THE SPINNER

The spinner twisted her slender thread As she sat and spun; "The earth and the heavens are mine, she said, "And the moon and sun :

Into my web the sunlight goes, And the breath of May, And the crimson life of the new blown

That was born today."

The spinner sung in the hush of noon And her song was low:

"Ah, merning, you pass away too soon.

You are swift to go.

My heart o'erflows like a brimming cup With its hopes and fears. Love, come and drink the sweetness up.

The spinner looked at the falling sun: "Is it time to rest?

My hands are weary—my work is done.
I have wrought my best; I have sput and woven with patient eyes

And with fingers flect. Lol where the toil of a lifetime lies

Is a winding sheet! Mary Ainge De Vere.
