OF ANY GAROLINA DAILY. THE LARGEST CIRCULATION NORTH

EVIDENCE IN THE SHEMWELL MURDER CASE MAY BE CON-CLUDED TO-DAY.

THE CORROBORATING TESTIMONY.

Shemwell's Story Has Been Entirely Corroborated by the Other Witnesses and Payne's Partly so-Other Testimony of the Same Kind Will be Produced To-day-Shemwell's Wife and Son on the Stand-A Tilt Between Watson and Long.

Special to the News and Observer.

LEXINGTON, N. C., July 9. The day revolved drearily and sultry about the bloody spot of February 25th, last. The court room was filled as usual, one-third of it being taken up by women. The old mother of Shemwell was present for the first time, and Dr. Beckwith, of Bethlehem, Pa., son-in law of the late Dr. Payne was an attentive listener throughout. The prisoner's face, though somewhat thinner than when he first appeared in court, was with its usual calmness, markedly brighter than at any time before. His story had been told, and he, after a six hours' sitting, had taken his seat again at his accustomed place. So that this morning was consumed in bringing others to corroborate him. This continued until 3:45 this afternoon when the defence rested. Just before the defence rested, witnesses were called to prove the good character of the defendant and members of his family. Then the State began calling witnesses in rebuttal, all of them corroborating substantially the story of Dr. R. Lee Payne. There were called on the part of the defence: J. T. Tranham, farmer; Miss Alice Shemwell, sister of the prisoner; J. T. Barnes, farmer; Jesse L. Ford, a lad living here; John Harkey, an employee of Shemwell's; John T. Vann, insurance man, whose story was confined to the barber shop; Fred Springs, a little boy living here; Dupree Clodfelter, butcher; Alexander Sheets, insurance agent; Dermott Shem-well, son of the defendant; Mrs. Baxter Shemwell, wife of the defendant; Mrs. Wheeler, sister of the defendant. Those brought to prove Shemwell's character were: W. A. Watson, brick contractor; W.P. Brown, farmer; P. A. Hoover, farmer; A.L Link, merchant; Ed. Rothrock, blacksmith; J. L. Swicegood, farmer; Scott Brown, who married a cousin of Dr. Lee The corroboration witnesses for the State were: J. W. Lick, farmer; Squire W.J. Ross, of Stanly, who testified to Lisk's good character; Gus Thomasson, a country man; H. P. Gallimore, town commissioner and mayor pro-tem of the town; W. P. Smith, clerk. There will be more witnesses of the same character on the stand before court adjourns and it is quite possible that the State will have reached the end of its list by tomorrow noon when the summing up by counsel will begin. This gives good promise of the conclusion of the case by Saturday night.

The position of the case is about this: Shemwell's story has been told and corroborated. Payne's has been told and this section. He leaves two daughters corroborated by some witnesses. It is quite likely that to-morrow both the ent and public spirited J. R. Tillery, who widow of the deceased and other women of the Payne family will be put on the stand, who, it is stated, were eye-witnesses of the tragedy from the Payne homestead. As to the corroboration on either side the witnesses held to their stories, some of them with much confusion under rattling cross-examinations, and there was no variation from the original stories respectively of Payne and Shemwell except as to the position of parties when the shooting took place, which may or may not prove important in the summing up. Prosecutor Long diverted himself by asking Miss Alice Shemwell her age, which was heavily frowned upon by opposing counsel. Mr. Vann, who was present, testified as to the barber shop trouble Saturday night, that there was no understanding that matters had been settled between Shemwell and young Payne except by the silence that followed the dispute there, which is a contradiction of the evidence already given covering that point.

Will Hamner testified that Fred Springs, a boy, told him that he had heard the Paynes say that "they would kill Shemwell that day." Little Fred Springs said he was standing at the door of Dr. Lee Payne's office and heard his wife, Mrs. Emma Payne, cry, "Lee, Lee, yonder comes Baxter with a shot gun"; that he heard Dr. Lee Payne say in reply, "Yes, if he comes down here I will lay for him and kill him yet." He said that is what he told Will Hamner. Under cross-examination by Long little Springs repeated that that was what he told Will Hamner and that Dr. Lee Payne had told him since that he was mistaken in having thought he heard him say this.

