BELIEVED THAT THE PLACE WILL BE GIVEN TO SENATOR RANSOM.

MR. WILSON DOESN'T WANT IT.

The Vance Memovial in the House Comes off suturday and Woodard, Henderson and Crawford will Speak -- The Williams-Settle Case has been Postponed Again to Give Way for the Appropriation Bills---Rumors of Cabinet Changes Again Afloat.

Special to the News and Observer.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 20 The goss p about the Mexican ministership is gradually dying out. It is said that Mr. Wilson, of West Virginia, would like to have the place, but he said in a talk with a Mississippi member that he did not wish to go out of this country. Nearly every member of the Senate signed the petition in favor of Senator Ransom. The whole delegation in the House did so, and about thirty private telegrams from members of the House were sent to the President.

Many people say that Cleveland will now show to Mr. Ransom his apprecia tion for the way the Senator has stood by him. Many think that Senator Ran-som did himseif more injury by his close stand to Cleveland than by any action in his career. The only other probable name for this position is that of Con-gressman Cooper, of Indiana, ex Minister Gray's native State.

The Indiana delegation has sent a petition to the President and the majority of them here called in person.

The President had a number of callers yesterday among them being Speaker Crisp and senators Jones, Vilas, Palmer. Faulkner and Call. The chief subject of course was the silver bill and its chances. but it is known from a remark made by Senator Call that the President mentioned something about the ministership.

Mr. Faulkner admitted that the President said "Minister Gray's funeral was yesterday."

The President has it in mind and it is thought to be a sure thing for Ransom. The report sent out by a Washington correspondent a few days ago stating that Senator Ransom had called on the President was erroneous and was flatly denied by friends of the Senator.

Injury to Railway Employes.

A bill making railway corporations liable for injuries to their employes, not withstanding the old common law doctrine of co-employment, has been introduced in the House by Representative McEttrick, of Boston. Mr. McEttrick comes from a State which has for several > very little Vance Memorial Day.

The Vance memorial in the House comes off on Saturday. It will not be known until the speeches are delivered who will make them. The only ones as yet that I have been told were certain are those of Messrs. Woodard, Henderon and Crawford.

Mr. Henderson was quite busy in his room last night writing his eulogy. Mr. Henderson since he was a boy had known Mr Vance, and his speech will be full of personal recollections.

The Naval Committee did not finish the appropriation bill till this afternoon, and, upon its passage, a motion was made to take up the Williams Settle elec tion case, but the report of the confer ence on the diplomatic bill being a privilege report was considered, and it is understood there will be no objection of consideration to-morrow. Mr Bunn asked unanimous consent to take it up after disposal of the conference report, but Mr. Dalzell, of Pennsylvania, at the request of Settle, objected.

The item which your correspondent sent about Congressional stationery has been misunderstood. The $125 a year which is given each member for sta tionery is meant to be for postage as well. The items that some men had well. created at the Capitol book store it is true did not amount to more than $1, but those members bought other sta tionery and paid cash for it.

Mr. Smith Williams, who held a position in the Census office and who was a most popular boy among his associates, left yesterday for North Carolina. Mr. Williams has been studying law during his stay here. He is a grandson of Judge Richmond Pearson.

Mr. Crawford has not yet decided when he will go to North Carolina. He has a number of matters to look after before going home, and it is probable he will be here for several weeks. Mrs. Crawford and the baby will both remain here with him. Gen Cox, Secretary of the Senate, will leave Washington for North Carolina at the close of the session. He will be off and on here during the summer. He will go to Raleigh immediately after adjournment of Congress.

Among the ladies who will assist in same thing. receiving the guests of the Southern Re-lief Society are: Miss Herbert, of Ala-bama; Mrs. Secretary Carlisle, of Kentucky, and Mrs. Vance, of North Carolina. * * *

Dr. Albert Anderson, of Wilson, and Dr. Pate, of Richmond county, who have been here in the United States Marine Hospital studying Bacteriology left this afternoon for their homes in North Caromaa.

NO FREE COINAGE MEASURE.

