ADDRESS BY HON. MAURICE F. EGAN.

United States Minister to Denmark Will Speak Next Tuesday Night at A. & M. College.

Raleigh has been unusually fortunate in the number of distinguished men who have addressed its citizens during the past year. On Tuesday night, May 7th, another man of great ability will speak here. On that evening Hon. Maurice Francis Egan, United States minister plenipotentiary to Denmark, will address the public in Pullen Hall at the Agricultural and Mechanical College. Mr. Egan has made a special study of social and agricultural conditions in Denmark and will speak out of a fulness of knowledge.

In addition to his career in diplomacy, it will be remembered that Mr. Egan is a novelist, poet, critic and translator. His address here will be largely devoted to a delineation of the agricultural life of the remarkable state of Denmark, the richest per capita country in Europe. Minister Egan ought to, and no doubt will, draw a large crowd. There is, of course, no charge for this lecture, and many out of town people will be here for the occasion.

TO BANKERS MEETING

Mr. Joseph G. Brown to New York in Meeting With American Bankers Committee.

Mr. Joseph G. Brown left yesterday for Briar Cliff Manor, New York, where the Agricultural and Financial Development and Educational Committee of the American Bankers Association, will meet Monday.

Mr. Brown is a member of that committee of seven, composed of some of the notable men of the country. On it are Joseph Chapman, Jr., of Minneapolis, Minnesota; B. F. Harris, president of the Illinois Bankers' Association of Chicago, Illinois; E. K. Gurney, of Nebraska; Edwin Chamberlain, of San Antonio, Texas; W. B. Vincent, Spokane, Washington; Myron T. Herrick, ex-Governor of Ohio and Ambassador to France, and Mr. Brown, president of the Citizens National Bank of Raleigh.

The scheme is one that is now attracting the thoughtful attention of men throughout the country. Mr. Herrick spent two months in Europe last year studying the plans by which it will work in part. It is a co-operative scheme of bankers and farmers by which the financial institutions encourage the building of homes and the making of good communities. In Germany and France it has wrought particularly well. The banks select some promising man, encourage him to invest in a farm and home, let him have money at a low rate of interest, give him years in which to pay for the property by small reductions of the principal as he goes along.

The American bankers appointed the committee last year at its meeting and the progress of the plan will be reported at the next one. It will make recommendations following its study. A good deal of attention has been paid to the Ruffin system and last year a young man from Rome, Signor Lubin, made a very interesting address upon this very plan of home encouragement.

At the next national convention, it is more than probable that the committee will be able to announce some definite scheme, Americanized and practicable. Mr. Brown is greatly interested in it and believes it has in it the making of communities.

BOY SCOUT TRAMP SET FOR SATURDAY

Will Visit Log House in Which Articles of Surrender Were Signed by General Joe Johnston; Durham News of Day

The school boys of the city next Saturday afternoon, when they will take a tramp to the Bennett place, the log house on the Hillsboro road in which Johnston surrendered to General Sherman.

Every boy in the whole city is invited to go on this first tramp, and Mr. McIntosh will make a short speech to the boys at the historic log house, telling them something of the principles of the scout movement. It had been intended to organize the local council this week, but some of the papers appointing the council have been delayed, and the organization will probably be made some time next week.

The school boys are very enthusiastic over the movement, and the first call for a meeting about a month ago brought out a large number. Many boys in the city who are unable to go to school have indicated their desire to get into the club.

Still Chasing the Tigers.

As a result of the examination of a number of witnesses before the recorder yesterday afternoon, when many of the citizens of the city were called before the recorder and questioned under oath as to their knowledge of the sale of intoxicants in the city, Charles Redmond was arrested on four charges of selling beer and George Whitsell arrested on one charge. While the recorder was after the tigers in general, he secured only evidence against the owners of two of the small brew stands in the city. The cases were called this morning, and the defendants asked for a continuance till next Saturday. They say they are selling "No. 12," and that the beverage does not contain enough alcohol to make the sale of the beverage a violation of the law against operating near beer saloons. It is understood that some of the witnesses yesterday testified that they were charged 15 cents per bottle for the stuff that the stands sell and that it had the color, and something of the taste of the real beer.

The Southern Conservatory of Music has announced an attractive commencement program for this year. The commencement will be May 6-17, inclusive. The year has been a very successful one with the Conservatory. The members of the graduating class are not only specially talented, but have added to this natural ability a large amount of hard work.

A Prosecutor in the Law's Meekness

A very interesting case before the recorder this morning resulted in the prosecuting witness being taxed with the costs. A few days ago R. E. Tucker, a white barber, had W. B. Smith arrested on a charge of embezzling a diamond. Tucker claimed that while he and Smith were living in Atlanta the latter borrowed a diamond stud, and did not return it to him before he left town. That was three years ago. Tucker claims he followed Smith from town to town.
