THE DAILY ERA.

Vol. 2. Raleigh, Monday Afternoon, January 13, 1873. No. 125.

THE DAILY ERA.

MONDAY, JAN. 13th, 1873.

Local and News Department.

Cotton Market. Up to 4 P. M., to-day there had been 69 bales of cotton brought to this city. Price 18c. Price in New York 20c. Gold at 124.

Cowhiding in Charlotte. We learn that Mr. Tom Tate met old Mr. Gifford on the street in Charlotte yesterday and struck him a few blows with a cowhide. Mr. G. retreated, Mr. G. is a conductor on the Charlotte and Rutherford Road.

Mill Burnt. We learn that the "Old Red Mill," at Linwood, between Lexington and Salisbury, was set fire to last night and destroyed. The property belonged to E. M. Holt, and we understand that some cotton was stored in it at the time.

To the Police—A Boy Lost. Mr. Kernodle of Alamance county has lost his son. The boy ran away from home. The old gentleman has sent us a picture of this youth and you can call at the Era office and get it. He offers five dollars reward, and has heard that his boy is in this city. Come and get the picture and look sharp for the young runaway. His father's address is A. R. Kernodle, Martin's Store, Alamance county.

Train Detained. The mail this morning on the North Carolina road reached this city at 9 o'clock instead of seven. The shoulder of the engine broke at Thomasville and it was sometime before they could patch it up so as to travel. Went slow until reaching Company Shops when got a new engine. President Buford was aboard until they reached Greensboro. There he had to lay over as the Richmond train had gone.

Leasburg—A Centenarian &c. We have news from Leasburg, Caswell county, that Mr. James Shanks, a very old farmer to the county, is very ill, inflammation of the stomach, Mr. Wm. Lea, senior, of Leasburg, is now in his hundred and first year. During the late cold snap he had to have a boy in his room all night long piling up the wood on the fire to keep him from freezing. As old as Mr. Lea is, he never uses specs, and reads the finest print without difficulty.

Northern Visitors. We are pleased to welcome in our city George D. Lobdell, Esq., president of the Lobdell Car Company in Wilmington, Delaware. He is en route for the Chatham iron mines in the operation of which he has made considerable investment. Mr. Wm. A. Brown, of Taunton, Massachusetts, accompanies Mr. Lobdell, his first visit ever made to our Southern country. Mr. Brown says he has realized for the first time the meaning of the term "Sunny South" and is much enchanted with our delightful climate.

The Champion Brood Sow. The sow that beats them all has just been heard from down in Granville county. Mr. James Fuller near Kittrell's, the father of our esteemed friend, the head clerk of the Yarbrough House, has a sow that gave birth the other night to nineteen pigs and they are all doing well. This sow was some of the well known George Johnson stock in Milton and was given Mr. Fuller by Mr. Johnson, who, by the way, his friends will be glad to learn, is in good health and lives near Mr. Fuller's house in Granville county.

Hillsboro—Durham and Ligon—Preaching, &c. Something unusual, about twelve bales of cotton have recently been seen in Hillsboro, raised in Orange county. We hear of one or two farmers around there who have been going it heavy on tobacco, who will plant a half crop of cotton this year. —The Durham liquor sellers were refused license by the board of commissioners of that little town, last week, who thought they had the right to prohibit them; but the liquor men applied to C. E. Parrish, Esq., in Hillsboro, who in looking at the charter for the town of Durham, saw nothing there giving the town commissioners such right, so he went before the board of county commissioners, established the good moral character of the applicants, and as under the old revised code they are required, the commissioners granted the license, and the Durham non liquorists were thrown as high as a kite. They held a meeting right off, and told the county commissioners to look out, they needn't be after getting their votes any more for anything. Durham was as mad as a bull about it and hasn't got pleased yet. The sellers are quietly and pleasantly retailing the fluid. —Dr. Smedes of this city preached at Episcopal Church, last night. And Mr. Harris, new Methodist minister, preached his first sermons in that place, yesterday. The Orange Hotel is giving general satisfaction.

Our State. TARBORO has the whooping cough. KNEE deep to an Indian pony is the mud in Newbern.

CAPTAIN Dalton of Reidsville wants sixty hands for his tobacco factory. Furnishes them cabins. AUNT Diana Lane (colored) of New Hanover was boiling clothes when she was burnt to death. Her dress caught.

