

AMBASSADOR NAON SPEAKS TONIGHT

Will Address State Literary and Historical Association on "Some Argentine Ideas"

LUNCHEON IN HIS HONOR

Entertainment by Judge R. W. Winston; Addresses and Reception at Meredith College. Award of Patterson Cup. Afternoon Session in House of Representatives

Mr. Romulo Naon, the distinguished ambassador to this country from Argentina, will arrive in Raleigh this afternoon at 12:30 o'clock. He will come by the way of Greensboro, where he will be entertained at a breakfast there this morning.

Mr. Naon comes to this city to make an address before the North Carolina Literary and Historical Association and the subject of his address will be "Some Argentine Ideas."

At the Union Station here he will be met by President Archibald Henderson, of the duties of any office of position, or for the doing or not doing of anything therein specified, or other obligation of the nature of indemnity, and each contract or obligation guaranteeing the validity or legality of bonds or other obligations issued by any State, county, municipal, or other public body or organization, or guaranteeing titles to real estate or mercantile credits executed or guaranteed by any liability, fidelity, guarantee, or surety company upon the amount of premium charged, one-half of cent on each dollar or fractional part thereof. Provided, that policies of reinsurance shall be exempt from the tax herein imposed by this paragraph.

At 1:30 o'clock, the distinguished visitor will be the guest of honor at a luncheon given by Judge R. W. Winston at the home of Mrs. Lindsey Patterson and some other out of town ladies and gentlemen will also be guests.

The address of Ambassador Naon will be delivered in the auditorium at Meredith College in the evening and will follow that of Dr. Archibald Henderson, president of the North Carolina Literary and Historical Association.

Following these addresses there will be a reception in honor of Ambassador Naon.

The award of the Patterson Memorial Cup will also be announced. The North Carolina Literary and Historical Association will meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the House of Representatives.

The program is as follows: General topic: County History.

1. A new type of county history—W. E. Boyd.

2. Vital Study of the County—E. C. Branson.

3. Conference on How to Secure the Writing of County Histories—The matter to be led by W. C. Jackson, Miss Adalade Fries, and T. M. Pittman.

4. Business session. The evening exercises will begin at 8 o'clock at Meredith College.

The association will be in session two days. At tomorrow's session one of the features will be the presentation of the "O. Henry" bronze tablet, which is being placed on the wall at the first stairway leading in the State Administration building, the presentation address to be made by Dr. Archibald Henderson and the speech of acceptance by Governor Craig.

TAKEN TO FAYETTEVILLE

Remains of Late Clyde Vann Interred in Home Town. The remains of Mr. Clyde Vann, who died Sunday night at Rex hospital of electrical shock received a week ago at the sub station near Method, were taken yesterday at 12:30 o'clock to Fayetteville for interment.

The remains were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Vann, parents of the young man, and a brother and sister, who were here at the time of his death. The seniors in electrical engineering at the A. and M. College of Raleigh and the funeral of the family and attended the funeral of young Vann being a graduate of the college in electrical engineering.

The pall bearers were Messrs. T. W. E. Thompson, E. H. Carroll, Frank Huett, J. A. Jones and J. D. Berry.

RAILROAD LAW SUIT

Verdict Against A. C. L. in Columbus Court For $1,500. Whiteville, Nov. 30.—The first week of two weeks term of superior court for the trial of a case presided over by Judge Allen of Kinston, ended Saturday with only two cases out of about fifty disposed of. One of them was Elna Barnes, admx, against Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company, the plaintiff, getting a verdict in her favor for $1,500, for the killing of her husband near Chadbourn about five years ago.

The case had, previous to this hearing, been tried in the federal court when a judgment for $1,750 was set aside and the next move was to re-open the suit in superior court here after reducing the amount of damages asked for within the maximum required to keep the action from being removed to federal court.

His Explanation Satisfactory.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Secretary Daniels today accepted as adequate the explanation of Captain Walter N. Hill, U. S. N., that comment on the Mexican situation published recently was written in a private letter to his family which reached a newspaper without his knowledge. The Secretary, however, admonished Captain Hill to be careful about commenting on international questions.