A rather dramatic passage occurred in the testimony of little eleven-year old Dermott Shemwell, the son of the defendant touching the death scuffle in the mud at the time of the killing, after old Dr. Payne had just been shot. "Papa and old Doctor," said Dermott, "were scuffling near to the ground. Dr. Lee kind of jumped on him and kind of pushed him down and run his pistol round papa's back. I tried to pull him off and me and papa somehow got him off, kind of got tangled up and papa nation, and establish the honor of England of fell on him and the old Doctor land as well as consolidate the strength on papa. Dr. Lee was laying under of the Empire by conceding the just conpapa. He had his pistol on papa's stitutional claims of Ireland. breast trying to shoot. I jerked his

DRAWING TO A CLOSE wrist and put it down in the mud and put my knee on it

"He (Dr. Lee Payne) said, 'Go away Bobby,' (that is the name of Dr. Payne's little son), and I said, 'This is not Bobby,' and while I had his arm down I was throwing mud in his face. Some men came and took the pistol from Dr. Lee." Then in answer to a question he concluded, "I was not crying while the fight was going on, but when I met mamma 1 commenced crying and said to mamma, 'Dr. Lee drew his pistol first.'"

Mrs. Baxter Shemwell corroborated her husband to the letter. She is a young woman of comely face, dark auburn hair, with an expression that has the desolating touch of sleeplessness and grief, and an eye full of acute anxiety mingled with heavy weariness. Her sufering seems to have been intense throughout the ordeal, during which she has constantly fondled and sustained her husband by her side.

The witnesses testifying to the good character of Shemwell were cross examined by Mr. Boyd, who in each case asked them what was his general reputation as a peaceable man. P. A. Hoover said in answer to this question, "If you crowd him he will fight you," which caused the first laughter during this terribly laughterless trial. J. M. Swicegood said, "Like all other men that succeed in business he will take his own part when he is imposed upon," which caused another ripple of laughter.

During the examination of Thomasson he said he saw Shemwell on his way up the street following the Paynes, push his son around the corner of the hotel and say something to him which is a new and important piece of evidence bearing upon the intention of Shemwell, who said the boy dropped, and that he afterwards beckoned him

While Mr. Long had this witness in hand Mr. Watson in his impeteous way made some objecting interruption. Mr. Long said with some worry, "Oh, is it down?" and then addressing himself to the court in his audressing minself to the court in his usual coldly quiet way, he asked, "Your honor, may I ask the witness a question without these con-stant interruptions?" The court in the midst of the semi-hubbub gravely said, "Gentlemen you are old practitioners, this is no justice's court, we are not at the cross-roads, we are trying a man for his life, I hope we will have decorum."

Mr. Long, rising slowly with a half smile on his face, said, in a measured way, "Your honor, I am sorry I said what I did; I hope my brother Watson is sorry also," and then sat down. Mr. Watson, not seemingly through ill-nature, but seemingly through his intense concentration in his case failed to make any response. He kept on whittling the strip from the soap box top that has been the constant accompaniment thus far of his almost hawk-like descent upon the witnesses against his client.

DEATH OF MR, JOHN TILLERY. County Commissioners Change Tax Valuation of State Farms.

Special to the News and Observer

SCOTLAND NECK N. C., July 9 Yesterday morning at 6 o'clock Mr. John Tillery died at his home near Tillery, aged 84 years and 6 months. He was one of the old time Southern gentlemen and is almost the last of his age in all and four sons, among them the prominis getting up material for the county's exhibit at the Atlanta Exposi ion.

The county commissioners in special ession yesterday made quite a number of changes in the valuation of lands as sent in by the assessors.

The State farm at Caledonia was valued at $14 an acre, when the State has an option on it at $9 an acre at the expiration of the lease. The lessors would have to pay on their land at a rate of $5 an acre more than they will be compelled to sell it for if the State accepts the land at $9 an acre. The proper reduction was made. Superintendent Leazar visited the farm a few days ago and is favorable to sinking an artesian well to secure purer water.

