Washington Star. The elever romancer who enacted the story about the Australian man of science who by the use of a certain drug suspended animation in animals, and then transported them in a frozen state for long distances, reviving them by means of another drug when required for use, must be pleased at the circulation which his bit of fiction has obtained, as well as amused at some of the comments upon it, affirming belief or disbelief in its statements. The fact which seems to have done the most to convince commentators that they were considering the work of an Australian Poe is the incompatibility between the freezing of the entire body and the existence of life. It is pointed out that as the blood in this experiment must remain in the body and unchanged, it would when fozen occupy one-sixth more than its usual room, that is, would fracture its containing vessels as water does our pipes.

----Human Benefactors.

Those who improve the quality of our duly food become hum in benefactors, By laborious experiments, Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder has been perfected. Great care is taken in selecting irgredlents, so that when used in our food it will render it wholesome. Eminent chemists advise its use.
