The New Orleans Republican concludes an article on the situation : Gov. Packard has patiently waited day by day for that aid which, according to his understanding of the Constitution of the United States, was his unquestionable due, and failing to receive this aid his choice now rests between submission to force and resorting to civil strife. In such a dilemma there is but one course for patriotic citizens, and such Gov. Packard has always shown him-

Southern policy in the New York Times. The Baltimore American says of it: "It the Queen to obtain Her Majesty's sancis very bitter and caustic, but the writer tion. seems to have forgotten that circumstances have changed since the end of the war." No information can be obtained regarding the balance unexpended for rivers and harbers. All paragraphs on this matter have been based upon favorable hearing accorded to persons in favor of special in-terests. The War Department takes special pains to conceal its intentions.

The President seemed glad to hear how well Georgia was getting along.

Mr. Blaine says the story that he intends to introduce a resolution in the next Congress questioning Haves's election is the

Mr. Stephens rode out to-day and called on Speaker Randall, Mr. Adams, Clerk of the House, and the President, who came to the portico of the White House and conversed with Mr. Stephens, who remained in his carriage. It was the first meeting of these gentlemen, and the conversation

Washington, April 23.-Reports relative to farm animals, as received at the Department of Agriculture, show a general exemption from diseases among cattle with a few exceptions, and a more than average healthfulness and thrift, especially in the region north of the thirty sixth degree of latitude. In the milder region where shelter is not provided, emaciation and death are not unfrequently reported. In one county in Georgia (Taylor), 150 of a herd of 500 were lost. From the Alleghanies, occasional cases of lung fever are reported from northern latitudes. From the South more frequent mention of similar diseases and local losses from blind staggers and less frequent loss from glanders, and in the Mississippi Valley a few cases of charbon. Sheep are generally in good condition. In Southern California flocks are dying from drought, and in some places are sold to go to Oregon and Nevada for thirty-seven cents per head. The osses of swine have been very heavy in the West and South, particulars of which will be given in another report. Cases of abortion are scattered through the dairy districts in no greater numbers than usual, and local losses are reported in the South from dis-cases resulting from missma and lack of nutrition. Such losses vary from 2 to 20 per cent, in the counties of the Guli States, and from 5 to 25 per cent in certain counties in Texas. No prevalent disease is reported among the horses.
