Closing Exercises of the Graded Schools Featured by Presentation of Portrait of Gov. Aycock to the School by His Secretary, Miss Renfrow

Spring Hope, May 20. The closing exercises of the Spring Hope Graded School were held the last three days of the week.

Wednesday was taken up by the seventh grade contest for a medal. All the orations were good and it was a proposition for the judges to decide who was entitled to the medal. The medal was finally awarded to Miss Ada Valentine.

The exercises Thursday night were in the primary grades. Each child acted his part well and clearly demonstrated the thorough training that he had received.

The graduating exercises were Friday morning. The exercises were appropriate, indeed and highly enjoyed by all present. Those graduating were Misses Estelle and Grace Hunt, Mildred Lindsay and Mildred Yellorought and Mr. Herbert Warren.

The annual address was delivered by Supt. B. H. Boughter, of the Appalachian Training School, and was a masterpiece of oratory. This address was one of the best of its kind ever delivered in this town. It was full of instruction, instruction and patriotism all the way through.

The exercises last night were also good, and listened to by a full house—there was hardly standing room—though this was not unusual, as there has been a large crowd all the way through.

In a very appropriate way Mr. J. C. Matthews, a very prominent Republican of this town, presented to the school, in behalf of Miss Frances Hefrow, a beautiful portrait of the much beloved Charles B. Aycock. Miss Renfrow is a native of our town and was Governor Aycock's stenographer at the time of his death. Mr. Matthews' speech was grand and the love for this great man by men of both the political parties of the nation.

Supt. W. L. Winkler and his corps of teachers at the graded school here has done a great work during the past year, such as will last for ages along educational lines.

Mr. Matthews' Presentation Remarks.

Ladies and Gentlemen:—It often happens that a man who has risen to prominence among his fellows, and whose actions for good have won him fame, is made the recipient of a grand public ovation from the people among whom he has lived, and to whom his living presence is an inspiration. It seldom happens that such a life, having completed its career and passed out of the world, leaves a memory, the mention of which will evoke the sweetest response from the public heart.

"Noblest tribute can ever come to the man whose record for good is but an incident to his place of power. It has been deemed that honors, elections, promotions to power, or shall proceed just as their receiver has rendered people service in their life.

No man in our time has quite so well fitted up to this ideal as the great Educational Governor, whose mighty will and force still speak to us through his golden tongue is deemed that peculiar place in the hearts of a cringer, not a crawler, not a worshiper of ancient mistakes, not a slave to the planner of the mighty and man, but the fellow servant of a whole State. Charles Brantley Aycock is to have that peculiar place in the hearts of his people, made by manifold affection of man for man. We love him because he first loved us.

A few years ago, there passed from these schools one of your own, the first child born in the good town of Spring Hope, the daughter of that former sterling citizen, Mr. Perry A. Renfrow. It was her lot to live near to Governor Aycock, first as his stenographer, and later as his political secretary. She served him faithfully, and of her he himself said: "A finer little woman does not live. There's nothing too good for her," and she knew the great soul of the man and loved him. As one who has received much from him, she wishes to give back to those whom she loves, some of the joy of that daily contact. This she has chosen to do by the splendid picture, whose tender, loving features you may behold every working day. The gift is in the spirit in which her precious friend gave all to a State struggling up from poverty and ignorance into knowledge and general power, who shortened his days on earth in preaching the gospel of Universal Education and equal opportunity to every child born on the earth, and died in the heat of the conflict sending his burning message to the people of a sister Southern State—his last word the word he loved—"EDUCATION." She sends this portrait to her girlhood school, and her wish is that you may catch from it the joy to face hard tasks bravely and to meet the call of every duty with joy and hope, that you may catch the spirit that filled the life of our dead hero—the spirit of service. It is the gift of love out of the pure heart of Miss Frances Hefrow Renfrow, and if you may find half the happiness in the receiving, that she does in the giving, her reward is great indeed.

It is with pride, we sent from our town the young woman who of all the women in the State was fitted by heart and hand to serve so closely the greatest man our State has produced, and we share with her on the earth, glory. We are proud of the honor and glad to share with her on the earth, that she shall overflow with a common benefit to mankind, owing no tribute to any man and bound only to love his fellow man and serve his God as to him may seem best.

"EQUALLY That is the word. On that word I plant myself and my party—the equal right of every child born on earth to have the opportunity to bourgeois out all that there is within him."