Friends of the Bill Ask That it be Laid Aside in Order That Appropriation Bills May be Considered -- The Discussion Continued at Some Length--He explained his belief, and hoped Indian Appropriation Bill Taken Up and Two-Thirds Disposed Of .- Mr. Chandler Criticises the President.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Feb. 20:- In acacordance with the order made yesterday, the Senate met to-day at 11 o'clock, which is to be the regular hour of meet ing till the 4th of March next. There was a fair attendance of Senators in the chamber when the proceedings opened. The vice president having laid before the Senate the resolution offered last night by Mr. Wolcott, declaring it as the sense of the Senate that a consideration of the silver bill should not be entered upon at this session of congress, Mr. Jones (Democrat of Arkansas) who had charge of that bill said " I wish to say that the friends of the regular order-the pending silver bill- have no disposition to incur the risk of an extra session.

"We so stated at the beginning. Developments have shown that while the friends of the measure have a majority in this body, it is impossible to pass the bill at the present late day of the session without incurring a very great danger to the appropriation tills and an extra ses-sion. Under these circumstances the friends of the silver measure have au thorized me to say that they will not further proceed at this session of Congress

No comment was made on this announcement by any Senator, and no formal action was taken on the resolution

Other business having intervened, the silver bill was made the text for a speech by Mr. Higgins, Republican, of Delaware, who referred to its status as legislation let alone, and said that all that the bill amounted to-in-as-much as it could not become a law-was a declaration of policy, and that the resolution of the Senator from Colorado meant just the Indian Appropriation Bill.

The regular consideration of the In-AFTFR CONSIDERABLE DISCUS- dian appropriation bill was then proceeded with.

In the course of the debate Mr. Chan-dler made a second speech on an amendment to the Indian appropriation bill, to the point that all the amendments proposing general legislation on appropriation bills were reported by the committee on appropriations with the design and purpose of provoking discussion, preventing the passing of the appropriation bills and thus necessitating the holding that the President would call an extra session as soon as possible after the fourth of March and suggested as work for that session the passage of a bill to construct the Nicaragua Canal, not through a private company, but by public money; the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands and a searching investigation into the conduct of the Secretary of the Treasury under the direction of the President in "the most remarkable financial transaction that ever took place in the history of the government by which a loss of nine million dollars was caused to the treasury and people of the United States."

Two-thirds of the Indian bill had been disposed of when the Senate, at 6:30 o'clock, adjourned.

The legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill was reported to the enate to day from the committe on appropriations. As the bill passed the House it caraied an appropriation of $31,825 917, and this amount was in creased $90,647 by the Senate committee.

In executive session to day the Senate confirmed the nomination of William L. Izlar to be postmaster at Orangeburg.

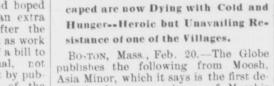

HE DAY IN THE HOUSE.

Naval Appropriation Bill Passed as Reported by Committee.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb 20.-So far as the House is concerned, the navy will be further increased by the construction of three battle-ships and nine torpedo boats.

At the close of four days' deliberation on the bill making appropriations for the navy, and naval establishment, for the year ending June 30th, 1896, the House passed the measure practically as it was reported by the committee, after having been refused by a vote of 199 to 67 to recommit the bill, upon motion by Mr. Sayers, with instructions to strike out the provision for the battle ships.

An amendment offered by Mr. Sayers was agreed to, provided that the Secretary of the Navy should not contract to pay a higher price for armor plates or gun steel than is paid for the same article by the same parties or foreign gov-Jones, of Arkansas suggested, "so as to ernments. Their bodies were put in the church and burned. Then they proceeded to burn the villages. The number killed from Shinik proper number 623 and 317 from the rest of the vil lages. Those who escaped are now id the villagers are themselves very poor and many go hungry.

Mooshir Pasha left Shinik to go to the next town in the Sassoun district. This town is Alyan, and has 14 villages. The people heard of his coming, and that he had twenty four companies each of 400 men, besides twenty three cannon. They knew that it was useless to appeal to him, so they fled to the village of Chi, because of its rocks and steppes, and there they could better escape him. They stayed in the mountains for almost twenty days, and when all food was gone and there was nothing left to do, they fled as best they could. Two thousand bodies were left behind at Chi.

