The Modoc Indians.

The latest advices from the seat of war indicate nothing new in the situation save that the army appears not to know exactly where the Indians are. General Schofield telegraphs that he thinks they are still in the lava beds, and have not made their escape as was reported day or two ago. A skirmish fight came off the other day in which five or six Indian warriors were killed, to a trifling loss on the part of the troops. This reduces the fighting force of Captain Jack to something near fifty warriors. We shall see now whether a handful of bug-eating Indians can successfully, or for States army.

of the Republican Party.

A correspondent expresses himself in this issue of the Era on the necessity of keeping up the party lines and organization of the Republican party. He is called out by an article in a late issue of the Goldsboro News recommending the abolition of caucuses as one of the systems of party organization.

The correspondent of the Era is correct, and his communication will be read with interest and profit. It is the opinion, however, that the Editor of the News did not intend to urge the abandonment of the Republican organization, and upon reflection he will doubtless be convinced of his error in regard to the caucus, for however much we may dislike them in some of their details and effects, they are part and parcel of a very necessary party machinery lu government like this, and until the country shall have adopted cumulative suffrage, if it ever
