American Congress

trict Shows Complete Comprehension of His Subject and in Frequent Interruptions Displays Perfect Grasps of the Question.

By THOMAS J. PENCE.
Washington, D. C., March 26.—Representative Pou. a member of the Ways and Means Committee, spoke for an hour and ten minutes in the House this afternoon, critically analyzing the Payne tariff bill, which he character-ized as "the worst tariff ever submitted for the consideration of an American Congress."

Congress."

The Representative from the Fourth, who has given nearly all of alls time for the past six months in the study of the tariff, had the whole subject at is fingers' ends. He was interrupted scores of times, such men as Boutelle and Hill, plying him with questions, but he more than held his own. Much applause greeted his remarks, and he was heartily congratulated by the Democratic side when he concluded, Champ Clark declaring that he had made exactly the right speech. The North Carolina Senators heard Mr. Pou, and shared in these congratulations.

Not Favored by Taft.

A feature of Mr. Pou's remarks that attracted much attention was his pre-diction that the President does not favor the schedules in the pending bill. In this connection the speaker

"If instead of lowering these ridicu-lously high schedules, you permit them to remain as they are, while you in-crease other schedules on the necessicrease other schedules on the necessities of life. If you permit your Standard oil countervailing duty to remain. If you decline to change section 19, which nobody understands, but which may take millions out of the treasury, if you permit your direct inheritance tax, operating as a double tax in 25 states, to remain unchanged, if you insist upon taxing tea instead of beer. I predict that your own President will never sign your bill. Let us nut aside all considerations of party policy and party advantage. It is all right to be a good Bemocrat; it is all right to be a good Republican; if is better still to d Republican; if is better still to be a good American."

Declaring that he hoped to see "the when no American industry wii need any protection," Mr. Pou that this is a question which rises or ought to rise above party. He thought the question ought to be submitted to me non-partisan body of men sworn adjust duties in the interest of all the people.

Concluding Mr. Pou said: Shall we legislate in behalf of special interests or for all the peo-ple of the nation. This is the quesof the sixty-first Congress."

Takes Issue With Payne.

(By the Associated Press.) Washington, D. C., March 26.-When the tariff bill was laid before the House today Mr. Humphrey, of Washington, took Issue with some statements by Mr. Payne in his opening speech regarding the number of Orientals engaged in the lumber mills of British Columbia, Mr. Payne, he said, left the impression that there fewer Orientals working in such mills there than in the State of Washington. That statement was er-roneous, he said. He declared that over 50 per cent. of the men engaged in the lumber and shingle mills of British Columbia were Orientals who were paid lower wages than American mill laborers, and that, therefore, the cost of production was less.

On the authority of Mr. Fordney, of Michigan, the Washington member asserted that the witnesses before the Committee on Ways and Means who wanted lumber put on the free list, were men interested in Canadian timber while those who asked for the retention of the Dingley duty were men interested in timber in the United

"We ought not to hestiate long when that question is presented," he said, "as to who we shall legislate for." Mr. Fordney, of Michigan, a member of the Committee on Ways and Means, and an avowed high protec-tionist, discussed at length the lumber hedule. He denied that lumber from the Southern States was going into ida in any considerable quantities except long leaf yellow pine.

Freight Rates Real Har.

Mr. Fordney admitted, in response to a question by Mr. Bartlett, of Georgia, that whether the duty on lumber was increased, lowered or re moved, Southern lumber could not carried into the territory north of the Ohio river in competition with Canadian lumber because of prohibitive freight rates. Mr. Slayden and Mr. Hardy, of Texas, declared that they had good reasons to believe that a lumber trust or combination does exist to fix the price of lumber.

"I have been in the lumber busines since I was a boy," said Mr. Fordney, "and I have never known of a lum-

Fordney declared that there h een a very marked downward tendency in the price of lumber during the past two years, and admitting him-self to be a lumber manufacturer, he said, if the duty on lumber was taken said, if the duty on lumber was taken off, his company would close its saw mill with the result that its 200 employes would be thrown out of work and the mill be kept idle until better times. He said in response to a question from Mr. Ransdell (Louisiana) that much of the complaint of the present duty on lumber comes (Continued on Page Two.)

Machinery at James City

(Special to News and Observer.) New Bern, N. C., March 26.-New Bern, N. C., March 26.— Joseph E. Hawk, a prominent lumber man, met a horrible and instantane-ons death in his own mill in James City this morning. He went to the mill early on account of some repairs and was assiting in putting on a heavy belt when a set screw on the shaft caught his overcoat. He was whirled around the shaft and his life beat out against the floor and anothe shaft about two feet away.

Both legs below the knees beaten off and the body fearfully bruised and cut. The mill was shut down at once and the body removed from the shaft. Coroner Jones summoned a jury, heard the evidence, the verdict being that Mr. Hawk cam to an accidental death, due to his own carelessness.

