THE DAILY ERA.

Case of George Dowd, colored, for killing his step-father named Davis being tried this morning. A. M. Lewis for prisoner and Gen. Cox and Busbee prosecuting. Mr. Lewis was very severe on one of the States' witnesses whom he styled "the beautiful man all the way from Texas who keeps a grocery at Obolena." We have not heard how the jury decided. Northern Emigrant Agents. This is a free country, and a man ought to have a right to do as he pleases so long as he pleases to do right. But we seriously object to northern agents coming among many of our ignorant people and enticing them to "emigrate," simply so as to sell them a ticket. We are informed that one of these agents had his pocket full of tickets drumming about High Point, and the result was that he got up twelve of the country people to take the cars, buying their tickets first to Richmond and then to Washington city, before they could get to the cheap side of the roads that he represented. This is a strong inducement to many of our country people, who "want a ride anyway," particularly the young men, and they "go West" like they would start to a quilting, and after awhile get back to their homes, if they don't die out there, as best they can, with their thumbs in their mouths. Will our Legislature have an eye to this little matter? Supreme Court. The following cases were disposed of to-day in the Supreme Court: Thos. Robinson, executor, Richmond county, vs. Henry McIver et al, T. S. Ashe for plaintiff, Battle & Sons and J. W. Hinsdale for defendant.—John D. Williams et al, Moore, vs. John D. Council et al, John Manning and I. D. McIver for plaintiff, and Neill McKay, Phillips & Merrimon and B. & T. C. Fuller for defendant.—John McCrumin, Moore, vs. Cyrus Bennett et al, N. McKay & I. D. McIver and B. & T. C. Fuller for plaintiff, and B. I. Howze and A. R. McDonald for defendant. Papers handed up.—Sinclair, Owen and Brown vs. State of North Carolina, Cumberland, J. W. Hinsdale, plaintiff, Attorney General for defendant. Referred to Clerk to find the facts and report to the next term.—State vs. Sam. McMillan et al, Richmond, Attorney General for plaintiff, no counsel for defendant. Argued.—State vs. Joe Patterson, Richmond, Attorney General for plaintiff, and P. D. Walker, and Busbee & Busbee for defendant. Argued.—E. C. McLean, executor, vs. James T. Leach et al, Harnett, Neill McKay for plaintiff, and B. & T. C. Fuller and Moore and Gatlin for defendant. Argued.—McKinnon vs. M. Faulk, administrator, Cumberland, B. & T. C. Fuller for plaintiff and J. W. Hinsdale and C. W. Broadfoot for defendant.—Benjamin Rush et al, vs. Halcyon Steamboat Company, Cumberland, Hinsdale for plaintiff, and B. & T. C. Fuller for defendant. Argued. Squire Lee and the Robeson Outlaw Hunters. James Wilson who took the scalp of Andrew Strong, the Robeson outlaw, started out the other day into South Carolina, looking for the hair of Steve Lowery, and one John Lockyear, who had had a fight some time ago in Robeson county, was indicted for assault and battery and escaped into South Carolina. Now, the sheriff of Robeson county never thought anything wrong, so he started out with Wilson and McClammy, and one Floyd Oxendine, looking for the outlaw and the man that had the fight. They found Lockyear in a house in Marion county, South Carolina, and on demanding admission Lockyear explained by pulling trigger and inserting a rich lead mine into the neck, breast and hands of Floyd Oxendine, and then escaped. But he was overtaken and arrested by Wilson and party, and while bringing him off a South Carolina sheriff who did the collar grabbing for Marion county stepped up and arrested the North Carolina sheriff with Wilson and the other man, and took them before Squire Lee of that county. The squire put his specs on and ordered the unconditional discharge of their prisoner Lockyear, and required Wilson and party to count out six hundred and sixteen dollars and ninety cents before they could turn their noses back to this State. It seems that the sheriff of Robeson acted on the idea that there was an agreement between the Governor of South Carolina and the Governor of this State authorizing officers to cross the lines and make arrests in either State. No such agreement of course exists. But they can be arrested and detained until a requisition from the Governor of the offender's State be obtained.