Gali-Gazan was the next, and because the town has twenty two villages around it, Mooshir brought Kurds, Ahmidie and irregulars, numbering 30,000. The town raged, for I loved the woman.' was deserted, for the people with all the DAILY.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 20.-Magistrate Milligan, accompanied by his clerk, John Moffett, Miss Lida Clark, the sole witness of the shooting of Miss Drysdale, and Detective Murray, went to the German hospital at noon and the magistrate gave Gentry a formal preliminary hearing, holding him to await the action of the coroner.

The murderer was conscious of the proceedings. Gentry then made a deposition of the tragedy, which was reduced to writing by Clerk Moffett, as follows

"I was insanely jealous. I had known Madge Drysdale since August, 1893. We became friendly and engaged to be married, and she wore my ring on her finger. She also bought me a ring, which she paid over $100 for. I was to have met her in New York on Sunday. Her letters had turned cold, and I had wired her a number of times to let me know the cause of the sudden change, which was not natural, my thinking as much of her as I did.

"Her telegram read: '12:30 p. m. I leave here at 10.'

"I had journeyed all night from Boston and was very sleepy when I got to New York, and did not get there until in the four towns visited by Mooshir 12:43 I arrived there and did not see anything of her in the 12:43 boat. "I could not do anything, was a complete wreck, and went to her father's house and asked if he had heard anything of her coming to him. He said Shinik. It contains four villages, no; I had better go down again; there was some more trains and I might meet

"I went down again and not seeing Johannis, with 240 of the leading her, bought a round trip ticket and took townsmen, went to meet him to beseech a train for Philadelphia. In the meanhim to have mercy on them. They were time I had been drinking on being disappointed. On arriving in Philadelphia, went to Irving House, and then to Miss Doetrich's, and heard she was next door. Went into Zeiss', met Mr. Zeiss and asked where was Miss Yorke's room.

"I had a pistol in my pocket which had borrowed from a man named Sackett in our company. I said, in my the villages surrounding this town, but mind, I may have to shoot Romeo in the foot. I fully expected to find a man in her room, as a little blond fellow. I went up stairs and walked into the room when I saw her, very much delighted.

> "I said: 'Well, darling, I have come. "I had lived on beef and clam broth for a week previous. I was completely upset.

I said: 'Are you glad to see me?' She seemed to be awfully disappointed at my appearance. She said: 'Oh, why, what are you doing here?' 'I said: Darling, won't you kiss me ?' She said: 'I will not.' (As I remember). I said: 'You won't ?' She replied: 'No.'

"These seemed to be her last words and the result followed. I was insanely jealous. I had no intention of shooting her when I left Boston, but I was so ep-

The physicians under whom Gentry is being treated, this afternoon gave out this statement of his injuries: "Gentry has two lacerated wounds of the scalp with fracture of the outer skull. He has one fracture in the ribs, penetrating the pleura, the lining of the chest. He has three slight stab wounds over the region of the heart and numerous contusions and abrasions of the body. "The most serious of his physical injuries is the broken rib, penetrating the pleura. The wound permits the air to enter underneath the skin and produce emphysema. The fracture of the skull is not serious. His real condition is more one of general exhaustion than anything else. His chances for recovery are even. If he has the stamina of constitution to pull him through, the issue of course will be favorable. All depends upon this. He is suffering from exposure more than from actual injuries.

years had a similar law on the statute book and he declares that it has worked even justice to the railways and those injured in their employ. The first decisions in the English courts after the establishment of railways followed the rule which had been applied to other employments where the employes worked together, that the injury of an employe in such common employment was a part of the risk of the employment and something for which his employer could not be held liable in a civil court. This rule was changed by statute in Great Britain a dozen or more years ago, and an elaborate report upon the working of the English law was submitted to the Massachusetts L gislature in 1883 by Charles G Fall The attempt to secure similar legislation did not succeed for several years, owing to the opposition of the railways and other corporations, but the advocates of the law finally prevailed, and similar acts have since been passed in other States.

Rumors of Cabinet Changes.

