SEABOARD COAL

CHUTE IS BURNED

Fierce Fire Wages For Four Hours and Causes Loss of About Twenty Thousand Dollars.

Fire which raged for over four hours and gave the Raleigh fire department their biggest work since the News and Observer are destroyed the chute of the Seaboard Air Line railroad early Sunday morning, entailing a loss of approximately $20,000.

The chute was about 65 feet in height and was topped by a small narrow machinery room. In the southern section of this room the fire had its origin, probably due to hot cinders carried there from the engine under the chute. It broke out with a fierceness that surprised the employees of the railroad and despite the shrill and loud notes of warning from several engines which had been sent to the scene, the fire had gained good headway when the fire department arrived on the scene.

Hampered by the inability to reach the flames at a proper angle in order to fight the fire the firemen were confronted with the danger of water pressure and not a single stream of water could reach the fire from the ground. Two lines of hose were carried by firemen inside the chute and for some time the fire was fought from within, but the danger was too great for the firemen to attempt.

When it was found that the chute could be done with the water pressure the steamer was put to work and two strong streams of water played upon the chute until the fire reached the top. It was at its height about 6 o'clock when the 250 tons of coal in the chute caught fire. During the six hours work of the firemen Master Mechanic J. B. Bishop set several sandwiches and hot coffee to them and was free in his compliments of their effort to save the building. Fire Chief Brockwell stated that if the department had been equipped with a motor pumpe truck the fire would have been extinguished at its start and the building saved.

The entire section of that part of the city was illuminated by the flames and a large crowd of people gathered to see the firemen fight. Some of the watchers remained on duty until the walls fell and others stayed until the firemen left the scene. All day Sunday a large number of people viewed the scene and where only a few days ago stood the tall chute now very little salvage remains. The chute was built about ten years ago at a cost of $15,000 and there has been some repairs since.

The child was asleep in an upper room when members of the family scented burning cloth. Making an investigation the child was found with flames playing around its head in the bed. It was sent at once to the local hospital for treatment.

It may sound like an Irish bull, but a man never knows how many friends he has till they come to his funeral.

TWO WOMEN AVOID OPERATIONS

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Chicago, Ill.—"I must thank you with all my heart for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I used to go to my doctor for pills and remedies and they did not help me. I had headaches and could not eat, and the doctor claimed I had female trouble and must have an operation. I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have taken it and feel fine. A lady said one day, 'Oh, I feel so tired all the time and have headaches.' I said, 'Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,' and she did and feels fine now."—Mrs. M. R. Karschnick, 1438 N. Paulina Street, Chicago, Illinois.

WITH LUCKY NUMBER

In His Hand He Didn't Hear the Knock on the Door of Opportunity.

(Special to The News and Observer.) Elizabeth City, Jan. 26.—Charles Pritchard, a young farmer stood in the crowd which assembled in Main street in front of a store with the lucky number for a bale of cotton which the proprietor of the store gave away, and never thought to look at his coupons until another number had been drawn and the prize awarded.

Dr. J. S. Blades, Pisgah county's wealthiest citizen drew the second lucky number and got the bale of cotton.

Mr. Gilbert has been conducting a special sale during the past fifteen days giving with each purchase numbered coupons for the bale of cotton. Last Saturday afternoon the numbers were drawn from a box in the presence of a large number of patrons of the store and the award made. There were more than fifteen thousand numbers represented in the drawing.

DURHAM'S NEWS FROM THE BILL CITY

Farmers Hear State Farm Demonstration Agent; Final Scenes Woman's Missionary Conference.

(Special to The News and Observer.)

Durham, Jan. 26.—The meeting of the farmers and some of the organizations of the city and county at the court house this afternoon the talks that were made proved of very great interest to the farmers present.

Mr. C. E. Hudson, farm demonstration agent for North Carolina and Mr. Brown, head of the corn club movement in the State, both made speeches.

Representatives of the Agricultural Department expressed themselves as being very much pleased with the work that is being done in Durham county, especially in the work of the farm life school. Mr. Hudson said that he believed that the farm life schools, working in all of the districts of the county would finally work out into the ideal county school.

Mr. Brown emphasized the importance of the farm bookkeeping. He told something of the work of the corn clubs in the State, and said that while Durham county did very fine work during the past year he expected to see more farmers boys come into the clubs next year.

Prof. J. M. Gray, superintendent of the farm life school outlined the work he hoped to take up during the coming year. One of the most interesting phases of his talk was that relating to getting the farmers of the various communities to organize for the purpose of working the cross country roads. At present it is possible for a farmer to go from one end of the county to another on a macadamized road, but the cross roads are still in pretty bad shape.

When a farmer wishes to go from his home to the home of a neighbor he has to wade the creeks and cross the country on foot. The farmer has to take the long road, and Mr. Gray wanted the farmers to get together and drag these cross roads with the log drags, once a day in the month he thought would keep the roads in good shape.

The rural telephone was another convenience, and well high necessity, urged by Mr. Gray. He showed in a short illustration not only the convenience that would come to the farmer by the use of the telephone, but also the actual saving in time and money. He intimated that the city telephone system had not been active in meeting the advances of the country people in the establishment of telephone lines over the county.

Col. Benehan Cameron urged the re-establishment of the old law requiring farmers to work the roads four days in the year. He thought that this would be the most effective means of keeping the roads that have already been built in good condition.

Mr. Cameron also told of the three great highways that have been brought through Durham county, and said that these routes would be the means of bringing people of wealth and influence through Durham who could not be induced to come otherwise.

The final scenes in the Woman's Missionary Conference which has been in session at the Memorial church since last Wednesday were marked by two great addresses. One of these was delivered by Bishop McCoy at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, and the final address was delivered by Mrs. Spillman, of Kentucky, Sunday evening. Following the address Sunday evening the new officers of the convention for the coming year were installed. Most of the 290 delegates left for their homes this morning. The Durham convention was one of the most largely attended in the history of the conference.

