New York, Oct. 22.—Builish Southern spot advices and Liverpool steadiness imparted a generally steady tone to the cotton market during today's early trading, but prices weakened later on reports of unsettled stering exchange and prospects for more favorable weather over Sunday. The closing was steady not unchanged to two points lower.

The market opened unchanged to two points bigher and after some livegularity sold to 7 points above last night with December touching 12.30, March 12.32 and May 12.07. There was scattered covering and some local buying encouraged by favorable reviews of the domestic goods market and removed on some trade colline in futures.

Private Liverpool cables contributed to the buillish view in this respect by reporting that the market there had advanced on some trade calling in the absence of hedging, and it was reported that there was a good Hudshan export demand.
