

HUGHES TRIES TO RIDE TWO HORSES

Victor Bryant Speaks to Goldsboro Audience; Republicans Gunning For Income Tax

News and Observer Bureau, Chamber of Commerce Rooms, BYRON FORD.

Goldsboro, Oct. 23.—Characterizing Hughes as a man trying to ride two horses traveling in different directions because of his affiliation with Roosevelt and his bid for the German-American vote, Victor S. Bryant tonight aired to a large Goldsboro audience the duplicity of the evasive champion of Republican hopes. Mr. Bryant admitted that the coming election was a thing of doubt to both Republicans and Democrats, but he said that the thinking people who aspire to no special privilege from the government would cast their ballots for the man who steered the country through the stormiest period of its career with safety to its business and without a smirch upon its honor.

Mr. Bryant, always strong in argument, uncovered a new point in Democracy's case when he said that one of the main things contended for by moneyed interests was the repeal of the income tax. He pointed out that over $200,000,000 would be paid through this source to the government this year. Those who are compelled to pay this most just of all taxes, he said, are seeking quietly to have it annulled. They muddy the waters by other arguments but, in the main, this is one of their greatest banes.

Peace, plenty, universal good cheer, Mr. Bryant said, are prevalent throughout America. Woodrow Wilson and the Democratic party are responsible. Never before has a presidential campaign found business conditions so good. In the face of doubt as to the outcome, all business interests are confident that the impetus given prosperity by Wilson policies will carry them through any eventuality. Peace or continued war will have little effect upon the good times set in motion by Democratic theories finally put in practice. These are some of the opinions expressed by Mr. Bryant.

Mr. Bryant will leave tomorrow for Clinton where at noon he will address the voters of Sampson.

RALEIGH HIGHS WILL PLAY CARY WEDNESDAY

The Raleigh high school football team will play Cary high school here Wednesday afternoon in the first championship game of the season to be played in Raleigh.

The locals have rested somewhat during the week but have gone back to practice this week in all the earnestness that characterized the beginning of the season. For this week the highs consider the most important of the season. After their recent victory over the Donaldson team, which weighed an average of twenty pounds more per man than the Raleigh team, the team has been going through high practice in order to allow the bruises and small injuries time for healing. Every man now is in good trim and anxious to get back in the game. The locals expect a hard struggle with Cary, because the Cary team will outweigh them. Cary is being coached by Tal Stafford, former star quarter of A. and M. fame.

It is expected that the game will be played at 3:30 on Riddick Athletic Field. A good contest will be staged and a large crowd is expected.

DEMOCRATIC DAY IN DUPLIN COUNTY

Max Gardner Speaks To Crowd of 2,500 and Made Votes for Democrats

(Special to The News and Observer.)

Kennansville, Oct. 23.—Today was Democracy's day in Duplin when the Democratic hosts met at Kennansville to hear the issues of the day discussed by Hon. O. Max Gardner, who filled an appointment for Governor Craig, the latter being prevented from being present by sickness. How well he filled the bill was manifested by the approval of the audience of more than 2,500 who had come from every township of the county and more than filled the large auditorium of the courthouse until standing room was at a premium. An automobile procession, headed by a brass band and carrying the speaker, arrived from Warsaw at 11 o'clock.

A special train was operated by the A. and C. Railroad. John A. Gavin, Jr., introduced the speaker. Max Gardner was never more at his best. He answered the Republicans in the State conclusively and reviewed their record while in power. In contrast he portrayed the record of Democracy in the State. He handled national issues with power and force, giving a resume of Republican history under the invisible government. He said: "And the same old crowd is in control of the Republican party today." He pictured the record of the Democratic administration, its help to the business man by the passage of the Federal Reserve act, to the farmer by enactment of the farm loan act and the general era of prosperity that it has brought to the nation in removing the capital from Wall Street back to Washington. His description of Wilson's keeping us out of war and his verbal picture of European battlefields brought tears to eyes of his hearers.

OBSERVE ARBOR DAY IN SCHOOLS OF STATE

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 3

Arbor and Bird Day Manual Compiled For Use in Schools Is Being Distributed

The Arbor and Bird Day Manual for North Carolina has been compiled for use in the public schools on November 3 by the North Carolina Geological and Economic Survey and is being distributed from the office of the State Superintendent of Education. In that manual, Mr. R. E. Parker, secretary of the Audubon Society of North Carolina announces that the campaign for the organization of bird study clubs during the past year has been remarkably successful due to the co-operation of the teachers of the State. On April 1st, 103 junior audubon societies with a membership totaling 2150 had been officially reported. As many more, probably, have not reported. What has been done during the past year, according to Mr. Parker, is just a promise of what may be done; and he calls upon the teachers to continue the organization of such clubs.

Urging the teachers of the State to observe that day fittingly, Dr. Joyner states in an open letter used as an introduction to the manual: "Last November the first general observance of Arbor and Bird Day in North Carolina was celebrated by the teachers and pupils of the public schools as well as by many private schools. From incomplete reports compiled by the State Forester it is known that Arbor Day observances were held in more than half the counties of the State. Approximately 2,250 trees and shrubs were planted in connection with these observances, and more than 36,000 children took part in the exercises. The important fact is not that this additional number of trees and shrubs are now helping to beautify our school grounds, valuable as that is; but that counts in our civilization is the knowledge of nature surrounding them which, perhaps for the first time, has come to 36,000 of our school children.

"Friday, November 3d, will, according to law, this year be observed as Arbor Day by the schools of North Carolina. In hearty compliance with the spirit and letter of this law, I hereby urge all superintendents, principals and teachers of the public schools to see that a wider and still more thorough observance be held throughout the State than was done last year. Every school that is in session should carry out some kind of Arbor or Bird Day program; those that have not been in session long enough to teach the children their parts can at least have the subject presented by the principal or teacher and by singing suitable songs. Programs can be selected and arranged from last year's Arbor and Bird Day Manual, a copy of which I hope has been preserved in every school library, and from this manual, which, like the previous one, has been prepared under the direction of the North Carolina Geological and Economic Survey."

SUFFRAGISTS FEATURE CHIEF JUSTICE CLARK

Chief Justice Walter Clark, of the North Carolina Supreme Court, is featured in the Woman's Journal and Suffrage News of October 14, 1916, as a "suffrage judge in Dixie," and as "the movement's principal supporter in a State where few were interested until the last two or three years." The publication, devoted to the interests of the equal suffragists, is published weekly in Boston. On the front page of the issue in question, Judge Clark's picture appears in three column nine inch style, while the last page is largely devoted to quotations from the public utterances of the North Carolina Chief Justice on the suffrage question.

"The White Flour Pinch"—have you felt it? With the advancing price of wheat "the five-cent loaf is doomed," say the bakers. In its place we have the six-cent loaf—in many cities only the ten-cent loaf. A loaf of white flour bread is not a complete ration. However wholesome and pure, it does not supply all the proteins the human body needs. In Shredded Wheat Biscuit you have all the body-building nutriment in the whole wheat grain prepared in a digestible form. It is always the same price, always the same high quality.
