CAMPAIGN KENTUCKY

THE GOLD DEMOCRATS OPENLY THREATEN TO VOTE AGAINST GEN. HARDIN.

ON ACCOUNT OF HIS SILVER VIEWS

But he Decares That he Will Stand or Fall by the Position he has Taken --Senator Blackburn Thinks he has Enough Votes to Elect Him to the Senate if the Democrats Win-The Populists Will Support Him upon the Advice of Marion Butler.

Special to the News and Observer

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 26. "I am now standing on the platform as I read it," said Hardin, at the Democratic conference this afternoon, "and I will not recede one iota from the position I have taken," and he was applauded by the other Democratic State candidates with one exception, and they all agreed to stand or fall with him."

The publication of this utterance by the Democratic candidate for Governor in Kentucky has greatly incensed the gold Democrats from that State who are here. Since Gen. Hardin made his first speech after his nomination in advocacy of free comage, the gold men of Kentucky both here and at home, have been denouncing him. Some openly declare that they will not vote for him, and many expected that the outcome of the Saturday meeting would be the withdrawal of Hardin from the ticket. Instead of that, he is supported by most of his colleagues on the State ticket, and the Executive Committee.

Mr. Carlisle is expected to go to Kentucky soon to lend his assistance to the election of the Democratic ticket. It was his influence that secured the adoption of the platform, and if the Democrats lose it will be said that it was be cause the party was committed to a new sort of platform for Kentucky. Here-tofore it has been understood out there that Mr. Carlisle, Mr. Blackburn and everybody else favored silver. If Kentucky goes Republican, Carlisle will have chiefly to bear the responsibility. The attitude of the Louisville Post, gold paper, that has botted Hardin because he is for silver, makes the situation critical, and nobody but Carlisle can prevent a general bolt by the gold men.

Senator Blackburn.

Senator Blackburn sends word to friends here that he has enough votes already pledged to elect him if the Democrats win. His only fear is that the gold men will permit the Republicans to carry the State in order to compass his defeat. Nobody believes that Carlisle would countenance such a thing, and it is because the gold men are talking of voting for the Republican gold-bug can-didate for Governor, and that Mr. Carlisle's presence in Kentucky is necessary. If he goes, and the Democrats win, it means the election of a free silver Governor and a free silver Senator, and a Carlisle endorsement. It is asking a great deal of Carlise to do this, but he has never failed to stand by his party in Kentucky, and is expected to hold his adherents into line this year, even at the sacrifice required of him.

News comes here that the Populists will vote for the Democratic nominees for the Legislature in every district in which Blackburn candidates have been nominated, and will do all they can to elect Blackburn. It is stated here that in supporting Blackburn, the Kentucky Populists are acting under advice from Sena-tor Marion Butler, of North Carolina. This sounds strange inasmuch at Butler helped elect a Republican in North Car-lina, and is expected to act here with the Republican party, but the information that Butler tells the Kentucky Populists to help Blackburn comes from reliable

Four Cent Cotton.

The Wilmington Messenger says "Professor Massey found a farmer whose cotton cost him but 4 cents a pound. How did he do it? Let him tell. A Halifax farmer in 1870 raised three bales on one acre. He got a premium at Weldon fair and about $100 a bale-making about $300 for cotton raised on one acre, and the $50, or whatever sum, prize offered. His cotton did not cost him more than 4 cents probably.'

The Democrat knows a Robeson county farmer, Mr. Daniel P. McKinnon, of Rowland, who did better than that last year, and this is how he did it. Mr. Mc Kinnon is reputed to be the best farmer in Robeson, which is a county of good farmers. He has his land under excellent cultivation. In the spring he doesn't buy on crop time, but pays cash for what fertilizers he buys, this being about the only thing he has to buy. He makes all the bread and usually all the meat consumed on his plantation, and makes one horse and one hand make as many bales of cotton as two horses and two hands usually make. He is a close and accu-rate calculator and says that his cotton crop last year cost him very little more than 3 cents a pound. He made money on his crop while many farmers lost. This goes to show that whether any business is profitable depends largely upon how it is carried on.

DESPERATE ENCOUNTER.

Retween Jailor Rivenbark and Two Prisoners in the Jail at Burgaw.

A desperate and bloody encounter took place last Friday evening in the jail at Burgaw, Pender county, between the jailor and two of his prisoners.

Two desperadoes named Gainey, white men, from Sampson county, charged with robbery and house burning, have been confined for some time in the jail at Burgaw, and have given considerable trouble, making repeated attempts to escape, even attempting bribery, and have sent letters serreptitiously to friends asking their aid in efforts to break jail. A few nights since the jailor found a rope made of strips from a blanket hanging down from their cell. It is supposed the rope was to be used in conveying to them some tools or weapons by friends on the outside of the prison.

Friday evening about sunset, the jail-or, Mr. Van Rivenbark, carried supper to the Gaineys. A negro boy accompanied him, whose duty it was to close and bolt the cell door behind Mr. Rivenbark as he went in; but from some cau e the door of the cell was not bolted on this occasion. As soon as the jailor entered the door one of the prisoners knocked him down with a club, and both the Gaineys then rushed for the door to escape. The jailor was stunned by the blow he received, but had strength to grapple with both prisoners, when a desperate and bloody fight took place, the Gaineys making every effort to disable the jailor so that they could escape. But Mr. Rivenbark clung to them, calling all the time for help. To-gether the jailor and the prisoners reached the bottom of the stairway, when Mr. Rivenbark's two sons came to his aid, and both prisoners after a severe struggle were secured.

In the battle the jailor received some terrible wounds on the head, and one of the prisoners is in a precarious condition from wounds of a like character.

Mr. Rivenbark has been jailor for ears. He was a brave and fearless soldier in the Confederate army during the late war, and has ever since been willing to take a hand in a fight. The Gaineys met more than their match when they attacked him.

Editor Meacham Still In Jail.

The Wilmington Dispatch says that the reason the bondsmen of J. W. Meacham, local editor of that paper, came off his bond and let him go to jail was that 'Mr. Meacham has been acting very badly for the past ten days. During that time he has been under the influence of strong drink, and like other men when intoxicated, easily influenced. Mr. Meacham's bondsmen fearing that he might be gotten out of the way while drunk and they be required to pay the bond, determined to free themselves from any pecuniary obligation in the matter and surrendered him."

Mr. Meacham says: "From present indications, I believe the publishers of the paper aim to make a scape-goat out of me, but if such is their intention they will be foiled. That is about all I have to say.'

Gold Bugs in Stanly.

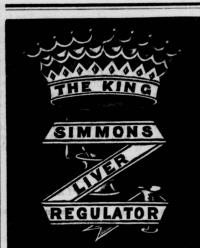

Salisbury Herald.

A gentleman at the depot this morning told a Herald reporter that a nugget of gold weighing 21 pounds was found at the Ingram mine near Albemarle yesterday. An effort was made to see Dr. R. M. Eames and get particulars of the find but he was out. This is the second largest nugget ever found in the State and is worth almost a shall fortune.

Are you taking SIMMONS LIVER REG-ULATOR, the "KING OF LIVER MEDI-CINES?" That is what our readers want, and nothing but that. It is the same old friend to which the old folks pinned their faith and were never disappointed. But another good recommendation for it is, that it is BETTER THAN PILLS, never gripes, never weakens, but works in such an easy and natural way, just like nature itself, that relief comes quick and sure, and one feels new all over. It never fails. Everybody needs take a liver remedy, and everyone should take only Simmons Liver Regulator. Be sure you get it. The Red Z is on the wrapper. J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia.