SMOKER AT WHITEVILLE.

Commercial Club to Be at Home at a Get-Together. Whiteville, Nov. 30.—The Whiteville Commercial Club will give a smoker tomorrow evening. The promise to entertain anything yet held here in the way of a "get-together" affair. The responses already received by Secretary Putnam indicate a good attendance from nearby towns and of the excitement throughout the State. The principal address will be by Mr. Frank Gough of Lumberton and short talks will be made by Judge Oliver H. Allen of Kinston; Hon. J. A. Brown of Chadbourn; Solicitor Homer Lyon of Whiteville and a number of others.

NO GAME WITH ROCKY MOUNT.

No States Teacher in Enfield High School. According to Mr. Fred A. McNeer, teacher in the Enfield high school, the basketball team of that school was not defeated by Rocky Mount team as sent out from Rocky Mount last week. Mr. McNeer states that Enfield has not been able to schedule a game with Rocky Mount, but that the Enfield team has played two and lost no games and will contend for the State High School basketball championship. He adds that the Enfield team will be glad to meet Rocky Mount any time that school chooses.

GOVERNOR TELLS OF GREAT GAME

Says Army and Navy Football Contest Was Magnificent Exhibition

SPIRIT OF PLAYERS FINE

Army Team Heavier and On This Account It Won; But it Would Have Won by Greater Score Had it Not Been for Iron Nerve and Determination of Navy Men

Governor Craig is at home again after his trip to Richmond for the North Carolina-Virginia football game and to Philadelphia for the Army and Navy contest. "I think you have printed a plenty about the Richmond trip, but I don't mind saying a few words additional about the great game in Philadelphia, the Governor remarked. "I attended the game with Secretary of the Navy Joseph Daniels and Mrs. Daniels. They were most courteous and considerate in the attention to me and to every one, especially to those of us who were from North Carolina. Their party included distinguished officers of the navy, admirals, and other persons of prominence.

"The game was a magnificent sight. I shall not forget it. The stadium was immense with its vast throng of 22,000 people, every one of whom was an intense partisan, wearing and waving the brilliant colors of either the Army or the Navy.

"The performance opened when the battalion of midshipmen marched in and paraded over the field, every one dressed in splendid uniform, and the whole battalion marching with the greatest precision and discipline. The bands were playing martial airs, the color-bearers carrying the Stars and Stripes and the ensigns of the Navy. The whole multitude cheered them as they passed.

"After the midshipmen took their places the cadets of West Point marched in and paraded amid the same enthusiasm and the same military display. After they had taken their places the game began.

"The Army had the stronger team, but was not superior to the Navy in the great determination of the players. The winning of the Army by a large score was not all that there was to be considered in this game. The matter as to which end of the field was taken was not so important. The spirit and the courage of the men was the fine thing.

"Football the Greatest Game." Here the Governor said his respects to football as a game. "It is," he said, "the greatest game that we have because it brings out the pluck and the admirable determination of the players.

"In the face of certain defeat those midshipmen played to the very last minute with all the spirit and nerve that brave young men can show regardless of the danger. It must have made the heart of every American present thrill with enthusiasm to witness the magnificent display of courage and skill exhibited by those young soldiers and sailors.

"The Army team was heavier, and on this account it won. It would have been a great score had it not been for the iron nerve and fighting spirit of the members of the Navy team.

"After the game was over I went into the stadium where the Navy team had gathered to bathe and dress. I saw that some of them were weeping—they took their defeat hard, but they are determined to win next time.

"Yes, sir," the Governor added going back in his mind to the exciting portions of the game, "to see those brave young men can show regardless of the danger. It must have made the heart of every American present thrill with enthusiasm to witness the magnificent display of courage and skill exhibited by those young soldiers and sailors.

"The Army team was heavier, and on this account it won. It would have been a great score had it not been for the iron nerve and fighting spirit of the members of the Navy team.

"After the game was over I went into the stadium where the Navy team had gathered to bathe and dress. I saw that some of them were weeping—they took their defeat hard, but they are determined to win next time.

