American Frierdship. (By the Associated Press.) Washington, May 24 .- Amid the enthupeople, the superb bronze statue of General Count de Rochambeau, who brought the forces of France across the sea at the hour of greatest peril in the American revolution, was unveiled today. Seldom has an event presented so many brilliant features of military pageantry and at the same time given occasion for the manifestation of the strong bones of the election of Dr. A. Coke Smith, was friendship existing between the French Republic and the United States. For the first time in its history, the national capital witnessed the sight of rank on ank of Frenchu seamen swinging through Pennsylvania Avenue and mingling their cheers with those of the American blue jackets and soldiers, while at the same time the French tri-colors were entwined with the Stars and Stripes and the sound of the Marseilleise was heard along with the Star Spangled Banner.

The ceremony of unveiling occurred at the southwest corner of LaFayette White House, where the massive figure of the French General has been erected. Surrounding the figure were great stands to accommodate the many distinguished officials and guests invited to take part in the exercises. On every hand the colors of France and America were blended one stand being hung with great folds ed States, died at the Embassy this another with blue. With them were the French Ambassador, M. Cambon, and the entire staff of the French Embassy, all in brilliant diplomatic uniform, while the diplomatic corps was represented by the German, Russian, Italian and Mexican Ambassadors, and the ministers from many foreign countries. President Roosevelt and the members of the Cabinet were escorted from the White House by a file of minute men, dressed in the uniform of continental days. The President noted the appropriateness of the uniform for this occasion and made a brief complimentary speech to the escort. When the President arrived at the Presidential stand, the entire assemblage arose and greeted him with lusty cheers. After an impressive invocation by Rev. Dr. Stafford, who took the place of Cardinal Gibbons, President Roosevelt delivered the address of welcome. He spoke in strong voice and with great earnestness, pausing frequently at the outbursts of applause. As the President concluded his address, the Countess Rochambeau caught up the chords to the flags enveloping the statue, and the massive bronze figure emerged through the folds of red, white and blue. At the same time the "boom," "boom," of an artillery salute came from a battery of heavy guns nearby. and the strains of the French National hymn; the Marseillaise came from the marine band. It was an inspiring moment and led by President Roosevelt, the ntire assemblage joined in cheering. Another demonstration occurred at the close of General Brugere's address, when with characteristic French vehemence he gave this pledge of undying France American friendship:

"Entre vous, entre nous; a la vie, a "Between you, between us; in life, in death."

The ceremonies today were the culmination of the efforts of M. Julues Boeufve, of the French Embassy, extending over the last two years. He has ought to strengthen the bonds of friendship between the two countries, and to this end has urged to a successful conclusion the legislation by which the statue was made possible.
