Train Run Off.

The Western train didn't get in this morning till 11 o'clock. It ran off the track at High Point and thus caused the delay. Nobody hurt.

Groceries and Confectioneries.

Mr. C. D. Christophers, near the Era office, keeps a good supply of groceries and confectioneries and sells them as cheap as they can be bought in the city. Give him a call.

Thanks.

The Senate and House Reporters of the Era return thanks to Mr. L. C. Jones, President of the Western N. C. Railroad, for tickets over his road during the session of the Legislature.

Death of Captain Wilroy.

Capt. Jas. H. Wilroy died suddenly of heart disease at the Theatre in Richmond, Va., on the night of the 6th inst. Capt. Wilroy was for a long time a resident of this city and highly respected by all who knew him. He was a whole-souled genial gentleman and was conductor on the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad for a number of years. He was about forty-seven years of age. "Peace to his ashes."

Fayetteville--Fire--Marriage.

A fire broke out in Fayetteville yesterday in a house they used to inspect four in, and just below McKeehan's buggy shop. It caused much excitement at the time, as the wind was blowing very hard, but it was soon put out. We learn that a very clever young gentleman in Fayetteville was married Friday night to one of that town's fairest daughters. They met for the first time at a ball and danced together Thursday night. Friday night they were married. Now that's the way to do. Blast these long engagements.

A Thief in a Greenroom.

A thief broke in the greenhouse of J. J. Litchford of this city, one night last week, and stole all the curtains, 25 yards of cloth worth twenty cents a yard, that hung over the glass walls. The greenroom adjoined the kitchen and was the property of Mr. Litchford's daughter. Miss Litchford doesn't so much mind the losing of the cloth, but the scoundrel left the door open, and the cold killed all her valuable plants. Other ladies of the city, we learn, had plants in the same room that were killed.

Appointments of the N. C. M. E. Conference.

We present to our readers some of the appointments of the Methodist Conference at Fayetteville that we succeeded in getting to-day by word of mouth from one of the reverend gentlemen: The Rev. A. W. Mangum returned to Raleigh; Rev. L. W. Crawford of Hillsboro sent to Salisbury; Jos. E. Mann of Fayetteville to Goldsboro; W. E. Thompson Presiding Elder of Shelby District to Fayetteville; W. C. North returned to Shelby. The next Annual Conference will be held in Goldsboro next November, the time to be fixed by the Bishop.

Our State.

Eggs are forty cents per dozen in Wilmington.

The postmaster of Milton thinks he has the horse disease.

DR. BAGBY, the "Moziz Adams" of Virginia, is to lecture on Love in Wilmington.

A CRAZY colored woman in Lenoir county whipped Joseph Williams and his wife severely.

THE Charlotte jailor's account for feeding prisoners from October 18th to November 30th is $324.

THE court house in Kenansville is to be sold at public auction, under foreclosure of mortgage.

HENRY N. BROWN, of Hillsboro, buys hundreds of bushels of peach stones and ships them North.

THIRTEEN hundred and eighty five bales of cotton were brought into Charlotte last week from the country and sold from 17 1/2 to 17 3/4 cents.

THE case of young Kimmons for killing two men near Harrisburg last Summer, was argued for the defence by Vance and Wilson, says the Democrat, and Solicitor Bynum and W J Montgomery prosecuted. He was acquitted on the plea of insanity.

THE Charlotte Democrat says that Mr W A Wilson, the Postmaster at Moresville, Iredell county, N. C., took the first premium on Cotton at the South Carolina State Fair last week. The bale he exhibited was considered the best from South or North Carolina. Mr Wilson raised the cotton himself, and did not buy it for exhibition. He was offered 20 cents per pound for it in Columbia, but refused to sell.

Our City.

New meal at the wagons is ninety cents to one dollar per bushel.

The Hon. W. A. Smith meets with scores of friends of both parties on our streets. Well, his warm heart deserves friends.

Eggs are thirty cents per dozen at the wagons, they are already getting scarce, and a run on the market about now would pay.

We counted sixty bales of cotton in front of two stores on Wilmington street, and about the same number on the cross street that runs into it.