Mr. Hawk was about forty years old, coming here 12 years ago from Pennsylvania. He sold his interests pine lumber company recently purchasing the Bailey mill in Jame City. He was just getting the mill operation when he met his death. in operation when he met his death He leaves a widow and five children

EVERY PRECAUTION TAKEN TO GUARD PRISONER FROM POSSIBLE HARM.

(By the Associated Press.)
Mercer, Pa., March 26.—Heavily manacled to Sheriff Chess and guarded by several detectives, James one of the kidnappers of little Willie Whitla, was brought here today from Pittsburg and lodged in the Mercer county jail. His wife, it is said, will be brought here from Pittsburg tonorrow, and the couple will be formally arraigned on a charge of kidnapping in a few days.

Boyle feared violence on his arrival in Mercer and on the journey from Pittsburg asked Sheriff Chess if he thought the crowd would harm him. The prisoner looked greatly relieved when he saw only a scattering of people at the Mercer station. Boyle was hurried into a waiting bus and taken to the inil, where he was lock-ed in a cell on the second tier. An armed guard was placed in front of Boyle's cell, and a patrolman will be stationed outside the jall all night. Sheriff Chess said that the jall would be guarded until the trial of the Boyles was over. The officials questioned the prisoner about his wife's identity, but other than to say that there was no question about the fact that he was married, he would say nothing.

The $2,000 White Steamer Looks Good to a Great Many People in North Carolina, Who Would Like to Enter the Race For the Purpose of Winning One of the Fourty-Four Grand Prizes.

Somebody, whose whole heart was fliled with indignation which surged and fought for unterance, wrote a headline over a political meeting in the News and Observer yesterday morning. He talked about a certain faction of Democrats who had a steam roller, and, if the contest man senses the thing just right, it was running over some folks right here in Raleigh who refuse to assume the form of a dejected flapjack without making some complaint of it. That's all right.

Don't be one of those flap-jacky sort of citizens! Just go about your business quietly—and do things.

But "good hevings" suppose he had been talking about a White Steamer instead of a steam roller. Why, if that fellow who wrote that headlin. 'had of" written it about the Steamer he would now be dangling from seventy-seven separate and distinct peach trees which are sort of trying to "pinken" up the landscape and make you forget that you have passed through a cold, hard winter, when the wood wouldn't.

Look Out For the Car.

In other words, the News and Observer has a White Steamer touring carwhich is trying to run over becole in this State. About eight hundred of them are trying to get in its way and be run down. If the chaffeur happens to run over them and yell 'look out" after he has accomplished his deadly design, they get up smilingly and shout "hurry up and come back." Sure! That's right! About eight hundred contestants in the News and Ob-server's great $10,000 voting contest; want that first grand prize to run over them. But they'd die before they'd say so. You know, that last, and first, bonus offer was a great source of instruction to a lot of canadates. They profited by the lessons taught. They haven't anything to complain about and judg ing by the sentiment expressed by one candidate, they are not going to be discouraged if they didn't get it on the first offer. It is assumed, of course. that there will be others, but they be so large. This man said: "I had a notion to just sort of lay off today, and I was doing it. That's why I happened to drop into the stationery store where I got my pens and things. You know those postcard stands they have in those places; well, while I was wait-ing for the man to fill my order for a those postcard stands around idly and finally one of the cards struck me about right. After I read it, I bought couple, walked out and commenced work again. That little old card had on it a cheerful message to the fellow who is far away from home and for whom things are not breaking just as they should, as well as the man who is at home and is in this race.

He Grows Poetic. "Here's what it said." he continued, as he handed it to the contest man. And here It is:

'If the day looks kind o' gloomy And your chances kind o' slim;

If the situation's puzzlin' And the prospects awful grim,

And perplexities keep pressin' 'Till all hope is nearly gone-les' bristle up and grit your teeth An' keep on keepin' on.

This was surely a fitting sentiment and the candidate was fortunate in stumbling on it just when he did. Incidentally, it might be stated that the gentleman referred to was one of the winners of the first bonus and of the winners of the first bonus and he laughingly stated he intended to "paw up the earth" if any similar offer should be made in the future. That sort of made the contest man sleep peacefully, because it's the spirit which actuates the winners in a contest of this kind. That sort of a contestant never lets sleep interfere with his work.

There is a revised version of that old axiom, that applies to the contest business and it goes something like this: "All things come to him who waits—on himself." It is the contest man's experience that any man or woman who ever won a pri along those vary lines. T that a contest was simply a great unworked mine that the proper thing to do was to grab up a pick and hammer do was to grab up a pick and hammer and go prospecting. And if they were determined; had the true prospector's spirit, they usually knocked a moss-covered chunk off from a great rugged rock that developed a pay streak of free-milling are that put them in the race to stay with the leaders. It sure is a grand proposition.

race to stay with the leaders. It sure is a grand proposition.
