About Dogs.

Yesterday as Mr. Charles G. Latta was passing Mr. Peck's, on the corner of Wilmington and Morgan streets, a fearful buli-dog rushed out and attacked him, and ran against him with such violence as to knock him down, when the dog at once made an effort to seize hum by the throat, and was only prevented by the tamely aid of Mr. Len. H. Adams, who happened to be near We understand Mr. Laita was very much hurt by the colusion and Such dogs should not be allowed The to uve in the city. They are not only a misance but a uangerous and threatening menase to the public. It is a falacy and a reliection upon the authorities of this orderly and well-governed city, to pretend that there is any necessity for keeping such dogs for the protection of persons or property. We understand there are a number of them in the city and they should be looked after at once. There should be an oromance passed, outlawing them and authorizing their destruction by any one, if found on the streets, and the owner fined one hundred dollars, and on failure to pay to be put in the chain gang an . made to work it out on the streets, and the dog kliled. What is human life worth as compared with the fancied notions of men about these fearful creatures ? The lives of our wives and children are in constant danger, so long as one of them remains in the city. We are therefore for killing the last one of thein, or placing such fearful penalties upon them and their owners as will make it a dangerous thing to own one, or for one to be seen on the streets.

THIEVES AGAIN.

The House of Mr. Weathers--- In the Dead of Night-The Window Smashed in--- The Young Ladies Shrick With Fear.

It would seem that there is a regularly organized band of robbers in this city, but they are evidently green at their business. Each attempt, so far, has proven fruitless. On Thursday night the house of Mr. C. H. Weathers, a merchant on Blount street, and one of the old and esteemed citizens of Raleigh, was settled upon as the place of attack. Mr. Weathers' house and store join each other; his bed room is connected with his store by a door ; just opposite his room and across the hall is the sitting room and sleeping apartment of his daughters, there is a win- the return of one who had been West dow on the south side of this room. About 3 o'clock in the morning the thieves began their work. From tracks rich soil, the cheap land and other adon the front porch it appears that they tried the two front windows to effect an entrance, but failing, they mounted the side fence and creeping on the top they reached the side window to the room in which the young ladies were sleeping. The blinds were open but the window was fastened. They attempted to prize it open, but again were thwarted. They were determined to enter. Smash went the window sash. ladies, who, shrieking with fright, rushed for hugging a married lady.

M. Renan, the French literateure, has a large head, chiefly remarkable for the smite-half good-humored, half sarcastic-which plays upon his lips Watson's when his interest is aroused. The general expression is one of comfortable good will toward all men.
