SHEMWELL ON TRIAL

THE SLAYER OF DR. PAYNE CALLED TO ANSWER FOR HIS CRIME.

MOTION FOR REMOVAL BY STATE.

Judge Montgomery Reads an Affidavit Setting Forth Reasons Why a Fair Trial Cannot be Obtained .- The Defendant's Counsel Will File an Answer This Morning -- Shemwell's Confinement Has Told on Him Sadly -- A Strong Array of Legal Talent.

Special to the News and Observer.

LEXINGTON, N. C., July 1. The case of Shemwell, who is on trial here for the killing of the late Dr. Payne in February last, was called to day at the afternoon session, Judge Boykin presiding. All the distinguished counsel were within the bar as follows: For the prosecution, Solicitor John Q. Holton, assisted by Messrs. Zeb Vance Walser, B. F. Long, S. E. Williams, J. E. Boyd and Judge W. J. Montgomery; for the defendant, Messrs. Cy. Watson, Judge Armfield, R. Z. Linney, Robbins & Raper, and R. T. Pickins, the last named being a partner of Zeb Vance

Young Dr. Payne, the son of the deceased, was in court, as was also the defendant, Baxter Shemwell. Sitting beside Shemwell were his wife and little boy, his sister, Miss Shemwell, and his father-in-law, Mr. Bernheim. Shemwell looks clammy white but does not seem to have lost much flesh. His eyes, large, full blue, are bright, but his general ap pearance is one of sadness and haggard-

A semi sensation was at once sprung upon counsel for defence by Judge Montgomery, who made a motion to have the case removed to another county Paynes were interested in one drug on the ground that it could not be fairly tried in Davidson. Judge Montgomery then read a somewhat lengthy affidavit which he had prepared after consultation with his colleagues, a synopsis of which is as follows:

That Shemwell is largely connected by blood and marriage in the county; that he is a man of large substance; that his friends have been diligently at work since the finding of the indicament and there have been thirteen or more persons actively eanvassing all parts of the defendant; that the county in his interest; that the present county Treasurer, who has been sixteen consecutive years in office as such, a man of great influence in the county, has actively espoused the cause of the Treasurer's son, former postmaster in Lexington, is the defendant's brother inlaw and another son is deputy-clerk of the court and these two also are active in formulating public sentiment in favor of the defendant; that the defendant's father in-law is a Lutheran minister and has been pastor of several churches in Davidson county and he now lives in Lexington and has been actively engaged in work for the defendant; that the sheriff of the county has been there attended by the friends of the defendant in order to deter him in the selection of veniremen; that one of the defendant's | byterian church. canvassers has been heard to say that the defendant has plenty of money and would fix the jury; that another of defendant's friends had threatened a juror drawn on the regular panel that if he convicted Shemwell he would be killed; that a prominent minister in Lexington shortly after the killing is said to have preached a sermon against capital punishment and when his attention was called to the impropriety of such a sermon at such a time he replied, "Now is the time to work;" that there is a sentiment against capital punishment in Davidson, that there have been seventeen trials in the county since the Surrender for murder with not a single convicton, all were acquitted save one who plead guilty of manslaughter; that the case has been so much discussed that every man competent to sit on a jury in the county has formed and expressed an opinion about the case; that the friends of the defendant have circulated throughout the county untruthful and perverted statements of facts about the case; that the defendant's statement published in the NEWS AND OBSERVER, of Februar, 128, 1895, was widely circulated in the county; that one of the defendant's agents has stated that he travelled through the county and took the senti-ment of citizens and kept a book so that when a man was called on the jury they would know where he stood.

After recovering themselves, the counsel for the defendant were led in a spirited resistance by Cy. Watson who, with the rest of his colleagues, insisted that the names of the persons referred to accompany the specifications. There was adroit sparring pro. and con , the result being that the paper was handed to the defence, the court ruling that the names and parties should be furnished which was agreed to by the prosecution, who amended the paper with the names at the proper places.