The rumors of cabinet changes are always afloat here, but there seems to be a little more persistence to some of the latest ones than has usually been the case. The coming vacancy on the Supreme bench, to be caused by the retirement of Justice Jackson, gives an opportunity for the promotion of one of the members of the cabinet, which will probably be seized upon by the Presi-The contest seems to lie between dent. Secretary Gresham and Secretary Carlisle, both of whom are pretty nearly within the limits of Justice Jackson's circuit. It would be somewhat unusual to name two justices from the same State, as would be the case with Justice Harlan and Mr. Carlisle on the bench, but Judge Harlan is practically a resident of Washington and is reported in the Congressional directory as "Mr. Justice Harlan, of Chicago, Ill.

The Pooling Bill.

The pooling bill men are becoming desperate, and they are credited with the intention to defeat appropriation bills if necessary. This would cause an extra session to be needed, and their chances for an early hearing in the 54th Congress would be much better. The opposition to this bill is very hot.

Senator Allen said to day that he would fight the bill to the finish, that he always had been opposed to it, and always will be.

Senator Chandler said to me this afternoon, "I am thoroughly opposed to the bill, as it now stands, and I will do everything in my power to defeat the bill unless they adopt my amendments, the chief of which is, as I have already said, one to allow the Inter-State Commerce Commission to agree to the pooling rates before they are put into effect instead of giving them judicial powers noon reached 43-8.

A RUSH FOR BIDS.

The New Bonds Subscribed for Ten

Times Over.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.-The subscription books for the $62 315,000 United States four per cent's were opened promptly at 10 o'clock this morning at the office of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co., and just twentytwo minutes later the subscriptions were closed.

There was little or no excitement at the office of Morgan and Company, in fact the attendance there was about the same as an ordinary business day. This is accounted for by the fact that the bulk of the bids were sent in by mail, and for this reason today's performance was looked upon as a mere formality, to use the expression of one of the leading members of the syndicate.

The bonds were subscribed for at every particular has been an enormous success. Mr. Morgan is authority for the statement that no details will be given out until Saturday, when the al-lotments are to be made. The bonds sold at four per cent. premium in London to-day, and 116 was bid on the streets here this morning.

A principal member of the syndicate is authority for the statement that the enormous over subscription of the bonds was astounding even to the syndicate. The success of the whole deal abroad cannot be measured in the immediate connection with the sale of the bonds. It is anticipated that it will revive the interest in American securities and stimulate an interest in our railroad securities such as has not existed since the Baring panie, thus turning the real balance of exchange in our favor so that when exports of breadstuffs begin next fall the natural flow of gold will once more be toward the United States. The strain upon our gold holdings will thus be relieved for the first time in two years.

At a High Premium in London.

LONDON, Feb. 20 .- The United States by loan prospectus was issued very late yesterday afternoon and a regular fight en- curities, and by an attempt to sued at Morgan's for places in the line and this morning there was a renewed rush of subscribers. The loan was subscribed for many times over.

After further discussion, Mr. Gorman made his motion, and Mr. Butler, who desired to go on with the pooling bill, demanded the yeas and nays. The vote was taken, and the motion was agreed to, yeas, 55; nays, 12.

The negative votes were given by Sen ators Blanchard, Butler, Camden, Cameron, Faulkner, Hunton, Jones of Arkansas, Lindsay, Martin, Mitchell, of Wisconsin, Quay and Wolcott.

The effect of the vote was to displace the silver bill-remitting it to the calendar-and to bring the Indian Appropriation bill before the Senate. On this bill Mr. Higgins resumed the floor, and went on with the delivery of his speech on the Jones silver bill, and against it.

But the Discussion Continues.

Mr. Chandler next addressed the Senate, not upon the Indian appropriation least ten times over, and the loan in bill, however, but upon the silver bill, and against the Wolcott resolution.

Mr. Daniels replied to the speech of Mr. Higgins, which was, he said, a pitiful picture of the distress now prevailing the in civilized world. This distress, Mr. Daniels said, was wide spread. He might say:

India's coral strand."

While that Senator had called attention to a starving Manchester and to a degraded India, he had told the Senator but little of the distress which pervaded his own country in consequence of the ill conceived and ill-considered action of Congress in repealing the purchase clause of the Sherman act. Not a single prophesy of those which were made by the friends of that repeal had been fulfilled; but the predictions which he (Mr. Daniel) had then, stated in his argument against the repeal had been fulfilled.