NEAL Brawley, 60 years, of Iredell, drowned in Third creek. The water was high, and trying to find the bridge he rode into the creek just above it. SAYS the Statesville American: Our friend, Thomas J. Barkley, and lady, in company with a party of young gentlemen from this section, took their departure for Hillsboro, Ill., last Monday.

SAYS the Newbern Republic: We learn that a "Knight of the Yard Stick" knocked at a church door (while making his New Year's calls) two hours, determined to leave his New Year's card.

A WITNESS when asked by the Mayor of Goldsboro the other day what he knew about the matter, replied: "The fact is, Mayor, I was so drunk at the time that I don't remember much about it; it all seems like a dream."

SAYS the Richmond (Va.) Dispatch: The head of the Department to which the following is addressed would find it harder to explain some of his "irregularities" than did Mrs. S. L. D. Davis why she was no longer "Biggerstaff": "North Carolina Rutherford County Oak Spring, November 2, 1870.—Postmaster-General: Sir,—In obedience to your request I give an explanation why I signed my Quarterly returns S. L. D. Davis formerly S. L. D. Biggerstaff is I have married a Davis. "Very respectfully, S. L. D. Davis."

THE Reidsville Record says: We regret to announce the death of Mr. Drury Smith of this county, by drowning last Friday. Mr. Smith was an old man seventy-two years of age. He was crossing Dan River, near Danbury, the county site of Stokes, when his horse stumbled and fell. The current was so much swollen by the recent rains, that it was impossible for him to regain his footing. His body was discovered some two miles below the ford. He had about one thousand dollars on his person,—thus has passed away an old land mark.

Personal Intelligence. Mr. John U. Kirkland of Hillsboro is at the Yarbrough. Harvey A. Deal, our esteemed young printer, has returned to this office from his visit to Salisbury. Mr. Robert L. Callum, telegraphic Manager in Augusta, has been at his home in Greensboro sick in bed.

The Goldsboro Journal learns that Mr. T. J. Lee of Sampson will become associated with Mr. Turner in the editorial management of the Sentinel. The Statesville American says: We learn that the Hon. John Kerr, of Caswell, has an idea of removing to this place, with the intention of making it his permanent residence.

Mr. Hill, doorkeeper of the House, is in the city. He had a fine time christ-massing up in Randolph, and informs us he killed a mighty buck with six points on one prong and five on the other. The Rev. A. W. Mangum, we regret to learn, continues so much indisposed that he was unable to fill his pulpit at the Methodist church yesterday. Rev. J. B. Bobbitt preached there in the morning and Presiding Elder Bobbitt at night.

The Charlotte Observer pays the following compliment to a young son of Chief Justice Pearson: It will be remembered that Mr. Pearson graduated last June at Princeton, N. J., in a class of more than one hundred, and bore off the first honor, delivering the valedictory address. He was highly complimented by the Northern Press. Mr. Pearson is a young gentleman of unusual talent, and bids fair to reflect some day credit on himself and the State. He is now engaged in the study of law at the school of his father in Yadkin county.

Our City. Charlie Christopher has good tobacco. The weather is so spring like a man feels like jumping up. If you do want a good cigar buy of Walker at the Yarbrough. The two negroes for the Hicks' robbery have not yet been sentenced. The negro for stealing goods from Primrose, Petty & Newsom is being tried to-day in Superior court. A young man named "Chick Boots" broke into the face of Luke Williams yesterday with a pair of brass knuckles. Lovelace Puryear (colored) got three years in the Penitentiary this morning from Judge Watts for stealing some tobacco from C. F. Reams of this city. The ghost mania is already raging at Wilmington and as a sign of its steady approach to this city our ladies have begun telling ghost stories at night. We are expecting the ghost every day.

Twigs. —An Indianapolis girl wants a patent for making squash pies. She sits down on 'em.

The Columbia Union says: The cost to Lexington county for the services of three county commissioners and clerk for the year 1872, was only $612.90; an average of less than $160 each. Where is the county that can beat this?

—A Yankton (Dacotah) sheriff attached a show, in that far away country, the other day, and while tacking up a "sale notice" on the elephant's hind quarters, which the official mistook for a small barn, the animal swung his tail around. Done buried.

—Malone, the gambler, who was sentenced at Atlanta, few days ago, to be hanged on the twenty-fourth of January, received the sentence with perfect coolness, and entertained himself with a newspaper at the conclusion of the judge's remarks.

