THE INCOME TAX AGAIN

A RE-ARGUMENT OF THE CASES BEGUN IN THE SUPREME COURT.

THE BATTLE TO BE FOUGHT OVER.

This Time the Appellants Have a Full Bench, Justice Jackson Being Present .- The Rehearing to Embrace the Whole Case -- Five Hours Given Each Side for Argument-Mr. Guthrie Speaks Against the Law, and Mr. Whitney in Support of It.

WASHINGTON, D. C. May 6 .- The reargument of the income tax cases began in the Supreme Court of the United States to-day in the presence of an assemblage of Law and Laity, that as on the occassion of the original argument, more than exhausted the accommodations of the small chamber in which it

For the first time since last Nov. there was a full complement of Justices on the bench, and all nine of the large leather covered arm chairs behind the desk that separated the court from the spectators were occupied. Mr. Justice Jackson, the youngest member of the court save one, was at the extreme right of the Chief Justice, and was naturally the observed of all observers. He took an active interest in the proceedings, and there was apparently nothing to warrant the expectation that he might not be able to undergo the fatigue of the hear-

Among those present in the court room were the various counsel engaged in the case, Messrs. Joseph H. Choate, ex-Secretary B. H. Brestow, Clarence A. Seward, William D. Guthrie, David Wilcox, J. M. Wilson, Samuel Shellaburger, Attorney General Olney and Assistants Whitney, Dickinson and Conrad; Representative McMillan, the author of the income tax law; Senator Mitchell, of Oregon; Hon. John A. Kassen, of Iowa; ex-Speaker Crisp, who is in the city on his way home from a visit to New York; ex-Postmaster General Don M. Dickinson, Richard Watson Gilder, and many ladies who having first manifested an unusual interest in the case.

The beginning of the argument was preceded by the announcement of opinions in several cases, none of them with ossibly one exception, of general inter est or importance. This occupied forty minutes, so that it was well on toward 1 o'clock when W. D. Guthrie opened the argument for the petitioners, Messrs. Hyde and Pollock, who seek to enjoin the directors of the Farmers' Loan and Trust and Continental Trust Company, of New York, from paying the tax on the dividends declared on the stock of these corporations, and in so doing attack the constitutionality of the law.

The Chief Justice said: "In these cases appellants made application for a and Vaughan. re-hearing as to those propositions upon which the court was equally divided, whereupon the Attorney-General presented a suggestion that if any re-hearing were granted, :t should embrace the whole case. Treating this suggestion as amounting in itself to an application for a re-hearing and not desiring to restrict the scope of the argument, we set down both applications to be heard to-day before a full bench, which the anticipated presence of our brother Jackson, happily realized, enabled us to do. No further argument will be desired. We were obliged, however, to limit the number of counsel to two on each side, but as to the time we await the suggestions of Attorney General Olney turned to Mr. Choate, who said he believed five hours would be sufficient for their side of the

The Chief Justice announced that the court would grant so much, counsel for the government of course, to occupy the same amount of time.

J. M. Wilson, of counsel for John G. Moore, who sued in the courts of the District of Columbia for an injunction restraining internal Revenue Commissioner Miller from executing the law, asked permission to file an additional brief in that case, which has not yet been decided by the Supreme Court.

In submitting the petition for a rehearing Mr. Guthrie said appellants invited and faced the criticism of many of the opponents of the income tax who say that in thei ropinion the decision is in favor, in part at least, of those who denied the legality of the act. Counsel felt that a great constitutional controversy ought not to be permitted to transform itself into a test of shrewdness. It was their duty to bring about as speedily as possible a final end to all these controversies that must ensue if the decision continues to stand as that of a divided court. There was a doubt not so much as to whether Congress had the power to tax but as to its method of tax-

Mr. Guthrie spoke two hours and ten minutes. He was followed by Assistant Attorney General E. B. Whitney in support of the law.

After an apology to the court for the want of proper preparation for the presentation of the case because of the lack of necessary time, Mr. Whitney said the government would suggest nothing further on the subject of tax upon State and municipal bonds than had been set forth in the original argument. Mr. Whitney spoke an hour at which time the court rose and adjourned until to-morrow.