The State's motion for removal of a cause struck everyone as unusual, and Mr. Boyd was the only one who cited a precedent recalling the case of Swepson who killed Moore in 1877 and whose case, on motion of Solicitor Strudwick, was removed from Alamance to Orange. During the remarks of Mr. Linney, reference was made to the long and weakening confinement of the prisoner and a plea was put in for a speedy trial, which, he said, was the first object of the law. Both Shemwell and his wife ed to close July 5th.

seemed much affected, the prisoner brushing tears from his eyes. Counsel for the defendant taking the affidavits said they would in two hours, but at the return end of that time they were still in conference and the court adjourned until to-morrow morning, when the answer, said Mr. Watson to-night, will be forth-coming. Morever Mr. Watson said that every charge would be satisfactorily de nied and that and contrary affidavits would be produced from all the thirteen persons named; that several were in hand already; that one by the name of Saner said that he never spent a moment in canvassing for Shemwell; that the Treasurer swears that he never lost a half hour from his business on ac-count of Shemwell or any one else; that they will have affidavits showing that competent inrors can be obtained who have not formed nor expressed opinions; in short that the affidavit of the prosecution is entirely without foundation.

Meanwhile there are 163 witnesses already summoned and it is thought that the trial will occupy at least ten days if not more and that the town will be split wide open into factions for there are said to be many here now who will not speak to another even at this stage of feeling which, is it said, will grow more and more bitter each day.

The prosecution are quietly busy to-night getting fifty signatures of responsible men to an affidavit stating that no competent jurors can be got in the county. It is said that there are already thirty names signed, and the fight will be made hand to hand throughout.

Story of the Crime.

February 25th was the saddest Lexington has seen in years. At about 11 o'clock that morning Baxter Shemwell shot and almost instantly killed Dr. R. L. Payne, Sr.

It is said the first difficulty occurred in a barber shop, when Shemwell drew arose over insurance business. The Paynes were interested in one drug store, and Shemwell in another. Dr. Payne was medical examiner for the Northwestern Life Insurance Company: Shemwell's brother-in-law, who kept the other drug store, was agent for the com-pany. Shemwell secured another ex aminer for the company, and out of this friction grew.

One account of the killing is this: Earlier in the morning, Shemwell and Dr. Payne were tried before a justice of the peace. No serious results immediately followed this first difficulty; the parties waived examination and were bound over to the Superior Court. Dr. Payne gave bond first and started home. Shemwell followed a few moments after, with a pistol in each hand. As Dr. Payne reached the Presbyterian Church some one told him Shemwell was following. He turned around and just then Shemwell fired the fatal shot. At the time Dr. Payne was with his son Dr. R. L. Payne, Jr. One side claimed that the Paynes were armed, as well as Shemwell, and that four pistels were found after said they heard five clicks of a pistol and that young Payne shot at Shemwell. The other side claimed that Shemwell made the attack, while the Paynes were unarmed. The Payne residence is next door to the Pres-

Monday morning early Dr. Payne, Sr. and Shemwell met in front of Payne's house. Old Dr. Payne, it seems, counselled peace, but hot words followed, pistols were drawn, and shots fired. This called Dr. Payne, Jr, out of his office. Then, it is said, Shemwell got a shot-gun, which he soon exchanged for a Winchester, and while passing along the street was called into the residence of Mrs. Adderton. She also counselled peace. He told Mrs. Adderton that he would kill both the Paynes before night. All parties were soon taken befare the magistrate, and bound over to court in the sum of two hundred dollars each. While in court it is said that Shemwell, while being searched, jumped out of the window with a pistol still on him, the other having been taken away. He was again overhauled, but refused to give up his pistols, but consented for the officer to place them in a drawer in his drug store. After the trial, the Paynes, it is said, walked home, and were followed later by Shemwell, who, it is said, stopped by his drug store, and got the pistols which had been left. Shemwell overtook the Paynes in front of the church. They faced around and the shooting took place. Payne, Senior, was shot in the right breast. All three men joinin the fight, and fell over the muddy road. Payne, Senior, was taken up and laid on the sidewalk and in fifteen minutes was dead.

