No play will be repeated and no specialty performed twice. The specialties are said to be very strong and the following from the Augusta Herald of the 4th inst. speaks for itself: "One of the largest houses of the season greeted the initial performance of the Grahame-Goodwin company at the Grand last night. The play, "In Indiana," gave scope of very excellent work on the part of Ferdinand Grahame, the leading man, and Miss Lillian Dean, the leading woman, who were ably seconded by Jack Goodwin and Miss Flora Nelson. The audience was especially appreciative of the specialties. Baby Edna, the talented child actress who sings and dances delightfully, was the star of the evening. Other noted specialties were the buck dances by Cliff Austin and the musical sketch by Mr. Grahame and Miss Dean, which were repeatedly encored.