In the House to-day, Mr. Bennett introduced a resolution authorizing the Attorney General to test in the U. S. Supreme Court the matter of the Lee Duolop murder case--why said case is cognizable by the Circuit Court of the United States.

The resolution for the relief of Ex-Gov. Holden, relieving him from the disabilities imposed by the Court of Impeachment, was taken up to-day, but in the absence of its mover, Richard C. Badger, was made special order for the 20th day of January 1873.

The Joint Assembly which met to-day, according to adjournment on the fourth, for the purpose of counting the August vote, again adjourned to meet on the 18th inst., at 12 o'clock P. M. The counties of Macon and Watanga are still to hear from. Gates being defective. As the vote now stands Gov. Caldwell's majority is 2,423.

Personal Intelligence.

Hon. W. A. Smith of Johnston is at the National.

Col. I. J. Young left this morning for Washington city.

Gen. Robert E. Lee's daughter is visiting friends in Paris.

Many Methodist preachers on their way from Conference are at the Yarbore.

Miss Maggie Cameron, of Hillsboro, dined with Miss Jennie Patterson to-day at the Yarbore.

Gen. Sherman is lecturing on his travels among the Greek islands before the Philosophical Society in Washington.

Supervisor Perry left this city for Atlanta Sunday night to suspend a Collector out there for improper official conduct.

A Numerous Father in Johnston.

We met an old gentleman, Mr. A. W. Richardson of Johnston county, in the Collector's office this morning. He had two children with him, and a little girl about 8 years old, and the other a little boy, 5 years old. Now listen: As the old gentleman, aged 71 years, sat with one arm around his tender little boy, he remarked to us that he was a man of family, that he was the father of twenty-five children, six of whom are dead and the nineteen now living at home in Johnston. He left the baby, 3 years old, at home with his mother. Said he, when we spoke of the remote possibility of his having any more, "I am an advocate of good luck, sir, my wife is still a young woman, and I am not a very old man, you may guess at that." As a young man of a small family, myself, we felt a respect for that old man, assimilating that of a Captain of a small company for the Commander and Chief of the United States army.

Miss Patterson.

Miss Jennie Patterson gave her readings last night before quite a flattering crowd at Commons Hall. As usual Miss Jennie charmed her audience. And as for some of the young "members," well! their hearts danced primum primum all the night long.

Twigs.

A rhinoceros belonging to Bailey's menagerie died of the epizootic in St. Louis on Thursday.

Several States are now making efforts to have two-thirds of the jury's opinion constitute the verdict.

A law has just gone into effect in Illinois, which authorizes the appointment of guardians for habitual drunkards.

Here is an Atlanta boy. The Herald gives the following brick specimen: Mrs S---, to her son M---. You must mend your ways. Master M---, replies. Mother, Mr --- will be made chairman of the Street Committee and he promises to mend them for me.

There is a little boy in Macon who can stand on the sole of his head twenty minutes without his liver turning over. This is because he shot his grandmother in the left spectacle with an Alabama sling. His father salted him down so that he can't take his ease in the usual direction, and he gets up on his head to rest himself.

When the fire was sweeping through Pearl street, in Boston, one of the large shoe dealers, seeing that his stock could not be saved, invited the bystanders to help themselves. A policeman, who appeared on the spot, not advised of the invitation, indignantly observed an individual pulling boots, pair after pair, from an open case before him. "Villain!" he thundered, "what are you about?" "Trying to find a pair of eight's," was the mild response.

