

PROBATION REVOKED BACK TO PRISON

John Staub of Sampson County Five Years More

VIOLATED THE CONDITIONS

Governor Glenn in 1904 Remitted Five Years Conditionally But Governor Kitchin Finding Staub Has Not Reformed of Good Behavior Has Him Arrested and Sent Back to State's Prison.

John Staub, a white man of Sampson county, was remitted from the State's Prison in 1904, under certain conditions, is now sent back to prison by Governor Kitchin to serve for five years, the remainder of his sentence of eight years. Governor Kitchin, finding from the evidence submitted that Staub has violated the conditions imposed by Governor Glenn. Governor Kitchin gives warning that whenever the terms of a conditional pardon are violated he will demand the violator to the State's Prison.

In relation to this matter the following statement has been issued from the Executive Department relative to the revocation of the conditional pardon of John Staub: "On May term, 1903, of Sampson Superior court, a convict of a secret assault and sentenced to eight years in the State's Prison on February 21, 1904, Governor Glenn granted him a pardon on condition that he remain of good behavior and be sober and industrious, and he was released.

"On April 10, 1909, complaint was made to Governor Kitchin, supported by affidavits, that Staub had violated the condition of his pardon and its revocation was asked. Under an order from Governor Kitchin Staub was promptly arrested and lodged in jail, and the Governor at once proceeded to investigate the facts. The clerk of the Superior court of Sampson county, both sides of the evidence, and both sides offered evidence, and the same was taken and transmitted to the Governor. After a most careful consideration of the evidence the Governor was satisfied that Staub had violated the conditions of his pardon, in that he had been repeatedly drunk and disorderly, having been convicted of breaches of the peace and violations of the laws in several different cases. He made a fact that he got drunk before he got home from the State's Prison, that he was convicted of being drunk and disorderly on February 23, 1907, of being drunk and a nuisance on August 1, 1908, of an assault upon one Pappas on the same date and disorderly on April 10, 1909.

"Finding these facts the Governor considers himself bound under the law to revoke the pardon and remand Staub to the State's Prison, to keep the balance of his sentence, which was done today.

"The Governor wishes it well understood that the pardon is inserted in a pardon it is not in effect and if it is violated the person pardoned will be promptly arrested and remanded to the prison to finish his sentence.

"It is thought that conditional pardons can be used to great advantage in bestowing executive clemency, but in order for this to be so, it is absolutely essential that the conditions attached to the pardon be strictly enforced and must be kept, or else the pardon will be revoked.

FUNERAL OF MR. C. B. EDWARDS, JR.

Held From the First Baptist Church Sunday Afternoon at Five O'clock—Interment in Oakwood Cemetery.

The funeral services of Mr. C. B. Edwards, Jr., were held in the First Baptist church Sunday afternoon at five o'clock, and in the absence of the pastor, Rev. W. C. Tyree, were conducted by Rev. TO TEACHERS' ASSEMBLY

THE OPENING SESSION TONIGHT AT MOREHEAD CITY.

The hosts of North Carolina teachers are gathering today at Morehead City, where tonight occurs the opening session of the North Carolina Teachers' Assembly, which, this year, celebrates its twenty-sixth anniversary.

Leaving yesterday for the meeting were Governor W. W. Kitchin and State Superintendent of Public Instruction J. Y. Joyner. The opening address will be made tonight by Dr. D. H. Hill, president of the A. and M. College, who went to Morehead City a few days ago, and following this there will be an address by Governor Kitchin, which is looked forward to with deep interest, as he is expected to make important utterances concerning the educational policy of his administration.

DEFENSES CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one cure for deafness, and that is by constant remedial treatment. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed, it is swollen and the circulation of air through it is prevented. Hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.