"I present to you, children of the Spring Hope Graded Schools, this portrait of the beloved Educational Governor of North Carolina, Charles Brantley Aycock."

Weather Bureau Bulletin.

(Special to News and Observer.)
Washington, D. C., May 20. Temperature during the coming week will average near or above the normal in the Southern States and generally throughout the western districts, and weather will prevail the first half of the week in the Northern States east of the Rocky Mountains, but it will give way to warmer weather in this region about Wednesday. The weather over the country during the week will be generally fair, except that it will be unsettled with probably local showers and thunderstorms the first half of the week in the Northern States, as a result of the eastward movement of a disturbance that is now forming in the far west. No general storm area will cross the country during the week.

Another Loathsome in a Lot of Trouble.

Atlanta, Ga., May 20. "Claiming to be heir to a $300,000 fortune, left him by his grandfather in Detroit, a man giving his name as R. E. Watson, and his home as Detroit, Saturday was held to the criminal court on charges of forgery, cheating and swindling. According to the police Watson dropped into the city early this week and bought an automobile, giving a check for $1,000, requesting the automobile dealer to hold it for a day. Meanwhile Watson took two girls joy-riding about the city, inspected several residences which he is alleged to have thought of buying for one of his friends and wound up in the restricted district where he was arrested. "Watson" declared he was a graduate of Harvard, but declined to tell the court the name of his family.

Craig's a Smooth Road.

(Henderson Gold Leaf.)
The Good Times observes that Governor Aycock was known as the Educational Governor, Governor Glenn as the Industrial Governor, and that already Locke Craig is being styled the Good Roads Governor. Wonder if Mr. Craig has earned his title from the fact that he is having such a smooth road to travel to the nomination this time?

TIMELY WARNING TO CALOMEL USERS

Calomel is a Form of Mercury, and if it stays in the Human System, its Effect is Terrible. Ask Your Doctor.

Any physician will tell you that mercury, if it remains in the body, will soften and rot the bone & disease doctors call necrosis of the bone. Calomel is a form of mercury, and to keep clear of danger it's a safe plan to take no calomel at all, especially as there is a better remedy.

Both children and grown people will find a perfect substitute for calomel in Dodson's Liver Tonic, a pleasant, vegetable tonic that induces the liver to act and which never has any bad after-effects. In fact Dodson's Liver Tonic will do everything that calomel does without any of the dangers of calomel. A large bottle costs only fifty cents, and Galloway Drug Co. will refund your money if you are not satisfied.

WASHINGTON FAMILY IN THE ENGLISH HISTORY

Memorials of Ancestry of George Washington in Monumental Brasses in Salgrave and Brington, England

The United States National Museum at Washington has recently received a set of rubbings from the monumental brasses of the Washington family in Salgrave and Brington, England, collected and presented by Mrs. A. T. Robertson of Washington, D. C.

The family of George Washington is well known to be descended in England, is brought to notice by the brass memorials and inscriptions still to be seen in the old English Church and Manor of Salgrave and Brington, England, which the Washingtons, the family of Washington and his family lived for three generations, previous to their removal to Virginia.

The Washington house, originally a manor house, was the major house of the village of Salgrave. It was granted to Laurence Washington, the father of George Washington, by Henry VIII, in the year 1538, upon the dissolution of the manor houses. Over the entrance is carved the Washington coat-of-arms, well known to every American.

The old church of St. Mary, where the family was buried for years, is nearly ruined, and a point of considerable interest, as it does, three monumental brasses in memory of Laurence Washington and his family.

These brasses consist of Laurence Washington's effigy, which bears the Washington arms, and the following inscription:

"Here both buried ye bodies of Laurence Washington, Gent. & Anne his wife by whom he had issue Sir John & 11 daughters. Laurence Lived ye . . . day . . . and 11 . . . Anne Lived the . . . of October and Dnt 1544."

Apparently Laurence Washington, great-great-grandfather of George Washington, devised this monument as a memorial to his wife, leaving the date of his own demise blank to be filled in after his death. This, however, has never been done.

Two other records of the Washingtons are found in the village of Brington. In this little township, not far distant from Northampton, stands the house to which the family moved from Salgrave. It was in this house that Robert Washington died in 1622, and in the year 1628, upon the dissolution of the manor, was the Washington coat-of-arms.