Dr. R. L. Payne, Sr., was the oldest and best known physician in the vicinity. He was about sixty-five years old, and stood high in his profession, being favorably known all over the State. He was a large man, six feet high, and weighed some 250 pounds; kind-hearted, popular, and a thorough gentleman. A report sent from Lexington at the time says: 'None knew him but to love him." The murder created the most intense excitement in Lexington, and horrified the Baxter Shemwell is about thirty-five years old, and is of medium height. He is said to have been in several shooting scrapes before that which resulted in the death of Dr. Payne.

THE PAST WEEK WAS ONE OF UNUSUAL GAIETY AT MOREHEAD.

MANY DISTINGUISHED GUESTS.

Full Dress Germans, Complimentary Sails. Delightful Luncheons, Exciting Fox Chases, Good Fishing and Fine Bathing are Among the Pleasant Features of this Fashionable Summer Resort .- The Fourth of July to be Celebrated on a Grand Scale. Special to the News and Observer.

MOREHEAD CITY, July 1. The past week has been one of unusual gaiety at the Atlantic Hotel, where is assembled a large and congenial number of guests from all sections of the State. It is truly a representative body of the people of North Carolina, hence the congenial intercourse and unreserved enjoyment. Among the pleasant features of the week, which will be held in pleasing remembrance by all who participated therein, was a complimentary sail given to Miss Maie Broadfoot, of Fayetteville, by Mr. Tom Rollins, of Asheville, after which a delightful luncheon was served by the chaperones, Mrs. D. H. Matson and Mrs. Josh. Tayloe; a complimentary sail to Gov. Carr by Mr. and Mrs. Felix Harvey, of Kinston; a sail given to the young people of the hotel by Hon. Thos. Settle, with delicious refreshments elaborately served, preceded by a full dress german gracefully led by Mr. Milan Howard, of Newbern; a complimentary sail to Miss Lucy Taylor, of Catharine Lake, by Mr. Rob. Collins, of Jacksonville; trolling escapades in abundance and surf parties every afternoon. Governor Carr and party were out trolling yesterday and brought in a fine "catch" of blue fish and mackerel. Some very fine fox hunts have been had the past week and several brushes" taken.

Among the prominent guests recently arrived at the Atlantic are: Gov. Carr and two daughters, Mrs. Jno. O. Winder and son, Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell, Dr. Turner, Col. John W. Hinsdale, Mr. Ed. Chambers Smith and little son, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Barbee, and Mrs. Julius Lewis, all of Raleigh; Mrs. Geo. Wilson and daughter, Charlotte; Mr. and Mrs. Powell, Asheville; Mrs. Meyers and daughters, Washington; Mrs. Sam Bradshaw and two daughters, Asheboro; Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Eure, Nashville; Col. and Mrs. J. S. Carr and family, Durham; Senator and Mrs. Marion Butler and Mrs. Faison, Elliott; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Boeden, Goldsboro; Dr. and Mrs. Chas. Duffy, Mrs. Jno. Hughes and daughter, Mrs. W. H. Moore, Newbern; Col. Tay lor and daughters, Catharine Lake; Mrs Cherry, Greenville; Mrs. Gillespie and daughter, Tarboro.

Drs. Frank and Chas. Duffy, of Newbern, are the attending phy though the health of the guests here has been so excellent that their services have been little needed.

The event of the current week is the fourth of July celebration, which comes off Thursday night, and on an elaborate scale, with grand and varied fireworks on the water, thrilling national airs by the splendid band, appropriate vocal solos by a number of favorite lady singers, the reading of the Declaration of Independence by Mrs. Marion Butler, Elliott, and an oration by Mr. Joseph E. Robinson, of Golds boro. The patriotic occasion is under the supervision of Col. Julian S. Carr, of Durham, whose well known patriotism and aggressive public spirit are a sufficient guarantee that the celebration will be lacking in nothing to make it a credit to the anniversary of the birthday of our great Republic. Special rates have been secured over all the rail roads for the occasion and a large crowd of visitors from the interior is expected. The capacity of the "Atlantic" is equal to the accommodation of all who may come, and their comfort will be studiously looked after by the management.