FOOTBALL CAPTAIN

George Moore Re-elected to Head of Wake Forest Team. (Special to The News and Observer.) Wake Forest, Nov. 30.—At a meeting of the Wake Forest football team, 1914, on Tuesday night in Charlotte George C. Moore of Shelby was unanimously re-elected captain of the Baptist team for the season of 1915. Captain Moore led the team for the past season in quite a compliment which he receives at the hands of his teammates when he is again chosen for the same honor.

Moore played this year for the third consecutive season on the Baptist eleven. His position is left tackle. This is Captain Moore's third year in college as well as his third on the football team. He is a candidate for the degree of bachelor of arts at the commencement of 1916. Besides being one of the best football players North Carolina has ever seen he is a good student and popular with his fellows. "I will be back next year," says the captain, "and will work hard." He has been the mainstay of the line of the 1914 football eleven.

HEAL YOUR SKIN WITH RESINOL

NO matter how long you have been tortured and disfigured by itching, burning, raw or scaly skin humors, just put a little of that soothing, antiseptic Resinol Ointment on the sores and the suffering stops right there!

Healing begins that very minute, and in almost every case your skin gets well so quickly you feel ashamed of the money you throw away on useless treatments.

Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap are sold by all druggists.

J. R. YOUNG RULES ON FEDERAL TAX

Holds That Agents May Not Pay Tax Levied on Insurance Policies

Insurance agents operating in North Carolina may not pay the stamp tax levied for purposes of Federal revenue by the United States government was the ruling yesterday of Commissioner of Insurance J. R. Young.

After the passage of the act, and its circulation over this State, the question arose as to whether the policy holder, the agent, or the company would be subjected to payment of the proposed tax. Some people have been of the opinion that the insurance companies should pay the tax, and that the policyholder is not required to pay under the act.

Commissioner Young does not rule on this. He does rule, however, upon the action of a company in calling upon the agent to pay. If the insurance company calls upon the agent to pay the tax if the policyholder is not required to pay under the act.

Commissioner Young does not rule on this. He does rule, however, upon the action of a company in calling upon the agent to pay. If the insurance company calls upon the agent to pay the tax if the policyholder is not required to pay under the act.

Commissioner Young does not rule on this. He does rule, however, upon the action of a company in calling upon the agent to pay. If the insurance company calls upon the agent to pay the tax if the policyholder is not required to pay under the act.

Commissioner Young does not rule on this. He does rule, however, upon the action of a company in calling upon the agent to pay. If the insurance company calls upon the agent to pay the tax if the policyholder is not required to pay under the act.

Commissioner Young does not rule on this. He does rule, however, upon the action of a company in calling upon the agent to pay. If the insurance company calls upon the agent to pay the tax if the policyholder is not required to pay under the act.

Commissioner Young does not rule on this. He does rule, however, upon the action of a company in calling upon the agent to pay. If the insurance company calls upon the agent to pay the tax if the policyholder is not required to pay under the act.

Commissioner Young does not rule on this. He does rule, however, upon the action of a company in calling upon the agent to pay. If the insurance company calls upon the agent to pay the tax if the policyholder is not required to pay under the act.

Commissioner Young does not rule on this. He does rule, however, upon the action of a company in calling upon the agent to pay. If the insurance company calls upon the agent to pay the tax if the policyholder is not required to pay under the act.

Commissioner Young does not rule on this. He does rule, however, upon the action of a company in calling upon the agent to pay. If the insurance company calls upon the agent to pay the tax if the policyholder is not required to pay under the act.

Commissioner Young does not rule on this. He does rule, however, upon the action of a company in calling upon the agent to pay. If the insurance company calls upon the agent to pay the tax if the policyholder is not required to pay under the act.

Commissioner Young does not rule on this. He does rule, however, upon the action of a company in calling upon the agent to pay. If the insurance company calls upon the agent to pay the tax if the policyholder is not required to pay under the act.

Commissioner Young does not rule on this. He does rule, however, upon the action of a company in calling upon the agent to pay. If the insurance company calls upon the agent to pay the tax if the policyholder is not required to pay under the act.