He had predicted that the uncondition al repeal of the purchase clause of the Sherman law would be followed by decline in the price of silver, by a further decline in the prices of property, bonds and seretire the greenbacks, and all these predictions had been fulfilled. The Demoeratic party which had pledged itself to the coinage of both gold and silver, and to the repeal of the tax on State banks, had failed to keep its pledge, and would well as to the Senator from Arkansas, to 32,000,000 or 35,000,000 dollars toward the great appropriation bills are pending unavailing. In this connection a letter was read from Secretary Herbert stating there would be expanded in the year

The Hawaiian Cable.

The naval bill being out of the way, the House spent an hour or two discuss ing the Hawaiian cable project upon the report of the conference over the Diplo matic and Consular appropriation bill. Mr. McCreary, Democrat, of Kentucky, opposed the construction of the cable as a government enterprise, and moved that the House insist upon its disagreement to the Senate amendment authorizing the President to contract for laying the cable Mr. Bitt (Rep.), of Illinoi, one of the conferees, moved that the House concur in the Senate an endment, and forcibly advocated the construction of the cable. He read from the annual messages of President Cleveland in 1886 and 1888 to show as far back as that period the President advised congressional action to secure telegraphic communication with the Hawaiian Islands.

The matter was not disposed of when the House adjourned at 5:15.

A bill was passed over the unf avorable report of the committee of the whole, having been previously passed by mistake and recal ed from the Senate, to increase the pension of Thomas Corrigan. A resolution introduced last December by Mr. Pickler (Rep.), of South Dakota, "From Greenland's icy mountains to and referred to the committee on civil service reform, was called up by its author, that committee not having acted upon it, and passed. It directs the Secretary of the Treasury to inform the House how many old soldiers have been dismissed from that department since March 3rd, 1893, and the reasons for their removal.

An unfavorable report was made by Mr. Richardson, (Dem.) of Tennessee, from the Committee on Printing upon the joint resolution authorizing the publication of the dairy tests made at the Columbian Exposition. The reasons for the adverse report were that the matter was in no sense or connection a government affair, and that the expense would be about $8,000-food they could carry had fled to the mountains.

They stayed in their fastnesses for thisty days, and at last with a frenzy born of hunger and despair they made a terrible rush down the mountain sides, and attacked the tyrants instead of waiting to be killed. Patriot Vartan was like a God, and killed nineteen men with his sword before he fell dead. Fr Bedras was a soldier, too, and encouraged his children, and when he was at last killed, his body was cut in pieces and given to the dogs.

Alpag was the last town that the blood-thirsty 'tyrant visited and this lace contains eight villages: Verien, Chaden, Moodavar, Eukik, Kalakaz. Choroop and Davlorig. The people had for the most part made their escape, but when Mooshir and his soldiers went their ways 1.300 bodies were found even here. Many more were burned, but their rumber cannot be known.

All bodies were left where they were butchered, and those who would travel this district must risk their lives through the pestilential odors that go up from so many dead. All who escaped from the Sassoun district came to the villages of the plains of Moosh, and hungry, destitute and broken hearted, they look for hope and help and sympathy from the civilized world to whom the news of their terrible loss may come.

First Secretary of the Russian Legation Takes His Own Life.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 20:-P: Bogdandoff, first secretary of the Russian legation, shot himself with a pistol this morning at 10 o'clock in his sleeping apartments and died instantly. The only cause that is assigned for the deed is that he had suffered from neuralgia sir ce he came to Washington. a mouth ago.

This morning shortly before ten o'clock the maid at his lodgings visited his rooms and took his order for breakfast. When she returned fifteen minutes later she was astonished to find him dead. noise having been heard in the house in the meantime.

From the circumstances, however, not dout is entertained that the fatal shot was fired by his own hand.

Mr. Bogdanoff was until recently the Russian charge-de-affaires at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, where he ably represented his country during the revolution. He was about 42 years old, and, in addition to considerable means, had a handsome salary on account of his position. He was a bachelor, his family consisting of brothers and sisters residing in Moscow. Ever since his arrival in Washington he has been afflicted with a severe form. of neuralgia, which he attributed to the sudden change of the climate of Rio, tothat of Washington, which has lately been intensely cold.