QUAY WILL BE BEATEN.

Governor Hastings will Have a Majority in the Convention. PHILADELPHIA, July 1.—The Ledger

Ind. Republican) to day says: Based on a canvass of every county in the state, an estimate is made that in the contest for the control of the Republican State convention, October 28, Governor Hastings and friends will have 145 delegates and Senator Quay and followers 117 delegates. Silver delegates are classed as doubtful. Philadelphia is thought likely to have 55 Hasting delegates and 6 Quay delegates, 9 being doubtful. "While the above estimate may not be absolutely accurate, it is believed that it shows the strength of both factions for the first time, and that the figures cannot be successfully questioned to an extent that would change the result. It will be seen that Governor Hastings and his friends have just a majority of the State Convention, and if they can hold these they will have absolute control of that body. Conceding to Senator Quay's friends the sixteen doubtful delegates and eleven delegates, from counties not heard from, they would have 144 dele gates, or 1 less than a majority." The faction controlling the convention will elect a State chairman, and thus control the party organization in Pennsylvania. The candidates for the State chairmanship are Senator Quay and Gilkeson, the latter now holding the

WAKE COUNTY'S TAXES

TREMENDOUS FALLING OFF IN PROPERTY VALUATION EVERYWHERE.

INCREASE IN THREE TOWNSHIPS.

In the Others the Reports of the Tax-Listers and Assessors Show a Total Decrease of Nearly $250,000 as Compared with the Valuation of Four Years Ago .- The Board of Equalization Makes an Increase all Around on a 5 per cent Basis for Buckhorn.

The County Commissioners met in egular monthly session at the court house yesterday at 10 o'clock. All the members of the board were present. The most important business transacted during the morning was the issuing and selling of $5,000 of the 6 per cent. bridge bonds to Mrs. F. P. Tucker, executrix. The regular list of outside poor was also taken up and disposed of.

The following were granted license to sell liquor in the county: M. W. Woodard, Potter and Scott, L. N. White, J. R. Ferrall & Co., C. W. Hoover, M. Rosenthal, James Freeman, F. L. Bailey, E. M. Cheek, Sam T. Smith, John U. Smith.

An order was passed by the board to the effect that all parties who are selling liquor and fail to take out license within the first ten days of July will be debarred from taking them out at all.
At twelve o'clock, as required by law, the commissioners went into joint session with the chairman of tax-listers and assessors of each township, forming the Board of Equalization and passed on the tax list as handed in by the listtakers and assessors

They found that there was in a majority of the townships a great decrease in the valuation of property as compared with that of four years ago. In only three townships was there an increase, viz: Barton's Creek, increased $3,314; Middle Creek, $1,823; St. Mary's, $31,-

The other townships show decrease as follows:

Buckhorn, $8,964; Cary, $27,364; Cedar Fork, $14,796; House Creek, $12,977; Holly Springs, $3,039; Little River, $8,078; Middle Creek, $12,747; Neuse River, $9,572; New Light, $7,608; Oak Grove, $24,644; Panther Branch, $17,-021; St. Matthews, $15,940; Swift Creek, 021; St. Matthews, $10,010; White $1,011; Wake Forest, $51,790; White Oak $10,706. This makes total decrease in the county of nearly $250,000. The report has not yet been handed in from Raleigh township. It is believed, however, that it will not show any increase in valuation of property.

A motion was passed to increase Buckhorn, which fell off $8,964, 5 per cent., and all the other townships in the same proportion to their decrease.

