Reception By Junior Class-Delight

The Junior class of Meredith has of Wake Forest College to a recepof Wake Forest College to a reception to be given on Monday evening. A rather delightful feature of the Meredith drill in Domestic Science is the serving of breakfast by two of the young ladies of the class every morning. At this breakfast, there are invited two members of the faculty, and two students, and the two who have charge of this unique repast, divide the work, one young lady doing the cooking and the other the serving. Thus the members of the cooking class Thus the members of the cooking class

Thus the members of the coosing class have practical training in preparing and serving meals.

The Easter holidays at Meredith will last until Wednesday morning, where regular work will be resumed.

MILITARISM DEPEATED IN DEBATE AT ELON COLLEGE

hmen Go Down Before Argu-ments of Sophomores.

Mr. H. S. Smith of MacLeansville, N. C., was opposed to the militaristic tendency now apparent in this country, largely due to agilation on the part of our army and navy officials and pointed to a more excellent way to expend the money which we now invest in army and navy equipment, urging that we could well build hospitals and colleges in foreign countries to show them our good will rather than build navies to parade around the world on guatronomic voyages. He further urgod that the teaching of Holy Writ is diametrically opposed to militarism and that sooner or later its teachings would take hold of the hearts of nations as well as of the hearts of man.

Friends Endeavor To Explain Some of Things in Connection With Prisoner in France

HIS PRISON PLACE SECRET

Residents of Suburb of Viroflay Say The Man Has Long Been Regarded With Suspicion; American Embassy Has Not Received Official Notice of Case

Paris, April 2.—Although the police investigation of the career of Raymond Swoboda, charged with being responsible for the fire aboard the ship LaTouraine, has brought out additional facts regarding him, he remains something of a mystery. Several of his friends profess to consider the charges against him entirely unfounded.

charges against him entirely unfounded.

M. Trescat, a stock broker, who knew Swoboda well, says he can see no possible mo've for the act of which he is accused. After hostilities began and business was suspended on the bourse, according to Trescat, Swoboda sought some other occupation. One of the plans he considered was to go to the United States and obtain samples of military clothing, equipment and tools, which the ministry of war would be likely to purchase. Trescat asserts Swoboda inally decided upon this venture. He visited many factories in America giving as a reference Broker Morrison, who is one of the most widely known general merchants in Paris. Upon the strength of this reference he obtained the samples he sought, according to Trescat. The police credit the statement of M. Trescat. according to Trescat. The police credit the statement of M. Trescat, for when they searched the office in the Avenue De L'Opera, where five trunks belonging to Swoboda were stored, they found that two of them had been opened and the contents displayed in an adjoining room. The display consisted of cloth, woolen gloves, socks leather, metal fiasks, canned goods, boots, entrenching tools and even a complete French uniform.

Try To Explain Photograph.

Friends of Swoboda explain the photograph in which he appears in the uniform of a German officer by stating that he spent two years at Heidelberg to perfect himself in German, and the picture probably was taken while he was wearing his student's uniform.

Pians formed in Swoboda's office, which the police regarded as suspicious his friends say probably were left there by an uncle who is an architect at Vancouver, and who recently visited him in Paris.

M. Mommeja, of the Boulevard Haussman, a banker who employed Swoboda in 1912, declared to reporters that Swoboda represented himself as a Canadian and said he did not know a word of German but some time later he overheard Swoboda talking German fluently, over the telephone. When the banker called the attention of his employee to the condicting statements he had made. Swoboda explained that he had studied at Heldelberg, Mommeja became suspicious, however, and discharged Swoboda in 1913.