The up-country tobacco curers have begun to pass down to these lower counties for their summer work in curing the crop. They say that tobacco in the eastern counties surpasses the crop in the up-county.

AN UNLUCKY THIRTEEN

THAT WAS THE NUMBER KILLED BY YESTERSDAY'S TERRIBLE WRECK IN CANADA.

AND SOME THIRTY WERE INJURED

One Section of a Crowded Passenger Train Crashes into the Other Section with Horrible Results -- The Rear Pullman Smashed into Kindling Wood and Everybody on it Killed --The Work of Rescue and Care for the Dying Begun at Once.

QUEBEC, July 9.—A terrible accident occurred at 3 o'clock this morning, at Craig's Road Station, on the Grand Trunk Railway, about 14 miles west of Levis. A large pilgrimage from Sherbrooke, Windsor Mills and Richmond had left the latter town about 10 o'clock last evening for the Shrine of Ann de Beupre. There were two section of the train, one running a few minutes behind the other. The first section was standing at the Craig's Road Station taking water when the second section, passing the semaphore, dashed into the rear Pullman coach of the first section, smashing it to kindling wood and killing, it is said, everybody in that car except the Pullman conductor, who jumped,

The Pullman coach was telescoped into the first-class cars of the first section, killing a number of passengers riding in them.

Following is a full corrected list of the dead and wounded: Charles Bedart. mail clerk, Miss Bedart, Richmond; Hector McLeod, engineer, Richmond; Richard L. Perkins, fireman, Richmond; J. T. Mercer, Richmond; Rev. F. P. Dignan, Windsor; Mr. Cogan, Richmond; Miss Valin, St. Joseph de Levis; Miss Phaneuf, St. Joseph de Levis; Mrs. J. B. Caver, Danville; Miss Delvcourte, Sheffield; Aunt of Miss Valin, name not known, St. Joseph de Levis; John O; Farrell, Capleton-thirteen in all.

Injured: John Cadieux, Granville; J. B. Cayer, Danville; Saraphine Cayer, Danville; Joseph Cayer, Danville; Lou-ise Cayer, Danville; Virginia Silvestere, Ham; Mr. Francis Fontaine, Broughton; Louis Gandet, Arthabaskeaville; Patrick McHugh, Capleton; Pierre Allard, Richmond; Antonic Baril, Arthabaskeaville; Hercules Descrotuex, wife and son, Danville; Rev. F. Desrosiers, Broughton, leg and arm broken; J. Quinlan, Montreal, badly hurt; Cyrillie Remilard, Sherbrooke, slightly wounded; Delina Gooselin, Sherbrooke, wounded; Mr. and Mrs. Hamel, Danville, the former injuries to right leg, and the latter head and internal injuries; Mrs. Louise Morin and Olivine Morin, Windsor, face and internal injuries; Mrs. Frank Cayer, Danville, and six year old daughter, head wounds; Mrs. Zephrin Lamelin, Windsor; Lazare Godbout, Lamelin, Windsor; Lazare Godbour, Windsor Mills; Joseph Richards, Bromp-Bennett Bassler, Pullman Car Porter of Toronto; probably one or two of the injured will die.

The work of rescue was begun as soon as possible. When the blinding clouds of steam had subsided the trainmen and priests called the men together and the dead and injured were taken from the ruins of the engine, Pullman and first class coaches and cared for wherever temporary quarters could be found.

The women of the party ministered as best they could to the wants of the maimed pilgrims. They tore off their under clothing and made bandages for the wounds and tried in the absence of surgeons to staunch the flow of blood properly cleanse the hurts. Word was sept to Montreal and orders from there were issued to levis to send out a force of doctors from Quebec to attend the wounded and a force of men to clear up the track. The special train from there reached here at an early hour in the morning, and all of the wounded that could be moved were placed on board a car and sent East to Levis, where they were to be cared for in the hospital.

It is hard to say where the blame for the accident rests. It has been suggested that engineer McLeod might have dosed off to sleep and thus missed seeing the semaphore and was unconscious of his whereabouts. A strong investigation will be had at once to determine where the responsibility rests.