—Officer in Atlanta blew his whistle for a policeman. Police wouldn't come. He hunted him up and asked why he didn't hearken to the sound of the whistle. Policeman answered that he did, but supposed it was some kind of a bird whistling! Finale—Officer instructing policeman in the call of the whistle.

—In an editorial on the horse disease, Congregationalist suggested that it might be well to sit at the feet of a horse and learn humanity. "Just so," says the California News Letter, "sit down at the hind feet of a mule, and if he don't humiliate you, pull his tail and tickle the inside of his legs with a stable fork!"

The Portland (Me.) Press says: "One of our fruit dealers caught an urchin stealing nuts yesterday, and proceeded to administer condign punishment.—The boy begged to be released, because he had recently been vaccinated fresh from the cow. 'What the — has that to do with it?' should the infuriated fruit dealer. 'She was a hooking cow, and it got into my blood,' was the whimpering reply."

Farm-Yard Scraps. It is a sure sign of an early spring to see a cat intently watching a small hole in the wall.

About bees Mr. Holcomb of Lawrence county, New York, says: Last year bees swarmed unaccountably in August; mine threw off seventeen buckwheat swarms; these were all put back but two which came out while I was away from home. Now the professionals will say you might have avoided all this by cutting out the queen cells. Well, when a swarm did issue, I did cut them out, yet in seven days they would be ready and swarm again, so that the hives would have to be overhauled once in six days, causing a loss of time in filling boxes equivalent to about two days out of the six, so that I prefer to trust to natural swarms, and putting back those I do not wish to keep.

The Lynchburg Republican says:—We were informed yesterday of one of nature's freaks, which has something of the marvelous in its character, but which we have assurance is true in every particular. A week or two since a valuable cow, belonging to Mr. Francis B. Thornton, of Charlotte county, was found dead on his farm, and her body being swollen to enormous proportions, it was determined to open her to discover the cause of her death. The examination resulted in finding two well developed calves in her body, apparently only a day or two from parturition, and the further finding of the remarkable number of one hundred and two calves, of sizes varying from a hen's egg to a man's fist—and all of these exhibiting the formation peculiar to the kind species. This unnatural fecundity was the only cause which could be assigned for the cow's death; and for an explanation of the same the learned savans must be consulted.

Musical and Theatrical. Pauline Lucca is in Boston. The Oates troupe are in Charleston to-night. Joe Jefferson Rip Winkles in Wilmington to-night. Miss Ella Wren has a benefit in Richmond to-morrow night. The Newbern Republic says: We understand that the Pantomime with the addition of acted Charades and new music is to be repeated at the theatre on Wednesday.

Tired. Another man tired. This time Wm. Henry Holland, 17 miles below here, moved to Texas last Spring, and this morning we find him and his little family of children, his wife died out there, coming back to North Carolina, "Tired of living in Texas," he says. Who next?

Red Fox Caught. During Christmas James Cates of Person county, 7 miles from Roxboro, caught a beautiful red fox, his tail as big as your arm and tipped with white, like a lady's cuff, a black spot behind each ear, his legs black nearly to the body, and his body perfectly red. He's a beauty. Mr. Cates has him in a box.

Fists. —Alexander Dumas once wrote of his son: His imagination is the most vivid and the most sustained that I have ever known in a young man of 21 years. It bears away like a torrent; it shines like a half-hidden flame; it reveals itself in reverie as in excitement, in quiet as in danger, in smiles as in tears. From time to time we quarrel with each other, and like the prodigal son, he takes his portion and quits the paternal mansion. On that day I buy a calf and begin to fatten it, sure that before a month he will return to get his part of it. It is true that evil-minded people say that it is for the sake of the calf that he comes back, and not mine; but I am not more than half inclined to believe that."

The Seward house in Washington, where Payne stabbed him, is now occupied by Gen. Belknap, and is said to be an ill-fated house. Gen. Belknap was himself warned of it. Said the man to him: "Belknap, no man ever lived in that house who did not meet with a death, assassination or something." Seward's occupation of the place was a series of misfortunes and deaths. When it was a club-house, the Sickles murder, and a lot of other events of a dark cast, took place in it and about it. The consequence has been that Seward's house has been given up as a residence, and is now one of the military offices. Gen. Belknap has not escaped some of the evil occurrences of the neighborhood, and although he has spent four years dutifully and quietly here, he has lost his wife, and the eldest son is seized with a disorder of the lungs, and has had to go to Santa Fe for recuperation.