Commissioner Young does not rule on this. He does rule, however, upon the action of a company in calling upon the agent to pay. If the insurance company calls upon the agent to pay the tax if the policyholder is not required to pay under the act.

Commissioner Young does not rule on this. He does rule, however, upon the action of a company in calling upon the agent to pay. If the insurance company calls upon the agent to pay the tax if the policyholder is not required to pay under the act.

Your taste will prove —that pure cane sugars, pure butter, pure cream, pure fruits

—only materials actually made, or tested and approved by us—are used in the candies made by —such distinctive goodness is only possible through the use of just such materials.

Our Sales Agent in Raleigh is King Crowell Drug Co.

HUYLER'S COCOA. LIKE HUYLER'S CANDY, IS SUPREME

FINDS BROTHER AFTER BEING LOST

Had Not Seen Each Other in Forty-two Years; Had Long Search

After a separation of 42 years two brothers, Mr. C. D. Harwood of Akron, Ohio, and Captain H. H. Harwood of Goldsboro, recently faced each other following a search of 35 years by the former. The meeting took place at the Odd Fellows Old Folks Home in Ohio brother it was the happiest moment of his life when he saw the face of the brother whom he believed was dead for many, many years.

Mr. C. D. Harwood is now in Raleigh on a visit to his niece, Mrs. C. B. Elmore, whom he had never seen until yesterday.

The story of the meeting of these two brothers reveals a faithful search for over a quarter of a century and interesting events in the life of one of the brothers. Captain Harwood, now at the home in Goldsboro, is said to be the only living survivor of the famous Merrimac ship and is credited with being the last man to leave that ship after she had set fire to her own side.

After the close of the war Captain Harwood went to West Virginia to live and in the year 1872, the last when seen alive by the younger brother, he left that State for parts unknown to the brother.

Seven years afterwards Mr. C. D. Harwood began his search for the missing brother and, until a few weeks ago, search in vain. He tried to get information from the records concerning the Merrimac and failed because the human communication was misunderstood when he enlisted and put down as "Howard." Through other sources Mr. Harwood finally found the address of his long-lost brother and set it afire to prevent its capture by the Union soldiers.

After the close of the war Captain Harwood went to West Virginia to live and in the year 1872, the last when seen alive by the younger brother, he left that State for parts unknown to the brother.

Seven years afterwards Mr. C. D. Harwood began his search for the missing brother and, until a few weeks ago, search in vain. He tried to get information from the records concerning the Merrimac and failed because the human communication was misunderstood when he enlisted and put down as "Howard." Through other sources Mr. Harwood finally found the address of his long-lost brother and set it afire to prevent its capture by the Union soldiers.

After the close of the war Captain Harwood went to West Virginia to live and in the year 1872, the last when seen alive by the younger brother, he left that State for parts unknown to the brother.

Seven years afterwards Mr. C. D. Harwood began his search for the missing brother and, until a few weeks ago, search in vain. He tried to get information from the records concerning the Merrimac and failed because the human communication was misunderstood when he enlisted and put down as "Howard." Through other sources Mr. Harwood finally found the address of his long-lost brother and set it afire to prevent its capture by the Union soldiers.

After the close of the war Captain Harwood went to West Virginia to live and in the year 1872, the last when seen alive by the younger brother, he left that State for parts unknown to the brother.

Seven years afterwards Mr. C. D. Harwood began his search for the missing brother and, until a few weeks ago, search in vain. He tried to get information from the records concerning the Merrimac and failed because the human communication was misunderstood when he enlisted and put down as "Howard." Through other sources Mr. Harwood finally found the address of his long-lost brother and set it afire to prevent its capture by the Union soldiers.

After the close of the war Captain Harwood went to West Virginia to live and in the year 1872, the last when seen alive by the younger brother, he left that State for parts unknown to the brother.

Seven years afterwards Mr. C. D. Harwood began his search for the missing brother and, until a few weeks ago, search in vain. He tried to get information from the records concerning the Merrimac and failed because the human communication was misunderstood when he enlisted and put down as "Howard." Through other sources Mr. Harwood finally found the address of his long-lost brother and set it afire to prevent its capture by the Union soldiers.

