The Governor yesterday issued a commission for Major Wm. M. Robbins of the seventh Congressional District as member of the 43d Congress.

Turpentine.

The turpentine interest in this county and Johnston is on the wane, owing to a decline in price. Some failures are contemplated. A good many distilleries are closing the business.

Wheat.

Prospects for a wheat crop are very deficient, owing, we suppose, to the many freezes we have had. Fears are entertained that a stand will not be had. You can scarce see the wheat.

Two Deaths in Morganton-One from Paralysis.

From our correspondent this morning we are informed of the death in that town on Sunday night, the 26th inst., of Mrs. Fanny Tate, wife of J. K. P. Tate, Esq., and daughter of Henry F. Bond, Esq., formerly of Kinston, this State. Also on yesterday morning, Dr. Samuel Tate, one of the oldest and most worthy and useful citizens of the place, died in Morganton from the effects of a paralytic stroke that he had some five Farmer Smith.

We notice hanging in front of the Yarborough House one of the finest quarters of beef we have seen this season. It comes from the farm of Hon. W. A. Smith, of Johnston, who has many more of the same sort, besides good horses, mules, hogs and sheep. That same old dinner horn he just fetches a blast on, and you'll see 'em all prick their ears and start for "feed time," like the people did last summer, to vote for him, when he blowed it so pretty through this section. Those gentlemen who lost their stake on Sion Rogers cannot fail to appreciate this "tenderline" notice acknowledging

What is Suicide? For instance, the man Thomas Law rence, who deliberately killed himself in this county the other day, by cutting down a tree and lying down under it as it fell, had an uncle, Henderson Wilson, of Chatham, who hung himself in a barn, and although Mr. Lawrence was known to be a good and correct man, and just a few days before he killed himself in this way, bought a piece of land, and made the calculation himself vet his mind was continually running upon suicide, and he once pointed to a deep hole in the creek and told his wife "he would be glad to be away down there fastened to the roots of the tree that grew in it, so he would never get out," And several times he told his friends and neighbors that he knew suicide was a sin, but that "everybody he had ever read of or heard of who had killed himself, was in his mind and he couldn't get it out." What is it, a dis-

Dr. George W. Graham.

We are glad this young practitioner has settled in our midst. His speciality is the Ear and Eye. Dr. Graham is a young graduate of the first distinction, and was considered first in his class in New York. We will tell this on the young man, he doesn't know we know it, and but few know it any way. There is an old white woman in Orange county called Sue Mason. She had a cancer on her upper lip, and we had given her up, ourself, and so had nearly everybody else. A few weeks after Dr. Graham's return from Atlanta, we noticed this old creature, and to our surprise, the cancer was entirely cured up! We asked her about it and she told us that this young doctor had prescribed the medicine, and bought it himself for her, and her lip was as clean as if WM. G. HILL LODGE, No. 218-R H shaved with a razor. Not a half dozen people know that she owes this debt of gratitude to Dr. George Graham. We take pleasure in telling it. See his corner Dawson and Martin streets. Meets card in this paper. His office is over Pescud's Drug store.

Two happy families in Cleaveland, Ohio. The Cleaveland Herald says: A telegram from Detroit Tuesday afternoon, stated that the second prize, of $20,000, in the lottery drawing in that city, had been drawn by a Cleveland woman. The lucky ticket was owned jointly by Mrs. Hugger and Matthias Curth. The latter is a saddler at 310 Woodland avenue, and the husband of the woman keeps a saloon near by .-The ticket was bought more in jest than in soberness, but the holders are of the opinion that ten thousand dollars apiece is a joke that they can enjoy with a keen relish. There was great rejoicing Tuesday evening.

And after they got in the carriage, fellow poked his head in and whispered to the bride, Got a ready made one that'll just suit him. Beautiful fit-beautiful!" Groom got his dander up and asked bride who the fellow was. Fair thing blushed deep and replied she believed he was some kind of an undertaker. Been no what you might call a clear clean honeymoon betwixt 'em since. Like to see a man earnest in his business. But that undertaker was entirely too fast.

" To scrape acquaintance" comes to us from the Roman Emperor Adrian: He was at the public baths one day, when he saw one of his veteran soldiers scraping his body with a tile.-That was such a poor luxury that Adrian ordered that his old comrade should be supplied with more suitable cleansing materials, and also with money. On a subsequent occasion, when the Emperor again went to the bath, the spectacle before him was highly amusing. A score of old soldiers who had fought under Adrian were standing in the water, and each was currying himself with a tile and wincing at the self-inflicted rubbing. The Emperor perfectly understood what he saw and what was the purpose of the sight. "Ha! ha!" he exclaimed; "you had better scrape one another, my good fellows." He added: "You certainly shall not scrape acquaintance

recorded by the civil surgeon of Hogshungabad, says the Indian Medical Gazette. A young woman named Nunnee, age 24, was married some twelve years ags; she, however, did not go to her husband's house for two years afterwards. After staying with him for eight days, she suddenly became insensible, and remained so for two or three days. She was taken back to her mother, and soon got well. Then follows a very remarkable history. During the next four or five years she never entered her husband's house without falling insensible, and remaining so. He was very kind and attentive to her; she liked him, but whenever he came into her presence she at once sank into this state. This went on till she became emaciated and exhausted, and at last her parents applied to court for a separate maintenance for her. While she was in court the husband entered, of L. C. Taylor. The property consists and she instantly became insensible, and was carried to the hospital, where the case was carefully attended to by Dr. Cullen, in March last year. While in this state her pulse was even, breathing soft, her body pliant, but she could eat nothing. Experiments were careabout it. While she was in bed, her husband was muffled up, and made to walk through the ward. She said she felt that he was near her and she was him anywhere about. Next day this experiment was repeated, and she actually became insensible as before. They tried all sorts of experiments and the conclusion was that the husband unconsciously mesmerized her. Court