SUN'S COTTON REPORT.

Speculators Have Come to a Pause and are Awaiting Developments.

NEW YORK, May 6 .-- Cotton fell 6 to 7 points, recovered this, and in some cases advanced 1 point, closing steady, with some months 1 point up, others unchanged and others 1 point lower than at the close Saturday. The sales were 124,600 bales. Liverpool declined 1-32d on the spot, with sales of 10,000 bales; futures declined 3 to 3 1-2 points, closing quiet and steady.

New Orleans declined 6 points but recovered this and advanced 1 to 2 points. Manchester cloths were quiet and yarn offers scarce. Spot cotton here was quiet and unchanged. St. Louis declined 1-16 cent. Augusta and Savannah were weak. New Orleans sold

The port receipts were 8,863, against 9,360 last week and 8,609 last year; thus far this week 15,414, against 18,807 thus far last week. The New Orleans receipts to morrow are estimated at 3,500 to 4,500, against 5,019 last Tuesday.

To-Day's Features.

The transactions showed no significance beyond that which attaches to those of a purely scalping market. The speculation has come to a pause, and the majority of operators are simply awaiting developments before embarking in extensive ventures either for a rise or for a decline. Early in the day there was some depression due to the menacing aspect of the Russe-Japanese ques tion, and so a decline in Liverpool not to mention the duliness of trade at Manchester. But on the decline, the market ran into quite a number of buying orders, largely for short account for operators who had become alarmed at the very heavy rainfall in Texas, though the reports that a compromise had been reached in the matter of the Chinese treaty, no doubt contributed in a meas ure, to the firmness noticeable in the later transactions to-day.

It seems too, that some operators bought on an idea that the next bureau report to be published on the 10th instant will be of a bullish character. But, as already intimated, it was a narrow market, and the business was mostly of a scalping nature, the great majority of operators either trading very lightly or ise holding aloof altogether pending further developments in the commercial political worlds of Europe and Asia.

A SHORT SKETCH OF HIS LIFE

The Funeral Services Yesterday at Trinity Church--Hundreds of People Pay Their Last Respects to the Honored Dead -- Interment in Riverside Cemetery -- Revenue Offices Closed ---Chief Deputy Rogers Takes Charge of the Office Temporarily.

Special to the News and Observer.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., May 6.

The funeral services over the remains of Capt. M. E. Carter, who died Sunday morning, were conducted to-day at 11 o'clock at Trinity Episcopal church by Rev. McNeely Dubois. The church was packed by hundreds who would pay their tribute to the honored dead. The services were attended by the members of the Asheville bar in a body. The interment was in Riverside Cemetery.

The revenue offices here and at Statesville, Mt. Airy and Winston were closed to-day in honor of Capt. Carter.

The pall-bearers at the funeral were James H. Merrimon, Chas. M. Stedman, Chas. A. Moore, Jas. G. Martin, Locke Craige, W. R. Whitson, W. H. Reed, C. E. Graham, J. E. Rankin, S. L. Rogers J. P. Kerr, W. H. Penland and P. A Cummings.
Sketch of His Life.

Melvil E. Carter was a descendant of the Virginia family of the same name, his ancestors having come to this State at the close of the Revolutionary war, Mr. Carter was born in Madison county February 27, 1843. He was educated at the University under Gov. Swain and studied law under the late Judge Bailey. He was licensed to practice in 1867 and has continued actively in the practice of his profession at Asheville since that time.

In State politics he always took an active interest. Though he never sought office he was three times elected to the Legislature. He was a member of the House of Representatives in 1876, 1878 and 1880, and served on some of the most important committees. While in the Legislature he took an active interest in the completion of the Western North Carolina Railroad and aided in the passage of the bill to compromise the State debt. For the last fifteen years he has devoted all his time to his law practice, until 1894 when he was appointed, without any consideration on his part, Collector of Internal Revenue for the Western 'district, which position he held at the time of his death. Mr. Carter served in the Confederate army throughout the war. He was Cap-tain of company A, of the 64th North Carolina Regiment, until that regiment was captured at Cumberland Gap in 1863. But Captain Carter escaped and 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 | captured in Tennessee while in service C. Breckinridge, ried North. by the President.