KILLED BY WHITE CAPS

A WHITE HAIRED FATHER AND HIS SON CALLED OUT AND SHOT BY A MOB.

THE MURDERERS MAY BE LYNCHED.

The Sheriff With a Posse is Now Pursuing them, and if Caught they will Not be Given a Trial -- The Victims of the Mob Were Quiet, Inoffensive People, and Stood Well in the Community -- The Son Shot Eight Times and the Father Five Times.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 9.—A special to to the Post from Princeton Ky., says: A mob of masked men went to the residence of Joseph Howton, at Lewiston, eight miles from this county last night and murdered him and his son, Howlet Howton. Just as the clock struck 12, one of the members knocked on the door and asked to see Howlet Howton. He came to the door and was seized and pulled outside and shot through the body. The mob them dragged him to the gate and shot him seven times. After they finished him the gang went back

The white-haired father begged they spare his life and lives of his family but his entreaties were unheeded, and they made him back up into a corner so they could shoot him without danger to his wife and daughters. The leader deliberately counted ten and then five of the men fired at the old man. One ball struck him in the wrist, another in the abdomen and a third in the groin.

The men then left the house taking with them a boy who worked on Howton's farm. They carried him to a vacant building and fastened him safe, telling him they would kill him if he at tempted to escape before daylight.

One of the women was so badly frightened that she was utterly prostrated and her death is looked for. There is no theory as to the cause of the mob's action. The Howton's were quiet, inoffensive people and stood well in the community. The sheriff with a posse has gone to the scene of the double murder to make a thorough investigation, and it is believed that the murderers will be apprehended. If they are caught they will be lynched.

CROPS OF THE COUNTRY. Too Much Rain has Seriously Injured

Cotton in Many States.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The Weather Bureau, in its review of crop conditions for the week, ended July 8th, says:

The temperature conditions of the week have been generally favorable throughout the country, but the northern and central portions of the cotton region have suffered from excessive rains, while drought conditions in Michigan and Minnesota have been intensified. Northern New York, central Ohio and eastern lowa are also suffering from

Too much rain has seriously injured cotton in Arkansas, and in Alabama and Mississippi the crop is grassy, but in Texas and Georgia conditions have been favorable for growth and cultivation and the crop has improved. North Carolina reports cotton in poor condition and suffering from lice; lice are also eausing injury in South Carolina, but in that State the crop is in generally fine condition. Corn has made rapid growth during the week and the general outlook for spring wheat continues flattering.

Tobacco is growing well-n Kentucky, but the crop is uneven; in Maryland it is in excellent condition and Ohio it has improved, except the central part of the State, where it is suffering from drought.

Leander Failed to Start and Cornell Rowed the Course Alone.

HENLEY, July 9 .- The first day of the fifty-sixth anniversary of the water derby of Great Britain was a disappointment. Cornell was pitted against the crew of the Leander Boat Club, com-posed of ex-Oxford and Cambridge oarsmen, and said to be the strongest on the river. There was some confusion at the start owing to the presence near the starting line of a number of boats which seriously interfered with Leander. Consequently the latter were somewhat slow in getting into position. Then when the umpire asked if the two crews were ready Cornell promptly answered 'yes" and the umpire claims Leander did the same. This the Leanders deny. In any case the umpire gave the word "go" and the Cornell crew shot away. But, only half the Leander crew started and their stroke protested that they were not ready. In spite of this the umpire allowed Cornell to pull over the course and awarded the American course and awarded the Americans the race. The Leanders have lodged a protest against the umpire's decision, and it was referred to the Board of Stewards. But the board will not change the decision. The Board or Committee of Stewards this evening issued the following state-

"The Committee while deeply regretting the most unfortunate misunderstanding at the start of the Cornell Leander heat, feel they must abide by the laws of boat racing and cannot reverse the decision of the umpire and The scene on the river was one of unusual animation, even for Henley. The large fleet of houseboats and other craft were moored along the banks of the Buck's Shore, gayly decorated with flags and flowers and filled with large parties of fashionable people. It was estimated that there were fully 5,000 Americans present at Henley. They came by coach and by train from London to sustain Cornell with cheering and every other mark of encouragement