After the close of the war Captain Harwood went to West Virginia to live and in the year 1872, the last when seen alive by the younger brother, he left that State for parts unknown to the brother.

Seven years afterwards Mr. C. D. Harwood began his search for the missing brother and, until a few weeks ago, search in vain. He tried to get information from the records concerning the Merrimac and failed because the human communication was misunderstood when he enlisted and put down as "Howard." Through other sources Mr. Harwood finally found the address of his long-lost brother and set it afire to prevent its capture by the Union soldiers.

After the close of the war Captain Harwood went to West Virginia to live and in the year 1872, the last when seen alive by the younger brother, he left that State for parts unknown to the brother.

Seven years afterwards Mr. C. D. Harwood began his search for the missing brother and, until a few weeks ago, search in vain. He tried to get information from the records concerning the Merrimac and failed because the human communication was misunderstood when he enlisted and put down as "Howard." Through other sources Mr. Harwood finally found the address of his long-lost brother and set it afire to prevent its capture by the Union soldiers.

After the close of the war Captain Harwood went to West Virginia to live and in the year 1872, the last when seen alive by the younger brother, he left that State for parts unknown to the brother.

REPLY IS MADE TO

"A Sunday Sermon"

To the Editor: I have just read an article in the News and Observer of Raleigh, N. C., from the Charlotte Observer, written by Mr. C. W. Tillet of that city.

The article was based on that scripture which reads as follows: "The love of money is the root of all evil, &c."

The article in question criticizes the inconsistencies of the Methodist church in accepting gifts for our chief institutions from the manufacturers of tobacco and coca-cola and refusing to accept the gift of Andrew Carnegie for Vanderbilt University. It is but natural that the writer should view things as he does and I sympathize with him because he has a brother—a fine man too—connected with Vanderbilt as a professor.

He vanders himself in the course of the article as "A Methodist Sinner." I don't know why unless it is because he has not patronized Methodist educational institutions.

Knowing Mr. Tillet as I do and his intense honesty and devotion to duty, I do not believe he would have accepted Mr. Carnegie's gift based as it was upon an open avowal to practically own and control the university and back by a crowd whose object was to govern the institution and wrest it from the church, honestly if they could, dishonestly if they must. I say I believe Mr. Tillet would have said, "I will not assist in any such transaction." He cites the case of "Cousin Ben Duke" and "Brother Candler" and criticizes the acceptance of their gifts.

In both of these cases the situation is quite different from the Carnegie case. There were no strings tied to the gifts of Messrs Duke and Candler—they gave what they gave in fee to the church.

I have heard a great deal about tainted money but so far as I have been able to discern a dollar must have one of two characters—genuine or counterfeit—I believe no one has ever insinuated that the money donated by our "Cousin Ben" or "Bro. Candler" was counterfeit. The inconsistency of Mr. T. is again manifest for while he attacks Mr. Duke's dollars given to Methodist educational institutions he has not one word of sympathy for the poor orphans supported by tainted money nor for the poor missionaries who have been so generously aided by the same, none for the superannuates of the ministry and their widows and orphans this tainted money has helped.

No word of censure is given the Christian layman who thrives on raising the crude tobacco and makes the cigarette a possibility; no word of censure for the Christian tradesman or professional man who receives tainted money in trade or fees.

In my boyhood the sainted father of Mr. T.—I believe no one has ever insinuated that the money donated by our "Cousin Ben" or "Bro. Candler" was counterfeit. The inconsistency of Mr. T. is again manifest for while he attacks Mr. Duke's dollars given to Methodist educational institutions he has not one word of sympathy for the poor orphans supported by tainted money nor for the poor missionaries who have been so generously aided by the same, none for the superannuates of the ministry and their widows and orphans this tainted money has helped.

No word of censure is given the Christian layman who thrives on raising the crude tobacco and makes the cigarette a possibility; no word of censure for the Christian tradesman or professional man who receives tainted money in trade or fees.