Our State. At Hamburg in Surry county corn sells for 65 cents in goods. Mr. Hinson of Wilkes watered his liquor too much and froze as hard as an ice pond Christmas day. JOHN Pettecord the stage driver between Statesville and Hamptonsville froze to death while holding the reins during the cold spell. AN old colored lady has died in Wilmington aged one hundred and sixteen years who was a sweet sixteen in the old revolution war. Mr. Long of the Newbern Liberal, a preacher, and Mr. Leach of Johnston county a member, both of the Methodist church, are slinging ink at each other, brother Long through his own paper and brother Leach through the Sentinel. They put it mild. One likens the other to a "bellowing broad horned steer." LAWSON Forney, colored, in Rutherford county, reads the law every night before he goes to bed. According to the law he gave his wife Laura a genteel brushing over with a bunch of hickories. His head is now as bald as an egg. Laura heated some water that night and after he got to sleep she took the wool of some as she cleaned a hog. He just went to urge him, Capt. Wilkins did, to urge him to work faster, but he stuck his spade out too far and struck the colored man behind the ear, as he was at work on a wrecked freight train on the Columbia and Augusta Railroad, and laid him out dead upon a cotton bale. The opinion of the hands is that it was an accident. Capt. Wilkins was the section master. KINCHY Ann Edwards, the white woman who was turned out of the penitentiary the other day, entered the office in this city of the Biblical Recorder, and thus introduced herself to brother Mills: I am the woman that stole your bowl and towel, and was put in the Penitentiary for it. I staid there two years and a month. Now I am done drinking, done cursing, done stealing, and am going to do better. A man promised to marry me. Virginia was born before I was 13 years old. THUS brother Mills of the Recorder (Baptist) to brother Bobbitt of the Advocate (Methodist):—The editor of this date, gets happy, because a little tomtit Baptist preacher, away over in England, forsook his faith, and repeated some of that same old slang against the Baptists. Why, we have a dozen more of the same sort left, and intend to send them over to any sect that wants them, just as soon as we possibly can prevail on them to leave. Our City. He is smoking himself to death. All his friends say so. Three ears of pop corn sell for five cents in the market house. "Yes, he's a mighty clever fellow, but" (and right here he spoils it all). The store doors in Raleigh are musical with the twitterings of canary birds. Raccoon perch, seven in a bunch, are worth forty cents a string in this city. His little dog's name is Tige and his wife and children are right jealous of Tige. Nearly ninety members in the House to-day. Impeachment of a Cherokee Solicitor introduced. Just as soon as they are loose from their mothers they go to sucking the end of a five cent cigar. Old papers for sale at this office. Five papers and a stout twine string warranted to make a good bundle. Did you ever go up to a bug and feel it to see if it was a bug. Well, that is what the matter with your nose. Gov. Caldwell has pardoned a man named Chastain in the Jackson county jail for four months for stealing a bushel of Irish potatoes. If you have to search all over this city don't stop till you buy the Durham Smoking Tobacco. It is so superior to any of the other brands. Reck not for the hot breath of a clapper-clawing partizan rabble. If you be in Power act as the God within teaches. Better to register yourself with eternity than with men. Our legislators are here. We felt lonesome without them. The holiday enjoyment fresh upon their cheeks, and it's beautiful to see them treasuring up themselves in the Capitol. Musical and Theatrical. Mme. Parepa-Rosa has been spending her Christmas on top of one of the pyramids. Madam Jenny Lind-Goldschmidt lately sang in the choir of the American chapel at Florence. James W. Wallack, the actor, is in bad health, and has been compelled to retire from the stage for a time. Mme. Thalberg has obtained permission to keep her late husband's embalmed body in a glass case at her father's villa near Naples. Asheville has an amateur company playing there. "Toodles" and "Aunt Charlotte's Maid" and "Bolts and Bars" are performed before the tallow candle foot lights.

Twigs. There is an unmailable letter in the Richmond (Va.) postoffice for Wm. Dixon, Milton, N. C., care of M. McGee. Henry Ward Beecher says: "Don't whip the children if they snigger and laugh during prayers. I don't think it hurts a prayer to laugh." A Breton peasant, on his way to Paris, stopped at a barber's shop in Rambouillet. While barber was strapping his razor the peasant noticed a dog sitting near his chair and staring at him fiercely. "What is the matter with that dog?" "That dog is always there. You see, when I cut off an ear—" "Well?" "Well, he eats it." A secession colonel in this State, who was an original fire eater, toted out his regiment of homeguards during the recent war, and the fire got so hot that he sheltered himself behind a tree. "Hello, colonel," cried the general, "I thought you were a fire eater." "So I was," said he, poking his head around, "but I did not wish to be a burned glutton." Captain Judkins of the Cunard line had a rough, blunt way about him, but it was reserved for a lady to take him down a button hole. On one of his latest voyages he had among the passengers Bishop Littlejohn and wife, of Long Island. Mrs. Littlejohn one day being near the commodore, asked him if it was going to rain. "Ask the cook," was the bluff reply. "I beg pardon," said Mrs. Littlejohn, "am I not speaking to the cook?" "Gentlemen," said a peripatetic lecturer to a somewhat noisy crowd, "how would you like a good blackguard story? All in favor will raise your hands." A thousand paws went up in the air. The lecturer went on with his original subject for a few minutes, when some fellow sung out, "Say, whar's that story?" "Bless you," was the reply, "I didn't intend to tell you any such story, I only wanted to know how many blackguards were present." You could have heard a pin drop in that