WIND OF WINTER WEATHER

Wind of winter weather. Where and where away? Have you dreams of summer? Memories of May? Know you of the palace Where the high snow-angels stay?

Wind of winter weather. Where and where away? Singing of your sorrow To a sky of gray? Know you of the garden Where Love makes holiday?

Wind of winter weather. Leave the world of care. The bird's song is silent. The snow is round its feet. And Love would seek the hills To hide his wounded breast.

NATURE'S SECRETS REVEALED.

Life Story of Plants and Flowers Told in Howe Pictures.

(By the Press Agent.)

Tonight and Wednesday matinee and night the Academy of Music will present an all new program of Lyman H. Howe's moving picture travels.

A film revealing the growth of plants and flowers discloses some of nature's secrets which human vision could not detect. It is a revelation of how nature works. In a few moments the whole life-story of well-known plants and flowers is depicted in details that are astonishing. The film discloses the mystery, grace and beauty of botanical life in a manner that no words could describe. Again another subject gives intimate glimpses into the habits and habits of birds in all the rich tints of their plumage. Though extremely shy and timid, they were photographed wholly unaware of the proximity of the camera because of the skill, ingenuity and tireless zeal and patience exercised by the photographer. A series of electrolysis of metals—one of the wonders of electrical science—showing the transformation of metals from liquid to fantastic solid forms, is also shown. Then, too, there is a trip to Venice with its graceful gondolas gliding up and down the canals, past weather-stained facades and imposing palaces. In this moving panorama all that is quaint, historic and enchanting is passed on route under the wizardry of superb color effects. Venice, thronged on her hundred isles is pictured here with a degree of magnificence that must be seen to be appreciated. A third ride through Greece and new animated cartoons—those clever, amusing conceits—made by Mr. Howe's artists exclusively for his exhibition, are only a few of the many pleasing features of the new program.

Prices are: matinee, children, 15c; adults, 25 and 35c. Nights, 25, 35 and 50c. Seat sale open.

WOULD LIFT WAR BAN ON TURPENTINE

Governor Craig Wires Bryan Protesting at Action of British Government

Governor Craig yesterday wired to Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan, protesting against the action of the British government in placing resinous products (spirits oil) on the list of absolute contraband of war. The Governor took this action upon the receipt of a telegram from Senator Fletcher, of Florida, who gave the information that the British ambassador had taken such action against resinous products. Senator Fletcher declared such action was unequal for and unfair and is a blow at the industry prevailing throughout the yellow pine belt and he further said that this action follows assurances recently given that these products would not be on the contraband list. He requested that the Governor wire the State Department and ask that it use its influence in having the order rescinded.

The Governor yesterday sent the following telegram to Secretary of State Bryan: "The placing of resinous products and turpentine spirits oil by Great Britain on the list of absolute contraband of war works a great hardship on a large part of North Carolina. Please use your best efforts with the British ambassador to have his government rescind its action, which is a great blow to one of North Carolina's leading industries."
