Twenty-five Opportunities To Make The Day Happier For Others

EVERY CASE KNOWN TO BE DESERVING

Many Families Will Have But Little Holiday Cheer, It Is Pointed Out, If Outside Aid Does Not Come In; News and has tuberculosis; very poor. Observer Will Give Names and Addresses

The News and Observer again this year as it did last year presents the people of Raleigh with an opportunity to divide their Christmas happiness with families in the city which are not blessed with this world's goods as are when an opportunity to be generous has been given. They responded with To Build Theatre.—On the site formerly occupied by the Crystal Theatre and the Wake Shoe Company it is said that Mr. Howell Cobb will erect a more management of the little ones in unformer of the little ones in unform mas longings of the little ones in unfor tunate families were pictured to them.

They will respond again this year. Superintendent R. S. Stephenson, the Associated Charities, who keeps his finger on the pulse of the economic sit untion of the Baleigh public, with the aid of his assistants, has gone over all worthy cases of suffering and need that have applied to the Associated Charities for aid and have selected twenty five of the most worthy cases. A list of these will be found below. Every case has was here for a short time yesterday and been carefully investigated and no one conferred with Mr. W. C. Newbold, of need fear that he will give aid where Superintendent Stephenson could open board of education, in regard to an appropriation for the Berry O'Kelly Training School at Method. Mr. Davis was much impressed with the school. He had been to South Carolina and was the best of years there are always in every city many deserving families whom misfortune has overtaken and left in straitened circumstances. A great many men make only barely enough to support their families with nothing to lay aside for a rainy day. If sickness comes or an accident befalls some member of the family and doctors' and drug bills have to be met, then there is a deficit in the family exchequer and very frequently debt is piled up and the stricken family is possibly placed un-der a load from which it cannot recover in a long time.

There is no question as to the need in Raleigh. Superintendent Stephenson mays it is only necessary to make the rounds of the city with him to become convinced that the call for help is real and convincing.

The opportunities are given by num-bers in order to avoid the publicity that would otherwise be attached. With each number is given information as to the needs and nature of the case in ques-

EXPLAINS DELAY IN CITY MAIL SERVICE

In reply to complaint about late delivery of mail, Postmaster Gatling yes-terday stated that it was not due to the force in the office, as he had sufficient men to cope with the situation, although the mail was unusually heavy. As to the specific complaint about the mail which arrived on S. A. L. train No. 1 from the North yesterday, Mr. Gatling states that on yesterday morning this train, which is due here at 5:15, did not train, which is due nere at 0:10, did not get here, until 7:13 and that there were 17 cars to the train and an unusually heavy mail. The main pouch from this train, he said, did not reach the office until 8:45, while part reached there at 8 o'clock. The postmaster thinks that the screen wagon contractor should have had the mail to the postoffice by

The postmaster also says that the railroads are not providing sufficient help in unloading the trains and that he has taken up this phase of the situation with the department.

Mr. Gatling says he is putting forth every effort possible to give prompt service.