That is the Record Made Through Rain and Mud by Two 'Cyclists Here Sun-

When George Dyson and George Randall, mechanics of Sandford, Florida, who are touring the country awheel to Boise City, Iowa, reached the comparatively smooth streets of this city Sunday, they were happy indeed. Wheels revolving briskly they rode gaily in the sunshine to the Park Hotel, where they soon revelled in two luxuries they have learned to appreciate highly, a wash and a good dinner.

As stated above, they are two mechanics of Sandford, a little Florida town. Both are expert wheelmen, and wanting a holiday and being friends, they concluded to take a pleasure trip. Expense was some considertion to them and so they concluded to take a trip awheel.

With another friend they started from home on April the 20th. As is seen two of them arrived here yesterday, just fifteen days after the start. They have thus far had a terrible trip, riding, walk ing up and down rough country roads and hills and struggling through deep, slushy mud and streams. At Ridgeway their companion, utterly tired out and sick, gave up the fight and turned back. But the other two pushed on. They say that in spite of the rough roads and wet weather they have made on an average forty miles a day. When they reach Virginia and Maryland, with the good roads they can reasonably expect, they will make as much as eighty miles per day. Both cyclists appeared fresh and strong after their rough, tiresome trip and left yesterday afternoon for Weldon. | will pass without doubt.

DEAD ON THE TRACK.

Strange Case of a Negro Found Dead at Lexington.

Special to the News and Observer LEXINGTON, N. C., May 6.

Last night four young negro women started down the railroad, and about a mile from here sat down on a sill-pile. They were followed by three white boys, and later by some negro men. One of these negro men, it seems, had been paying close attention to one of the girls Joe Grant Miller. It is thought a hot fight took place at the sill-pile from the evidences left there.

This morning at two, as the express came through, it passed over the body of Joe Miller. This morning at ten it was lying just as it was left, the body on the outside of the rail, and the head between the tracks.

The train was stopped, and the conductor hastened back to notify the agent, who went back with him to the body, which was found to be perfectly cold. This was the basis of a theory that the woman was murdered and placed on the track, and this theory is strengthened by the story of the engineer, who says the body was lying down when he saw it. Moreover, the severing of the neck is a clean cut, and on the dress are marks of blood as if from hand-prints. The girl's hat and part of her dress were found at the sillpile this morning, and another one of the women who disappeared has not yet been heard from. Sheriff Michael was awakened during the night, but has not yet fathomed the mystery.

MRS. CRAM GETS $1,500.

The Plaintiff in the Suit Against W. C. Cram Gets a Final Settlement and Judge Starbuck remained over until yesterday to hear and decide in Chambers the case of Mary C. Cram vs. W. C.

Cram, of this city. Reference was made in Sunday's News AND OBSERVER to a compromise by which Mrs. Cram was to get one-third of Mr. Cram's estate. Yesterday from one cause or another, $1,500 was the amount settled upon to clean up all the contentions of Mrs. Cram ad infinitum.

If the true cause of the frequent pertinacity of Mrs. Mary Cram be rightly comprehended, the object of her visit or, raised another company, but was again more properly, visits to Raleigh have been for the purpose of ridding a sceptical world of any unjust doubt of the en tire legitimacy of her son, Mr. Gordon L. Cram. Who on earth ever doubted the legitimacy of Mr. Gordon Cram? Did anybody ever dare to doubt it? If so, who? and if so, why? But admitting, for the sake of argument, that New York and Canada had not come to a final decision upon this point, the unrest of those two sections may, now happily, be considered a closed incident; for Raleigh plus Judge Starbuck plus W. C. Cram plus $1500 have resented the imputation; so that now young Mr. Cram having brought a past into this town, carries a future out of it. He carries away the four imprimaturs mentioned above of being the genuine and only Gordon L. Cram, and what does he leave? He leaves the happy vale, viveques of our beautiful little city, and ('twas almost forgotten) the father, also, gets left.

It is said that Mrs. Cram, plus her son, will leave to-day for the North, where Mr. Cram will take a $700 position as teacher of modern languages, while Mr. W. C. Cram, minus $1,500, will remain where he has lived for twenty years as a highly esteemed citi-