A sad death in Atlanta from taking too much laudanum is reported in the Herald. Prof. E. F. King, one of the most brilliant portrait artists in the South had come from Rome (Ga.), and engaged with Smith & Motes, photographers of that city. Latterly he took to drinking right hard, and for the past two weeks had been deeply under the influence of liquor. He slept with Mr. Norris of Atlanta, and the other night that gentleman woke up and found King sitting by the fire. King said to him: "I never had my nerves in such a terrible state in my life. I have had to take four hundred and twenty drops of laudanum to quiet myself, and can't get to sleep yet." Mr. Norris remonstrated at this, but the Professor said. "I know exactly how much to take and how much I need." Shortly after this, however, he went to bed and at once dropped asleep. Mr. Norris was awakened at day break by the gasping of the professor and tried to wake him, but couldn't. Dr. Orme was sent for, and had him bathed in hot coffee, rinsed his neck in cold water and forced tepid water down his throat. About eleven o'clock in the day he rallied and raised himself in the bed, and on being asked by Norris, "Do you know me?" Replied, "Oh yes, but I won't take any more of that stuff; if you try to make me, I will knock you down." These were his last words, and almost immediately he fell back and went into the last long sleep. It is certain that he did not intentionally commit suicide.--His brain was befogged with liquor, and he made a simple mistake.

The Funeral of Mr. Greeley.

The high office of President is but a petty and perishing honor to the brilliant apotheosis that Death has given Mr. Greeley. He fell when his fruit was just ripened to please the whole taste of the American people, and every man has gathered him a lap full of Mr. Greeley's virtues and stored them up in the garner house of memory. The great man is now in the grave. All day last Tuesday he lay in state in the City Hall of New York, and at least fifty thousand persons visited his corpse. Laborers flocked in their working clothes, and working girls with baskets on their arms. They stooped down and kissed their best friend's brow. Old man Thurlow Weed tottered in and leaned over the corpse, and gazed long and earnestly into its face, the face of his former associate and the boy playmate of his early days. Mr. Weed is said to have been deeply affected. The coffin was a black one with silver handles, and at the head a portrait of Mr. Greeley as he appeared in life, and a large chaplet of tube roses. He was buried Wednesday. The services were held in Dr. Chapin's church and performed by the Doctor and Henry Ward Beecher. Gov. Hoffman and President Grant were among the first to enter the church. At the rear of the pulpit was a sheaf of wheat from Chappaqua, in the form of a crown, and suspended overhead were a pen and axe. Henry Wilson, Minister Washburne, and Secretary Belknap sat on the right of the pulpit, and Gen. Schurz, Lyman Trumbull and Vice President Colfax took a seat near the President. But with all this pomp it was a spade of the ditcher that dug the grave in Greenwood. Ah, Mr. Greeley would have had it so. He was a laborer himself, one with them, and of them.--And to-day the princes of the earth can't help from doing honor to this great man's memory, because the throne that he sat upon, was the hearts of the laboring classes of America.

Damage to Sweet Potatoes.

The severity of the weather is producing havoc with the sweet potato crop.--We hear of several lots put away in old cellars that have recently gone up. We suppose this is general throughout the State, and if so, it will take a good price to buy them.

Qualified.

T L Banks was qualified to-day as administrator of Lynn Banks, Deputy Marshal, deceased. Sale of his effects at S A Banks' on 30th of January, 1873.

Musical and Theatrical.

Senorita Zoe is still playing to crowded houses in Richmond.

Wilkie Collins' Man and Wife is produced in excellent style as a sensation drama at Wood's Museum in Albany.

The Lizette Bernard Troupe are playing at Masonic Hall, in Danville, (Va.) Tim Morris, the negro character, along with it.

Says the Columbia (S. C.) Union: Mr. Joseph Hart Deuck, of this city, a renowned pianist, has accepted a liberal offer from the Ole Bull troupe, and joined the same for a three months tour.

Dan Rice, John O'Brien and Dr. Spalding have united in the show business, and their "monster aggregation" starts in the Spring. The new company is to carry with it an "itinerant hotel and peripatetic stable."

Mr. Lester Wallack's season at Baltimore was a great success. Among the persons who early secured the opportunity to see him at Washington was President Grant. This being Mr. Wallack's first starting tour, his many friends in this city cannot fail to be gratified with the heartiness of the welcome that is extended to him from other places.

The Herald says: The musical promise in this city is not particularly bright for the next few weeks. Still, we are not to be altogether forgotten.--Luca, in German opera, and the classical concerts, which have only begun their seasons, will go far to fill the void. Then Tamberlick, we are told is coming after his season at Havana is over. We may yet enjoy a season rounded by acceptable performances, though it is likely its success will be found to have depended mostly on the German prima donna.