In the church of All Saints, near at hand, where Robert Washington is buried, an inscription reads as follows:

"Here lies interred ye bodies of Elizabeth Washington, widow, who changed this life for immortalitie ye 19th day of March, 1622. As also ye body of Robert Washington, Gent. her late husband second sonne of Robert Washington of Salgrave in ye County of North Em, who deied this life ye 10th of March 1622, after they had lived longly together."

Laurence Washington, grandson of the latter-named Salgrave, died in 1618 and is also buried here. Two of his sons, John and Laurence, became respectively Sir John Washington, Knight of Brington, and the Rev. Laurence Washington, Doctor of Divinity, Essex, whose eldest son, John, emigrated to America in 1657, and was the great-grandfather of George Washington, the President.

It is believed that the original design of the American flag came from the stars and stripes of the Washington coat-of-arms, and in the flag as to the colored stars, the stars signify stars in the right way, while the bars denote and define against wicked temptations and evil desires. The colors red and white seem to follow the color of the original motto, "E Pluribus Unum," the white, peace and unity.

It seems that the arms of the father of the country are incorporated in his country's flag.

FRUIT PROSPECTS

Everything is Favorable for a Heavy Crop of Fruit in North Carolina

Mr. W. N. Huff, State Horticulturist, has given out the following concerning fruit prospects in North Carolina:

"I have hesitated in giving a report of fruit prospects in North Carolina until I was sure that the

POSLAM CLEARS THE COMPLEXION OVERNIGHT

So intense and active is the healing power concentrated in Poslam that when used to clear away pimples, blotches or undue redness of the skin, results are seen overnight and for these purposes Poslam is used extensively by those who have no more serious troubles.

Poslam works wonders in driving away such afflictions, rendering the skin normal and presentable in appearance, for here is united the same healing power by which Poslam effects a complete cure of all eczema, acne, barbers' itch and sunburn, etc., stopping all itching at once.

The sale of Poslam is larger than any other remedy for like uses, following results are truly demonstrated by the free sample, mailed to any one upon request, by the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West 25th Street, New York City.

mantle of Jack Frost had safely passed beyond the borders of the State. At every report of a drop in temperature in the Northwest and Mississippi regions, the Southern fruit growers would wait with bated breath to see if the cold wave would be fierce enough to extend over his protecting barrier of mountains.

"The past winter was unusually severe in the South and fruit trees were kept in a perfectly dormant condition until much later in spring than is usual for this part of the country. They were not in bloom this season until nearly a month later than they were last year. This very much shortened the danger period of possible injury from cold.

"In a comparison of reports for the last thirty years, the United States Weather Bureau has set April 20th as an average date for the last killing frost in spring for the general fruit region of North Carolina, but occasional cold spells have occurred as late as May 10th. This extreme date has now safely been passed at which the fruit can be injured by cold, but everything has been most favorable to a heavy set of fruit. Trees all over the State have blossomed profusely and the set of all kinds of fruit has been exceptionally heavy. There has been no untoward weather since to cause much dropping of fruit, and the crop is expected to be in all parts of the State in the average season.

"There will be urgent need this year for training of peaches and apples all over the State. On May 1st, my assistant did some experimental thinning on greening peaches. Ten days later he worked an earman and Liberia and said that at that time the Greening still looked so thick that he could scarcely see where he had thinned.

"With the thorough and careful spraying which is now being given by most of our growers, the fruit of North Carolina will be high in quality as well as abundant in quantity this season.

"Many new orchards of improved varieties have been set in North Carolina and are coming into bearing. Much more attention is now being given to general orchard management. At fruit shipping points along railroad lines lime sulphur barrels are now more common than kerosene barrels. This has tended to put orchards in good healthy fruiting condition and has made them resistant to insects and fungous diseases.

"Four growers are now forming co-operative organizations and fruit exchanges and are preparing to handle their fruit in standard packages in railroad shipments to the best wholesale markets."

CUT BROTHERS NECK.

An Accident Which May Result in Death of Six-Year-Old Boy.

(Special to News and Observer.)
Washington, N. C., May 20. The condition of Bennie, the six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Latham, whose head was nearly severed from his body at the home of his parents at Jessama, is precarious, though the physicians think there is a slight chance for his recovery.

Daniel Latham, the eighteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Latham, was engaged with a bush axe in cutting away the shrubbery from the ditch banks on the farm and the little fellow was following him as the work was being done. The older son did not know that his younger brother was so near and in attempting to cut the shrubbery the axe struck him on the back of the neck, cutting a deep and serious gash. The unfortunate little fellow was carried to his home and medical aid summoned.
