Mr. Alexarder opposed the bill. Ho considered it unwise for the State to build railroads in the present condition f the treasury. He saw no advantage to accine to the State from this work, and thought it better to relinquish the State's interest in it and let the bondholders go ahead and make the most of it. He d-cidedly objected to empowering townships and counties to issue interest-bearing bonds, as crippling the educational interests of the State, for upon the township system of taxation only could the people rely for the education of their children. He feared the present demand of this Company to be mere entering wedge, and felt sure that the work, before completed, would cost the State some four millions of

The agent of the Hamburg line of packets waited upon Mrs Taylor, and off red a free passage for herself and family to accompany her husband's co.pse. Mrs. Taylor has accepted the sind offer. Mr. Taylor's body is expected to arrive at New York at end of this month.

Brignoli "Fare ti ee Well."

Washington Post, A vast crowd stood upon the pier and sadly gazed upon the ship tuat was bearing Signor Brignoli from our shores. It was a touching exhibition of that delicate sentiment that creditors and constables entertain towards a departing patron. The melancholy reection of this mournful crowd was that the great tenor had played a base part, and that they wanted no more of his high notes and lordly airs.
