FORTY-FIFTH CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8-SENATE.-Mr. Edmunds, of Vermont, said that there were no joint rules between the two Houses of Congress, and he, therefore, submitted a concurrent resolution declaring that on the last three days of this session no bill passed by either House shall be sent to the other for its concurrence, and on the last day of the session no bill shall be sent to the President for his approval. He said he hoped that the resolution would be passed, and Congress devote the last three days of the session to the consideration of bills pending between the two Houses. Referred to the Committee on Rules.

Mr. Thurman submitted a resolution to admit to the privileges of the floor of the Senathe Chamber Mr. George Bancroft, the historian who was Secretary of the Navy under President Polk. Agreed to.

Mr. Conkling, from the Committee on Judiciary, reported adversely on sundry bills touching the compensation of Clerks of the Districts and Circuit Courts of the United States, and they were indefinitely postponed. He also reported from the same committee adversely on the House bill providing for the judicial ascertain ment of claims against the United States, and it was indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Grover arising to a personal expla nation, read a telegram recently published in the New York Herald, in regard to the Oregon State funds amounting to about $97,000 being expended and not accounted for during the administration of Grover as Governor. He replied to the charges seriatim, denying their truth fulness and quoting from the laws and State records to show that all money had been properly expended.

At the expiration of the morning hour the Senate resumed the consideration of the bill to amend the patent laws, and Mr. Wadleigh, of New Hampshire, in charge of the bill took the floor, but soon after he commenced his remarks a message was re ceived from the House announcing the death of Hon. Julian Hartridge, of Georgia. Messrs. Gordon, Booth and Beck were appointed a committee on the part of the Senate to arrange for the funeral and to accompany the remains to Georgia. The Senate then (at 1:10 p. m.) on motion of Mr. Edmunds, as a further mark of respect to the memory of the deceased, adjourned until to-morrow. House-In the opening prayer the Chaplain alluded in a feeling and solemn manner to the death this morning of Mr. Hartidge, of Georgia, and immediately after the reading of the Journal official an nouncement of his death was made by Mr. Cooke, of Georgia, who offered a resolu tion expressing the regret of the House and providing for the appointment of seven Members and three Senators to take order for superintending the funeral and to escort the remains of the deceased to his late residence in Georgia. The Speaker ap pointed as such Committee on part of the House Messrs. Cooke, of Georgia, Frye, of Maine, Cox, of New York, Cabell, of Virginia, Stone, of Iowa, Davidson, of Florida, Hanna, of Indiana, The House then adjourned

Washington, D. C., January 8, 1879. -The House Naval Committee this morning examined a number of experts called at the instance of Mr. Wood, ex chief of the Bureau of Steam Engineering, U. S N., to refute a charge of his having used an obsolete form of boiler in naval vessels, viz: those known as water leg boilers. Messrs: Farron, consulting engineer for John Roach & Morgan Iron Works; Erastus W. Smith, superintendent for Providence and Stonington Steamboat Com pany; David Smith, Chief Engineer U. S. N.; Geo. B. Whiting, Engineer U. S. N., engaged for many years in designing naval machinery, and B. F. Gorvin, Chief Engineer of Kittery Navy Yard, and during the war Chief Engineer of the North Atlantic Squadron, all testified to preference for water leg boilers on account of durability and facility for repair. The difference between the cost of water bottom and water legged boilers was not material. WASHINGTON, January 8.—Representa-his regret that the severe weather prevents his attendance, and offers some reflections upon the toast of the "Jacksonian Democracy" on which the Senator had been appointed to speak. He writes: "I wish to recall attention to some of the most marked characteristics of the Democracy of the time of Andrew Jackson. I refer to the time when he was a candidate for the Presidency, and when he filled toe Presidential chair.

First, The Democracy were then eminently, if not pre-eminently, distinguished by their devotion to the union of the States, South and North, East and West.

That sentiment was cherished by every true Democrat. Subsequent events chill ed, and at length for a time suspended it in the South, but the happiest circumstance of our present condition, thanks to the influence of Democratic principles, is that the love of Union is everywhere restored, and that its preservation is a fixed principle of the Democratic party in the Secondly, The party was equally dis-tinguished by its love of the Constitution.

It sought to preserve it in all its vigor and beneficence by giving to it a national and rational interpretation, and it battled man-fully and constantly against those latitu-dinarian constructions that threatened to convert the Government into an unlimited centralized despotism, and on the other hand against all the vices that menaced the existence of the Union; and permit me to say that the principles of the Jacksonian

Democracy in this respect are as impor-

They could not be otherwise, for the very foundation of the party was the doctrine of equal rights. By whatever names they may have been called, there have been and perhaps ever will be but two great parties in America, the Democratic party asking nothing but equal rights, and the opposing party, whose leaders have ever sought, and ever will seek, the special privileges created by law. Who can forget the great battle fought by the Democracy under the lead of Jackson tion of capital and privilege than was presented by that institution, is now impend will be answered as it ought to be, and the Democrats of to-day will prove themselves to be what their fathers were, true men.

They will be earnest but not rash, determined but not unreasonable, destructive of return to the economical principles and practices of Jacksonian Democracy? These points, few in number, but transcendent note for the consideration of our friends.
