed and directed in an impersonal spirit-having force, brains and intellect sufficient to meet successfully the opposition without lugging into its columns personal controversies and dis-

A paper edited by men of well known party antecedents, whose opinions will be entitled to merited weight and influence among the rank and file.

Who will say that such a paper is now in existence at the State Capital? So long as such an organ is wanting, so long will the Democratic party suffer from the assaults of its opponents.

So long will its principles be assailed without sufficient vindication, and consequently, so long will the best interests of the State be the sufferer."- Tarboro' South-Some men reach correct conclusions by intuition, some by comparison, and others by reason and good sense, but this editor, through envy and hatred, has arrived at a truth his intuition, comparison, reason or good sense never would have suggested.

A Voice in the West.

We print a letter from a Democrat—a Convention Democrat—in Burke County, on whom there is no discount politically.

We thank our friend for his good opinions, but for the merit he attributes to the Carolinian during the Convention times of 68, we are mainly indebted to our old associate now of the House of Representatives.

For the Carolinian. The Carolinian a Democratic Paper."

Some persons, through blind prejudice or misguided motives, have tried and still try to convince the public that the Carolinian is a Republican paper. The reasons assigned are: 1st, that it opposed the Convention. Now this is no good reason; but simply the fiat of some political leaders. In the Legislature of '54, this very mode of calling a Convention was discussed, and the Democratic party voted against it as an un-democratic measure-many of whom however, went back on the past, but written record. We, ourselves, voted and canvassed last Summer for the Convention, believing that it was constitutional; vet we did not denounce and band as a Radical, any one who opposed us. Many of the truest and best Democrats opposed it, and purely from principle. Such men rose above party measures and party considerations, and are to day sound and unflinching adherents to Democracy. We challenge any man to examine the records of that paper and point out a single instance in which it opposed the methers of the

The 2nd reason is: that it will not abuse and vituperate every member of the Radical party, and that it likes Gov. Caldwell. This is no day for personal abuse, but when reason and argument should be used to join all patriots of every political creed in a common crusade against the servile minions and black cohorts of radicalism and despotism. To abuse men who honestlly differ from us, is no way to increase the Democratic ranks. On the contrary it has caused many doubttul men to enlist in the Radical line. So far as Gov. Culdwell is concerned, in his private and personal relations, he is a gentleman; yet we hate his political views .-He is, and always will be, an extremist .-The editorial of the Carolinian was the ablest criticism we read upon his message. It very properly gave him credit for some of his suggestions; yet the strictures upon some parts of it were very decided, and more for "sins of omission than commis sion." We know the editors of that paper and they are sound. The junior last sum mer, scored in no unmeasured terms, the party, and worked manfully and unceasing for the Convention. We have taken that paper from its birth in Ruleigh-during the sitting of the Constitutional Convention. What man in North Carolina does not recollect with pride its well timed and persistent attacks upon those who tore down our apostolic landmarks, and waved over their ruins, the hated the ensigns of despotism. If we recoilect aright, it was threatened to to be suppressed on account of its fearless defence of the rights of the States and the liberties of the citizens, and that too, at a time when the din and tumult of two powerful armies had scarcely died away in the fields of Virginia, and the glitter of conquering bayonets still flashed across the South, wielding a wonderful influence. At that time most of the papers in the State were for policy, while the Carolinian, lit with a glow caught from the tottering Constitution of our Fathers and having as its aim the perpetuity of our Republican Government, spurning the threats of the conquerer and hating the debauched minprehend the people are very much ions of tyrranny, spoke boldly in behalf of law, order and Constitutional liberty it ignored, and happily so, that meaningless word, Conservative, and implored the people to shake off party prejudice, to act upon the principle instilled into them by a noble ancestry, and enlist under the ban ner of Democracy, on which, alone, was engraved "the rights of the State and the Constitution of our Fathers." Nothwithstanding these facts, "scribblers for bread," patriotic "bushwhackers" and Senatorial toads attempt to impair the usefulness of the ablest exponents of

It has ever advocated the supremacy of civil law; it has ever fought against the usurpation at Washington; it has measured political lances with the ablest supporters of Radicalism on the question of State Sovereignty, and came off victor. And we tell the people of North Carolina, if they still adhere to those great principles of God-nurtured by Jefferson and illustrated by Jackson-to read the Carolinian.

Respectfully, JULIAN. Burke County, Jan. 11, 1872.

Mr. George W. Childs, of the Public Ledger, gave a magnificent entertainment to Mr. Booker at his new mansion in Philadelphia on Tuesday evening.

REMARKS OF

F. N. STRUDWICK, In the House of Representatives, on Friday, Jan. 12, 1872, on the Bill in Relation to the Public Debt.

I do not propose now to discuss this bill on its merits, but simply wished to indicate a course I intend to pursue with regard to this all-important matter. The time has come when the people imperatively'demand some definite settlement of the state debt. It will be remembered that in the early part of this session I introduced a resolution instructing the judiciary com-mittee to report a bill looking to the repudiation of the State debt. That committee reported adversely to the resolution. and I propose, as a member of that committee, to offer a minority report, accompanied by a bill providing for the im mediate settlement of the entire debt. There are three courses open to us. First: Payment in full and in strict accordance Grievances. with the terms of the contracts. Second: Partial repudiation.

State and a complete entire repudiation of the arrival of the hour for the consideration of the balance. The bill under discussion of the favors the second course. In other words, this is a proposition to repudiate partially, was announced. let gentlemen call it what they will. The time has come, sir, when we should call things by their proper names. Call a spade a spade, now. I believe the people of North Carolina are as honest, as pure and as true a people as ever lived. I know it to be a fact, that before the war in North Carolina, merchants could buy any amount of goods in New York on credit, when merchants from most other States were compelled to offer responsible city reference. I believe our people to-day are still entitled to that character, and would bitterly oppose any scheme of un-necessary repuliation. The experience and observation of every man is that there are circumstances possible and entirely consistent with the existence of the power, &c., &c., highest integritity under which an individual or a corporation is compell ed to repudiate his or their debts, partially or entirely. I believe that those circumstances now surround us. I believe that the time has now come when the people demand repudiation. I have never recognized the legal or moral obligation on us to pay what is called the new debt, and this proposition is now to give up the assetts of the State to the holders of the old bonds, and repudiate the balance and commence with new books.

The bill in regard the State debt was taken up and discussed. After its discussion for some time.

On motion of Mr. Gregory, the bill was postponed till Tuesday next at 11 o'clock. On motion of Mr. Johnston, of Buncombe, the bill to abolish the office of Supreme Court Reporter, and devolving the duties upon the Attorney General, was taken up and passed its second reading. Upon the bill being placed upon its third reading,

Mr. Jarvis (Mr. Robinson being in the chair,) said as no one else seemed disposed to say anything on this bill, he would say something himself. He asked the question: suppose we had such an Attorney General as we had before the present incumbent came into office, what kind of reports would we get? That there was much more depending upon the report of the Supreme Court reports, than a mere glance might show-that it was the guide for law in the disposition of life and property; that there should exist a feeling of harmony between the reporter and the Judges, and hence the reason for leaving the matter of their reporter with them. Mr. Johnston, of Buncombe, argued at some length in favor of the passage of the bill, saying if it was adopted hereafter and errors occurred in the reports, the people would know who to blame for them. He said he believed the day had passed when such men as the former Attorney General referred to, would be nominated for such

Mr. Withers advocated the passage of the bill for some time. After which, on motion the House adjourned.
