MURPHY MAYOR IN WALK-OVER

Foushee and Rees Other Two Commissioners Elected by Greensboro.

SHRINERS THERE MAY 25-26

Hearing, Next Tuesday Before Judge Boyd to Determine Whether or Not the Receiver Shall Issue Any More Receiver's Certificates in Grand Lumber Case.

Greensboro, May 4.—The city election today was a tame affair. Following the primary, all opponents of the present officers except Mr. J. H. Cook, a candidate for mayor, dropped out. Mr. Cook kept up the fight but he received about the same proportion of the vote that he did in the primary. Mayor Thomas J. Murphy beat him nearly two to one. The following officers were unanimously re-elected: J. Giles Foushee, commissioner of public works; R. M. Rees, commissioner of public safety; S. Glenn Brown, judge of the municipal court. Under Greensboro's charter the city primary and election are non-political. All candidates announce themselves, pay five dollars and go on the same ticket; the two candidates receiving the highest vote are nominated, and are entitled to go into the election. The primary usually shows public sentiment, and if one candidate has a large lead, all others drop out and he has the election to himself. This year all candidates running second and entitled to go into the election dropped out except Mr. Cook. The vote today was much smaller than the primary vote. Local Shriners have appointed committees and are beginning to plan for the meeting of the Oasts here May 25-26. It is expected that this occasion will bring more than a thousand people to the city. Besides the oasis, there will be a whole train load from Khediver temple at Norfolk, Va. Elm street from the depot to the city hall will have a festive appearance. All windows and store fronts are to be decorated and extra lights will be strung across the street. H. W. Lewis, of Atlantic City, the official decorator of the Shrine, is here this week arranging for the decorations. Next Tuesday a hearing will be held here before Judge Boyd to determine whether or not the receiver shall issue any more receiver's certificates in the matter of the Grand Lumber Company and the Watauga and Yadkin Valley Railroad company, both of which are in court and for both of which W. J. Grandin is receiver. The stockholders and promoters of the two companies are making a desperate effort to get the receivership continued in the hope of being able to pull the companies through, but the bond-holders are asking that the property be sold to satisfy their claims, and it now looks as if the property will have to be sold to satisfy the mortgages securing these bonds. The Piedmont Ice and Coal Company is the name of a new concern for Greensboro to engage in the business indicated by its name. The process of organization has been under way for some time, and now a lot has been purchased and a building begun. This building is at the intersection of McAdoo avenue and the Mt. Airy branch of the Southern railway. Machinery has been purchased, and will arrive before the building is completed. The plant will have a twenty-ton capacity daily and will have wagons upon the streets selling ice. Next winter it will do a coal business. The work of the parcel post transfer station and the mail transfer station at the depot here has been consolidated. The three men who have worked in the transfer mail station in eight hour shifts will work in the parcel post terminal station. This will give a total force of eleven men in the terminal station. After about July 1, the Greensboro station will be the only parcel post terminal in the State. It is said that the stations in Raleigh and Salisbury will be discontinued. There is considerable objection to this plan, and the Raleigh and Salisbury folks may be able to prevent the discontinuance of the stations at those places. Announcement is made that Greensboro will have two additional letter carriers after June 1.

Enthusiastic Over Work of Southern Commercial Congress. Rocky Mount, May 4.—"I am back home now to make cotton, corn and tobacco," was the remark of Lieutenant Governor Daughtridge who alighted from a northbound A. C. The Lieutenant Governor as a director of the organization has been in attendance at the meeting which was held at Muskogee, Okla., during the past week.

In the language of Dr. James A. MacDonald, our distinguished ex-president, 'sons of the Gael' should stand together," in the march to Red Springs and the Flora MacDonald College."

Henson of Davidson township, this county, was given a hearing here yesterday before Justice Lazenby on a charge of false pretense. He was required to give $200 bond for his appearance at the higher court. The case grew out of the signing of a note. G. M. Josey of Fallstown township preferred the charge. AFFRAY CASE TO BE HEARD FRIDAY MORNING

Docket Unusually Light. Three Cases of Drunks and Disorders. The most important case yesterday before Justice Harris, that of the Dutch-Street-Lumaden affray, was continued until Friday morning in order to give each principal in the affair more time to prepare his case, as it understood there will be a determined fight put up by the aggrieved ones. The docket was not unusually heavy for a morning after an election. There were six cases called for trial and three continued. There was some surprise expressed that after last night's disgraceful Bacchanalian revels over the streets of the town there should be no arrests among those connected with the affair. Will Harris, white, became lit up on election liquor and paid the costs of an automobile ride to the lock-up, it being his first appearance in court. Another victim of the hot weather and mean whiskey, Ed. Dickson, was relieved of $5.00 and costs. John O'Keely, colored, was found guilty of being drunk. He was fined five dollars and the cost of the case, a capias included. Lee Thomas, charged with selling whiskey, was continued until tomorrow morning.

The revenue collections for this district through the office of Collector Waite for April totaled $746,241.62, which is the second largest amount ever collected in a single month.

D. Houk, E. D. Gamble and R. P. Caldwell, aldermen; W. C. Peimster and Dr. J. A. Young, members of the school board. Citizens in the drainage districts on Clark and McLean's creeks met here yesterday in annual session. The Clark creek people elected C. E. Long, D. E. Sigman and L. H. Seitz as commissioners. Professor John J. Ingle of Catawba College sustained a fracture of his right arm at the wrist Saturday as a result of cranking an automobile. Saturday Otmer Warwick got his right arm broken the same way. Rev. V. L. Fulmer, the new pastor of the Lutheran church, delivered his first sermon Sunday morning and evening, and the congregation is delighted. He and family are now occupying the parsonage. The Newton graded schools come to a close this week. The first event will be the address tomorrow by Rev. Eugene Forrest Heald of Washington, D. C. Tomorrow evening the graduating exercises will be held.
