Moran was effective at all times a. d was in danger only once. Robertson was wild at times, but effective in the pinches. Stafford hit two men in the eleventh, thus contributing to the scoring, but was effective otherwise. Both teams fought hard, Washington and Lee playing an erroriess game, while A. and M. made five errors, three of them coming in the fatal eleventh. This gives each one of the teams one game.

The features of the game were Robertson's twice catching Washing ton and Lee romers off first, and Erwin's hitting for the visitors.

For a time it looked like Seifert, would have to go out of the game, when a ball thrown by Speer hit him on his left temple. This ball was a practice ball, being thrown from the beach, Seifert not seeing it. For a while it looked dangerous, but he gamely went on playing until the
