PLAN BUILDING FOR M. E. ORPHANAGE

Wesley Bible Class of Durham Church Start $10,000 Movement

News and Observer Bureau, First National Bank Building, Durham, Dec. 18. By S. R. WINTERS.

Wesley Bible class of Trinity Methodist church has initiated a movement to raise funds for the construction of a $10,000 boys' building at the Raleigh Methodist Orphanage. The movement is voluntary on the part of the 120 members of the Sunday school class, and the cramped quarters of the orphanage have actuated the benevolent motive. The contemplated building is to accommodate 40 or 50 additional needy Methodist boys that the present over-taxed buildings will not permit of.

The plans have the endorsement of Supt. A. S. Barnes, of the orphanage. A conference between J. Ed. Peggan and Southgate Jones, of Durham, and the superintendent of the institution suggested tentative plans for securing the subscriptions of $10,000. Wesley Bible class of Durham will contribute liberally. The federated classes of Wesley Bible students the State over will be solicited. The membership of the classes approximates 10,000 Sunday school workers.

The meeting of the Wesley Bible class in Fayetteville on January 19 and 20 will probably crystallize the movement in working shape. The tentative calculations of the promoters of the project figure that the contributions of 2,000 members—$3.33 1/3 apiece—are not unobtainable in their claims. One member of the Durham Wesley class has pledged $100.

The proposed building would give symmetrical arrangement to the orphanage layout. Three buildings for the girls and three for the boys. The report of Superintendent Barnes has graphically pictured the need of additional buildings and the laymen will seize upon this opportunity as a way out.

ARRESTS EXPOSE NATION-WIDE PLOT TO BLOW UP MILLS

A new development occurred late today when Otto F. Motzola, a police headquarters detective, was apprehended after a hearing by Commissioner Woods. The police said they found Motzola's name in a note-book taken from Koening. According to statements attributed to Koening and Motzola, Motzola was employed by the farmers at three dollars a day to make investigations.

The arrests yesterday and today are said to be merely the forerunners of numerous other arrests, which will extend throughout the country. Secret service agents assert that Koening had 27 agents in New York City alone and probably between three and four hundred throughout the country.

ing was of black lace. When she left on her honeymoon journey, Mrs. Wilson wore over her gown a fur coat of broad tail with bands of Valon and a muff to match. She wore a chin-chain collar. Miss Margaret Wilson, the President's eldest daughter, wore a sapphire blue velvet gown with sapphire and velvet trimmings. Mrs. William G. McAuloo, his youngest daughter, wore fine silk broadtail with fur and silver trimmings. Mrs. Francis H. Sayre, his third daughter, wore rose chamoise with cream lace. Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, the President's cousin, wore yellow silk and gold.

Mrs. Bolling, the bride's mother, wore a costume of white tulle over a under-skirt of black satin appliqued in King's blue. A short train was caught at the left side of the girdle with a cluster of pink crushed roses. She wore old cameo set in pearls which she had worn as a bride.

All the men in the party, which out side of the relatives included Secretary Tammaly and Dr. Grayson, the President's physician, wore conventional evening dress.

Uppers one room was set aside for the wedding gifts, which despite intimations from the White House that nothing be sent by any other than relatives and close friends, ran into the hundreds.

In reference to the President's wishes the houses of Congress sent no gifts of finally, but many members sent personal remembrances. The Virginia del-after New Year's day unless some development should necessitate the President's earlier return to the capital. Two White House automobiles have been sent on ahead and the couple expect to spend their honeymoon motoring, golfing and walking over the mountain trails. Besides the secret service guard, the party was accompanied by a stenographer. The President will keep in touch with the White House over special wires.

Because the hour of the wedding was known to comparatively few persons there was not a large crowd in the vicinity of the bride's home, although a large police guard had been provided. J. Wilson House of Richmond, Va., the President's nephew, and Mrs. Howe, arrived after the list of guests had been made up and joined the wedding party.

"In my experience with charity work I have seen many appeals, but few so touching as this." said Superintendent R. S. Stephenson of the Associated Charities yesterday as he handed the News and Observer the following letter which he had received from a small town near here: "Will you please tell good old Santa Claus I am a little boy that liked toys and nice playthings, but I rather he would send me some shoes this time. I haven't got any but some ragged ones and my feet get so cold I can't play out of doors, and if he will send me some shoes I can roll my hoop and have fun. Tell him to send nine twelves and send them by parcel post. Manma says he can't come way here while the punks is on, for he won't be able to ride and it is too far to walk. She said you would carry letters to Santa Claus and he would answer them. So please give him mine today and I will give you a card.' The card was enclosed. It was a Sunday school card showing Mary Ann, the head of the Salvation, the motto text reading, "She hath done what she could." Superintendent Stephenson would be glad to be the agent through whom some generous hearted Raleigh citizen might gratify the Christmas desires of this little fellow.