This, as figured out by Register of Deeds Rogers yesterday afternoon, will $70 paid last month for lighting the capnake the valuation of property in the various townships, as compared with previous months. that of four years ago, as follows:

This increase put on by the commissioners, together with the increased valuation in St. Mary's, Barton's Creek and Middle Creek will bring the valuation nearly up to what it was four years

Chairman W. C. Stronach was asked yesterday to what extent this decrease would affect the finances of the county. "Well," said he, "I think we will have enough to defray all the expenses of the county during the coming year, but we will not be able to pay any the floating debt of the county, which has been accumulating from year to year. The truth is we have been making too small a levy every year, even when the valuation of real estate was high. The board has ecconomized in every way it could, but the expenses of the county are heavy and no set of men can pay expenses unless they have the money, and the only way to get it is by levying taxes. Of course it is not pleas ant to pay taxes at any time or for any thing, but they are a necessary evil.

"It is an unfortunate state of affairs that confronts us but, I think we can pull through all right."

A large number of people who claimed that their property had been taxed too high were before the board.

The county school board meets to-day.

MET A MOST TRAGIC DEATH.

A Two-Year-Ola Child Killed by a Passenger Train Near Cary.

That was a sad accident that happened near Cary Sunday afternoon—one of the tearful tragedies of innocent child-

Through a horrible mistake of an engineer of the Seaboard Air-Line passenger train No. 48, the little two-year-old boy of Mr. Thos. Jones was horribly mangled just this side of Cary.

As the train was speeding along over the glistening rails at a tremendous rate, engineer Niemyer saw ahead of him something white fluttering in the wind. It was on the left-hand side of the road bed, just outside the track, and in the distance looked like a newspaper. There was no sign of impending danger. The train scuddled along and the rails made a merry chant beneath the flying wheels. But soon what seemed a shapeless mass of paper began to take the form and face of a laughing rosy cheeked boy of two years. In an instant the engine was reversed, the air brakes were applied and the faithful engineer had done all in his power to save a human life—but in vain.

With slackened speed the engine slid along the track toward its unsuspecting victim. The child still sat between the sills like a charmed thing, laughing in glee at the huge monster creeping upon him. The front part of the engine passed it but the steam cylinder struck the curly head and all was still.

The train stopped and dead child mangled and bleeding lay upon the embankment. He was taken into the house of its father, Mr. Thomas A. Jones, who lived only a few yards from the track, and the bright Sabbath closed for that household in darkness and mourning. The little fellow, it seems, had left home in the morning with the other children to attend Sunday school. When the services ended his companions went to a neighbor's house near by to play, and sent the little fellow home alone along the railway track, with the above fatal result.

The track were the accident occurred goes down a steep grade, and the train breasting the up-grade just ahead comes down it at tremendous speed.

It was just as the train had started down this grade that the engineer first saw the white dress of the child, and supposed it to be a newspaper.

LIGHTS FOR THE CAPITOL.

The Lights at the Base of the Monument Have Been Discontinued.

Until the Confederate Monument was built the State lighted the capitol square by four large lights, one at each gate, at an expense of $40, or $10 each, per month. When the Monument was built the light at the west gate was discontinued and four electric lamps, of three incandes-cent lights each, were placed at the base, for which the State paid last month $40. This added to the $30 paid for the remaining three arc lights gives a total of itol grounds, or an increase of $30 over

At a recent meeting of the Board on Public Buildings and Grounds, the matter was discussed and the lights at the base of the monument ordered discontinued, both on account of the increased expense to the State and because the lamps as now placed throw light only on the base of the monument.

It is believed that if the arc lights now in use at the gates of the Capitol square are brought inside the square they will show the monument to better advantage by night, and light the grounds more satisfactorily. Some of the members of the board believe that by thus placing the lights inside the square three lamps will do more satisfactory service than those now in use, and also save to the State $40 per month.

The lights at the base of the monument have been discontinued for the present, pending the final decision of the board. The monument, however, will be properly lighted.

Funeral of Miss Montague.

The remains of Miss J.