In my boyhood the sainted father of Mr. T.—I believe no one has ever insinuated that the money donated by our "Cousin Ben" or "Bro. Candler" was counterfeit. The inconsistency of Mr. T. is again manifest for while he attacks Mr. Duke's dollars given to Methodist educational institutions he has not one word of sympathy for the poor orphans supported by tainted money nor for the poor missionaries who have been so generously aided by the same, none for the superannuates of the ministry and their widows and orphans this tainted money has helped.

No word of censure is given the Christian layman who thrives on raising the crude tobacco and makes the cigarette a possibility; no word of censure for the Christian tradesman or professional man who receives tainted money in trade or fees.

In my boyhood the sainted father of Mr. T.—I believe no one has ever insinuated that the money donated by our "Cousin Ben" or "Bro. Candler" was counterfeit. The inconsistency of Mr. T. is again manifest for while he attacks Mr. Duke's dollars given to Methodist educational institutions he has not one word of sympathy for the poor orphans supported by tainted money nor for the poor missionaries who have been so generously aided by the same, none for the superannuates of the ministry and their widows and orphans this tainted money has helped.

No word of censure is given the Christian layman who thrives on raising the crude tobacco and makes the cigarette a possibility; no word of censure for the Christian tradesman or professional man who receives tainted money in trade or fees.

In my boyhood the sainted father of Mr. T.—I believe no one has ever insinuated that the money donated by our "Cousin Ben" or "Bro. Candler" was counterfeit. The inconsistency of Mr. T. is again manifest for while he attacks Mr. Duke's dollars given to Methodist educational institutions he has not one word of sympathy for the poor orphans supported by tainted money nor for the poor missionaries who have been so generously aided by the same, none for the superannuates of the ministry and their widows and orphans this tainted money has helped.

No word of censure is given the Christian layman who thrives on raising the crude tobacco and makes the cigarette a possibility; no word of censure for the Christian tradesman or professional man who receives tainted money in trade or fees.

In my boyhood the sainted father of Mr. T.—I believe no one has ever insinuated that the money donated by our "Cousin Ben" or "Bro. Candler" was counterfeit. The inconsistency of Mr. T. is again manifest for while he attacks Mr. Duke's dollars given to Methodist educational institutions he has not one word of sympathy for the poor orphans supported by tainted money nor for the poor missionaries who have been so generously aided by the same, none for the superannuates of the ministry and their widows and orphans this tainted money has helped.

No word of censure is given the Christian layman who thrives on raising the crude tobacco and makes the cigarette a possibility; no word of censure for the Christian tradesman or professional man who receives tainted money in trade or fees.

In my boyhood the sainted father of Mr. T.—I believe no one has ever insinuated that the money donated by our "Cousin Ben" or "Bro. Candler" was counterfeit. The inconsistency of Mr. T. is again manifest for while he attacks Mr. Duke's dollars given to Methodist educational institutions he has not one word of sympathy for the poor orphans supported by tainted money nor for the poor missionaries who have been so generously aided by the same, none for the superannuates of the ministry and their widows and orphans this tainted money has helped.

THAR'S mo' than one I way to kill a cat but they all look about alike to the cat, I reckon. Image of a man and a cat.

REPLY IS MADE TO "A Sunday Sermon" Text about money and church.

18 MONTHS SENTENCES GIVEN FOUR NEGROES Broke Seal of Car in Interstate Traffic—One Year For Illicit Distiller.

WESTPORT Correct cut-away shape to satisfy fashion's edict and the Easy-Tie-Slide-Space to satisfy comfort and convenience, found in all Lion Collars.

The New Shoe Styles Are Truly Feminine Never have women's shoes played a more important part in correct toilette than during the coming Fall and Winter Seasons.

CROCKER'S Footwear For Women makes its appeal to every woman who appreciates good form, good fit, and unusual wearing qualities.

The Hammack-Cooke Co. 415 Commercial National Bank Bldg.—Phone 416 Manufacturers Agts., Asbestos Pipe Covering, Cements, Etc.