JOHN B. HUSSLY, - Fditor.

Nothing of late that has occurred in the United States Senate shows so much the parrow-mindedness and meanness of the Republicans in that body as the fuss over giving Jeff Davis. as one of the Mexican war veterans, a pension. School boys would not be guilty of such petty meanners and spite. The question of including Davis among the rest of those who fought in Mexico, as a pensioner, had nothing whatever to do with the Rebellion, and the sum he would have received if the bill had passed, was too hisig iffeant to be thought of for a moment. No one supposes Mr. Davis is more to be blamed for secession than thousands of others, or, in fact, than the mass of the Southern people. Many of those who were as active as he was, or ni we active, in bringing about secession have become Federal officeholders and mem bers and Sera'mrs in Congress. Mosby, the Confederate gueritla general, and pets of the Republican party, and have been honored with prominent public offices. Then, the war is long past, and the Confederate States and citizens have been restored to their privileges. Why, ther, single out Davis for attack? He was but one of millions in a great movement, and only the creature of it, however, reprehersible it may be regarded. Had the Republican Senators possessed a spark of magnenimity, or even of common sense, they would not have raised a question that had nothing to do with the Rebellion. The truth is, they wished to defeat the Mexican soldiers persion bill, which they had previously passed, and made this an excuse. Their object, too, was to revive the sectional and war feeling.
