GET $1,000 WEEK

This Interesting Fact As To New Contract Brought Out in New York Litigation

From the Editor and Publisher

It was brought out in the injunction procedings this week before Mr. Justice Weeks, in Part I of the Supreme Court for New York county, that "Bud". Fisher, the creator of Sthe comic characters "Mutt' and "Jeff," is under contract for the jargest salary ever paid to a so-called "comic artist," namely, a minimum of $1,000 a week. Bainbridge Colby, of counsel for the Star Company (publisher of the New York American) admitted that Picher has been drawing a salary of $300 per west for the newspaper rights exclus-ive of book and dramatic rights, and that the Star Company has realized $1.875 gross weekly from the feature popular through the expenditure of a large sum of money for promotion and by placing back of it the great power and force and president of a partice wide organization. the great power and force and pres-tige of a nation-wide organization. He explained that Fisher had been coddled, pampered and spoiled; that the Star company created the "Mutt and Jeff" comic strips, and asked that the Star's right he protected and that Fisher he enjoined Fisher's. pro that Pieber be sufolned. ture to newspapers and a guarantee of $1,000 per week. Mr. Kelly emphasized the fact that Mr. Kelly emphasized the fact that this Wheeler syndicate had already sold the feature comic strip to over $6 papers, which are under contract to pay $50,000 the first year; and many papers have contracted for the service for a term of years, so that the syndicate has bone fide contracts with newspapers for over $300,000. It was borne in upon the court that the New York World has sered to pay $500 per week, and a Boston paper will pay $300 per week.

The lifigation was somewhat involved. The Star Company sought to restrain the Wheeler syndicate and Flater as follows:

It is thought that the litigation will be long drawn out and that an extended hearing will have to be had at the October term of court.

Counsel call attention to the fact that the points at issue are new and that they have not been adjudicated in either the Buster Brown suit of the New York Herald or the Dirks suit of the New York World.