We do trust that we will hear no more mention of the old people until a thorough airing has been given to this article that we clip from the Washington Star: The parents and grandparents of Gen. M. D. Leggett, United States Commissioner of Patents, are remarkable instances of human longevity. All of the grandparents of Gen. L. died over ninety years of age; his father and mother are living, and their united ages amount to over 170 years, the former being over ninety and the latter more than eighty years of age. Notwithstanding the great age of the former he enjoys good health, and attends to business as thoroughly and intelligently as he did fifty years ago. He is at present executor of three estates, and on account of his integrity and business ability is frequently requested to act in that capacity by his neighbors in Ohio. He mounts a horse as briskly as a young man of twenty, and rides for hours without apparent fatigue. The only important particular in which he exhibits the effect of age is in his memory, which is somewhat impaired. His consort possesses all her faculties unimpaired by age, her memory reaching back three-quarters of a century, and embracing every political episode within that period. Both bid fair to live for many years to come.

Miscellany. WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The reported consecration of a protestant church within Rome was premature. The ceremony was over a corner stone. The bill calling a Constitutional Convention for Ohio to meet in May, became a law on Saturday last. Despatches West of Chicago, report a thaw with a drizzling rain. Many persons have been frozen to death. A full famine is apprehended. Brow & Jakes paper mill at Amsterdam, N. Y., is burned.

Scene at Chiselhurst. LONDON, Jan. 13.—A despatch to the Agent of the Associated Press at this place, from a friend of the Imperial family at Chiselhurst, gives the following description of the scene there: "The remains of the late Emperor have been placed in a coffin; the corpse is dressed in the uniform of a Field Marshal. The upper lip is bare; the mustache having been cut off to facilitate the taking a plaster cast of the face. The beard which remains is brown and bushy. The features are stern and care-worn, and have an expression of pain. The Grand Cordon of the Legion of Honor lies across his breast. The hands are ungloved and disposed of in an easy and natural manner: the right hand clasping the left. On the fourth finger of the left hand is a ring with several diamonds, placed there by the Empress Eugenie. A small cross of exquisite workmanship lies on his breast; and on the corpse are placed three sprigs of holly. Over the head a crown of violets is suspended. At the foot of the coffin is a brass camp-bedstead, on which is the Emperor died.—Seated on either side and at the lower end of the coffin, are the Priest and the religious. The furniture of the room as well as that of the whole mansion is simple and unostentatious. The body will lie in state until Tuesday in the entrance of the Hall of the Chapel Hill. The general public will not be permitted to review the remains. No change has been made as to the time and place of the funeral and burial as last announced. The ceremonies will probably begin at noon on Wednesday. The Empress is overwhelmed with sorrow, and her prostration is so great as to alarm her attendants. The Prince Imperial does everything in his power to comfort her. The Empress has received letters of condolence from the Czar of Russia, and the King of Italy.—Although none but relatives and intimate friends of the deceased at Chiselhurst is crowded with visitors. Religious services were held this morning in the Chapel, which was filled to repletion. Princess Mathilde, M. Ronher, M. Pietreo, and Drs. Connear and Corvisart were present. Father Goddard attempted to preach, but was so overcome by his feelings, that he was compelled to leave the pulpit. Beneditti arrived at Chiselhurst to-day and was received by the Empress. M. Oliver and Marshal McMahon are expected at 3 o'clock to-morrow. Prince Murat and suite arrived this p. m. A great number of people from France are expected to come to the funeral. The South-eastern and Northern railways of France have reduced their rates of fare for the poorer classes who may wish to attend the funeral.

It is expected that the Prince Imperial has already assumed the title of Napoleon IV. This report is doubtless incorrect; but it is true that the Prince is now addressed as "Sir" by all visitors at Chiselhurst. The impression is gaining ground that the Emperor died from the effects of chloroform, administered to assuage pain.

Napoleon to be Buried in France. PARIS, Jan. 13.—It is said the French government will permit the final interment of the remains of Napoleon in France, if the funeral is made strictly private, and the deceased is buried as ex-Emperor, and not as Emperor. The ceremonies must be simply of a religious character. President Thiers is understood to have conferred with the Minister of Interior and the Prefect of Police, for the purpose of preventing the funeral, if it takes place in France, from being made an opportunity of political manifestations.