crowd. Personal Intelligence. Col. Thomas B. Long of Salisbury is at the National. Fabius Johns, a prominent farmer in this county, is very sick. Dr. Burke Haywood attending him. Commodore Stanley of the United States Navy, from Norfolk (Va.), is stopping at the Yarboro. All of 'em are here. We hain't time this morning to write the names of all the members who have arrived. The ladies of the Presbyterian Church in Hillsboro will give a dinner to the Sunday School children in that town to-morrow. Mr. Allen Montgomery, member from Montgomery, arrived in the city and is stopping at Mrs. Rowes. He is still suffering from sore eyes. A correspondent informs us that the Rev. Jacob Henry Smith of Greensboro has recently preached five very impressive sermons in the town of Milton. Mrs. ex-President Tyler has become a resident of Georgetown for the winter. Mrs. Tyler is a convert to Romanism, and she has placed her daughter at school in the convent. A Washington correspondent says: "Senator Pool has many influential friends who claim for him a seat in the next Cabinet. No Southern Senator did more than Mr. Pool in breaking up the ku klux in the South. If the South is represented in the Cabinet Senator Pool is the proper man." Helping Along. Now it is a mighty general custom with us in the South to say, "Well, he's a good, clever man, I believe I'll patronize him, just to help him along."—That's not business. If you want to "help him," give him something, send him money or a barrel of flour, but don't go and buy him, or put up at a hotel with him, or send to school to him, or subscribe to his paper, just to help him along. There's something Quixotic about that notion, and nine times out of ten, when we hear a man speak of it, but has a down-cast look; weight about 150 pounds; is quite intelligent and inclined to argue for his opinions. jn15-4w Salisbury Watchman and Statesville American copy four weeks and forward bill to Executive Department. CHURCHILL, City Treasurer. jan15-3d. A Valentime Vox among Us. Professor Hicks, who sells medicines in this city, is a ventriquist and a kind of Valentime Vox in the practice of his talent. Sometime ago he went into the store of one of our best old grocers in this city and asked for a box of some kind that the old man kept up stairs. It was Monday evening and as Hicks called out he went half way up, Hicks called out in his own voice, "Who's that up there?" Then in his assumed voice he said, "It's me, I've been here since Saturday night." The old man grew nervous, "Wha-a-t did he say?" asked he of Hicks. Hicks didn't answer, but called out again to the fellow, "Ain't you cold up there?" "Yes, I'm dev'lish cold," said the fellow. "Cold, is he?" said the old merchant, "ah ha, I'll cold him, please you stay here while I go for the police." They both went down stairs and Hicks stood in the store door while the old man ran and got two policemen. Hicks saw them coming and left the store as they came in. The old man had the police up stairs pitching barrels, turning over boxes, &c., and they were dirty and dusty and looking about with all their might, as his son came in, and seeing Hicks standing around in front of the store, he told his father, it was Hicks, that he was a ventriquist, and had played him his trick. "The same way he went into the Register of Deeds Office and made a rat squeal like the mischief. The clerks all got sticks and the Register the tong, "a rat, kill him, kill him," cried the Register, "he'll get in my papers and cut 'em all to pieces," and at it they went till Hicks laughed right out and let out the joke. We want Hicks to go into the legislature some day and break up the "harmony," by calling out when some member gets up to speak, "Oh, you're all gas," or "it's a lie," "sit down," "dry up," &c. And then throwing his voice into some pensive looking member's bosom, make him say, "I'm responsible, Mr. Speaker, for what I say." Wouldn't it be a nice row? Chapped Hands, face, rough skin, pimples, ringworm, salt-rheum, & other cutaneous affections cured, and the skin made soft and smooth, by using the JUNIPER TAR SOAP, made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York. The Purest and Sweetest Cod Liver Oil is Hazard & Caswell's, made on the sea shore, from fresh, selected livers, by CASWELL, HAZARD & CO., New York. It is absolutely pure and sweet. Patients who have once taken it prefer it to all others. Physicians have decided it superior to any of the other oils in market. 93-12w. NEW ADVERTISEMENTS. A PROCLAMATION! Remains of Napoleon III. LONDON, Jan. 15.—The remains of Napoleon will lie in State until the hour for commencement of the funeral ceremonies. At noon on yesterday the public were admitted to the chapel; and at midnight ten thousand persons had viewed the solemn scene, including the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Edinburgh. President Thiers has granted leave of absence to Admiral Rigault Genolli, Marshal Bazaine, the Duke of Palako, and Gen. Froissard, to attend the funeral at Chiselhurst. The application of two Majors in active service for similar leave, was refused. The Italian government has sent four officers to represent that government to-morrow. Seven persons were burned to death in the Litchfield fire. From Chiselhurst. LONDON, Jan. 15.—A dispatch from Chiselhurst this morning says an immense crowd of persons are collecting there to witness the funeral procession of Napoleon. One thousand metropolitan policemen line the roadway leading from the house where the Emperor died, to the chapel where the funeral services are to take place. Flags are displayed at half-mast, and the bells are tolling. Second Wharton Trial—Death of an Officer of the Court. ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 15.—A jury has been obtained in the Wharton case and the trial has commenced. The Deputy Sheriff, who has a brother on the jury, was drowned last night, and the Attorney General prosecuting has been called away on account of death of his mother-in-law. Two Senators for Louisiana. NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 15.—The People's Legislature elected Col. W. L. McMullen U. S. Senator to succeed Mr. Kellogg.