The trial of Constable Raymond Hall on a charge of assault and battery before the recorder this morning was one of the interesting cases of the day. The constable was found not guilty of the charge and the prosecuting witness, Charles Fear, was taxed with the costs of the action.

The constable went to the coal chute section of East Durham Sunday evening in the performance of his duties, and while there making an arrest had some trouble in bringing the drunken prisoner back to the jail. When the men got to the jail and sobered up a little they asked for a warrant against the officer, claiming that he had used unnecessary force in bringing them to the guard house. The warrant was issued, but the prosecution failed to make a case this morning.

At the suggestion of General E. W. Nichols, superintendent of the Virginia Military Academy, who has been in Durham for a conference with the local alumni of the institute, Durham has taken the lead in the organization of a State wide association of the former students of this school. The suggestion of the superintendent of the school has met with the heartiest response on the part of the older members of the association. The alumni meeting of the Durham organization was attended by a large number of the older alumni of the State from some of the other cities. Col. Benehan Cameron has been made president of the State association and the secretary is Durham's V. M. I. Alumni association has been instructed to get the names of all of the graduates and former students who are now living in North Carolina. Mr. A. B. Johnson, of this city, is secretary of the State association.

HELP SECURE DATA TAX BACHELORS (?) A Proposition To Be Urged By Two Preachers and Opposed By Two Near-Ones—Benefit Woman's Club.

Before the Woman's Club as promoters and for their benefit in the big Kirmess next week, a debate on the taxation of bachelors will be given one of the nights.

Mr. Thomas L. Trotter, rector of St. Joseph's Episcopal Church, West Durham, and Rev. H. B. Spence, pastor of the Methodist Church at Sanford, will urge that bachelors pay into Collector J. W. Bailey's income tax office a handsome price for the privilege of being single and staying so. Both preachers are gifted humorists, the first an actor of superb talent, the second a poet of remarkable gifts.

Mr. J. W. Bailey, Collector of Internal Revenue, and City Editor W. T. Hoot, of the News and Observer, will represent the negative, will oppose taxing the gentlemen without wives. The two preachers will magnify the single estate, the two near-preachers will tell the truth about it. In delicate fibaltery, the preachers are great, in controversy of a kind Collette Bailey is king of them all. He will bring to the debate powerful stuff.

On either of the contentions is one single case, and one married man. The issue will be debated in the city auditorium unless there is a change in the program, Tuesday night, February 3, will be the date of the contest. The club means to make it one of the features of a week in which entertainment has been planned upon colossal scale.

NEARLY MAD WITH ITCHING HUMOR

Began on Limbs. Spread in Bunches All Over Body and Arms. (Would Scratch Until Fell Asleep From Exhaustion. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in a Week.)

Murklevilla, Va.—"I was an intense sufferer from some sort of humor. It began on my limbs and gradually spread in bunches, as large as my two hands on my hips and all over my body and arms. I first noticed a stinging itching and unbearable desire to scratch. As soon as I had done so it would relieve very little and would leave the flesh very red, and flat looking lumps would appear and I would nearly go mad from the awful itching. I would scratch till the blood would appear. My clothing irritated the breaking out after it had formed sort of a head. Then I would scratch and a watery fluid would ooze from the bumps. The burning sensation was almost equal to being burned by fire. Nights I seemed worse; I could not sleep half the night. I would sit up till late and even after I could not sleep but would scratch till I fell asleep from exhaustion.

"One day I came across some Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I bathed the places with the Cuticura Soap and after they were dried with a towel I would apply the Cuticura Ointment. I was cured in a week." (Signed) Miss Marion T. Purkins, June 6, 1912.

NEGRO SUSPECT IN WOMAN'S MURDER

He Was Employed at Near-by Sawmill and Disappeared Saturday Night.

A negro employed at a sawmill near Wendell is suspected of the brutal murder of Mrs. William Lynch at her husband's home Saturday and a search is being made of the surrounding country in the hope that he can be captured. An axe, the property of Mr. Lynch, and which was presumably used by the murderer, and one of the dead woman's bloody garments have been found.

The murder of Mrs. Lynch was committed in Johnston county very near the Wake county line, and Coroner Jim Kirkman, of Johnston county, held an inquest Sunday morning. The jury rendering a verdict that Mrs. Lynch came to her death by foul means at the hands of some unknown person. The jury was composed of Messrs. Gus Richardson, E. W. Holder, William Moody, J. H. Barnes, A. L. Hoot and Cooper Heflin.

The negro suspected of her murder, whose name could not be learned, is said to have tried to sell a pair of trousers at half price and later disappeared from a saw mill where he was employed and which is situated near the Lynch home. It is thought he went in the direction of Clayton.

At another saw mill near the Lynch home the bloody axe and a farmer's worn by the dead woman were found. The axe was sticking in a stump and the garment was hanging in a tree.

Further particulars of the murder reveal that the husband was clerking at a store about three miles from his home and late Saturday afternoon Mrs. Lynch called by the store for him on her return from a visit to her sister. Being busy at the store Mr. Lynch told his wife to continue her journey home and that he would follow in a few minutes. He left the store about 20 minutes later and when he reached home could not find his wife. He went to a neighbor's home and then search was instituted for the missing wife. Her dead body was found about 11 o'clock half buried in a brush pile about 150 yards from the home as was told in Sunday's paper.

The funeral services were conducted yesterday and the interment was in the family burying ground. Mrs. Lynch was the daughter of Mr. Albert Richardson and was well known in Johnston county.

When you can't push through a fool thing, it is wise to back out.
