

MUST SHOW WORLD MILITANT JUSTICE

Morgenthau Urges Upon United States Burden For Armenian Relief

SECOND CHAPTER WORLD WAR IS JUST OPENING

He Insists That The U. S. Shall Not Relapse Into Indifference But Take Up World Policy

Dr. Henry A. Morgenthau, former ambassador to Turkey, last night told a large audience in the City Auditorium that the United States must adopt a policy of militant democracy in order to guarantee the accomplishments of the war.

"We've got to show the whole world now," he declared, "that we are not going to sleep again; that we really believe what we have been saying; that we are in earnest; that we are not hypocritical; and that we are going to take advantage of this chance to create a new era in the world."

The Ambassador was speaking in the interest of the campaign in North Carolina for Armenian relief. Following musical numbers by the band of the 18th School for the Blind, he had been presented by Dr. J. Y. Joyner, state chairman of the campaign. His address of less than an hour's length was devoted to the situation of the Armenian people who have lived so long under the heel of the Turk. He told no harrowing tale, spared his audience the usual details of the atrocities which are now common knowledge, and instead the indictment of German diplomacy and its responsibility, and placed the burden squarely upon the shoulders of democracy, prosperous and humane America. The war, he explained, was fought for human rights and the liberties of the world, and while it had done the United States no harm, has placed millions of the world in the class of paupers. For this class, Dr. Morgenthau made his appeal that America should assume the role as the "Big Brother of the whole world."

Turks As Conquerors. How the Turks, for five centuries, had played the game of conquerors, and exploiters in Asia Minor, the speaker explained as due in part to England's fear of the Russian terror. He told graphically how Germany played upon Turkey and defeated the aims of the British and the French to have Turkey remain neutral, with the promise of money, military glory, and world power.

An army of two million men followed and 300,000 were given up as machine gun fodder at the Dardanelles. But the Turks aided Germany more than the Germans thought, the speaker continued, showing how they had made necessary the Allied force of 1,100,000 employed against them.

Duty of the United States. "What is the duty of the United States?" he asked. "I come here and go elsewhere, pleading with the people of the United States to recognize what has happened. The first chapter of the world war is closed. The second chapter, and the most important, is just beginning."

Tracing briefly the history and development in the United States, he pointed out the wonderful growth here and the opportunity for the devotion of this force to the betterment of the world, and particularly at this time to the relief of the thousands who have suffered at the hands of the Turks.

Must Not Relapse. "Are we going to permit ourselves to relapse into the state of indifference or are we going to live up to the duty devolving upon us to be leaders of democracy?" he asked. "We are so placed that whatever policy the United States adopts must be adopted by the whole world," he continued, insisting that the future of the United States is irrevocably interwoven with the future of the rest of the world. "The struggle now," he continued, "is the main struggle between right and justice on the one side, and mischief on the other."

Militant Democracy. "Ours," he said, "must be a militant democracy, forcing the love of liberty on the rest of the world."

He closed his address with an urgent appeal for the relief of millions in Asia Minor whose needs are urgent. Placing the task upon the shoulders of the people of the United States, he insisted that the United States must show militant justice.

AN IMPORTANT FACTOR IN CUTTING SHOE EXPENSE

"Many months of comfort at little expense" is the way Charles A. Pearson of San Diego, California, sums up his experience with Neolin Soles.

Pearson had two pairs of shoes resoled with Neolin Soles, and after wearing them for twenty months writes "I will have to get new shoes sometime, but so far as the soles are concerned, that time seems as far distant as when they were new."

Neolin Soles

This is typical of the experience millions are having with Neolin Soles. Created by Science to be durable, flexible and waterproof, these soles are an important factor in cutting shoe expense. You can get them on new shoes for the whole family, and for re-soles. They are made by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, who also make Wingfoot Heels—guaranteed to outwear all other heels.

quently, the State Board of Elections issued the certificate of election to Representative Weaver. Something like a month later, Mr. Bitt served a notice of contest on Mr. Weaver.

The voluminous evidence was taken and compiled during the spring of 1917, the job of taking testimony being completed during the latter part of May, 1917. Mr. Britt mailed the evidence to the Clerk of the House of Representatives about November 19, 1917.

After the record was printed and the briefs filed, which consumed three or four months, the contest was argued before the committee on elections No. 3, the latter part of May, 1918. The question has since been pending. The decision was delayed for a time awaiting the arrival of Representative LaGuardia of New York, a Republican member of the committee, who was doing war service in Italy.

For Building at Greensboro. Representative Chas. L. Stedman has introduced bills for the appropriation of $500,000 for the acquisition of a site and erection of a post-office building at Greensboro and $100,000 for the purchase of site and erection of a public library at Mt. Airy.

Representative George Hood has recommended Miss Fannie M. Johnston for postmaster at Wilford, Fender county, and Howard Parker for postmaster at Bowden, Duplin county.

J. M. Allen of Louisville, is a visitor to the National Capital. H. B. Varner of Lexington is in the city. J. R. Collier, superintendent of the state prison, was a business visitor at Washington today. John Mills of Wake Forest is here. Ransom Sanders and D. W. Parrish, both of Smithfield, passed through Washington today on their way to New York City to attend the automobile show. George Entwistle of Rockingham is in Washington.

Judge John Payne, of the United States Railroad Administration, and Mrs. Payne have arrived at Pinehurst. They made the trip from Washington in their private car over the Seaboard.

Webb on Beer Production. Representative Edwin Yates Webb, of North Carolina, in a statement to the News and Observer representative today, labeled as false an interview accredited to him to the effect that he stated that brewers of America would manufacture beer with two per cent alcohol after national prohibition became effective. "I have never anticipated what the brewers would do, said the North Carolina congressman who so ardently fathered the movement for the banishment of intoxicating liquors.

"The only statement I have made concerning the matter was that the jury would have to determine upon what is intoxicating beverage," when asked relative to the nature of the national prohibition laws. The story referred to, purporting to be an interview with Representative Webb, appeared in the Washington Times and other newspapers who have openly sympathized with the propaganda for light wines and beer.

Here is the interview identified with the name of Representative Webb: "Congressman E. Y. Webb, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, believes that the two per cent beer proposition will loom up after the constitutional amendment goes into effect. He said yesterday that the jury in individual cases will have to pass upon the question of intoxication.

"In States where prohibition laws do not exist brewers will make two per cent beer, said Mr. Webb." Some of them will go further, taking the risk for the money they make. The State laws will not reach them and if the liquor is not intoxicating it does not come within the bounds of the prohibition of the federal amendment. If a person manufactures or sells two per cent beer, on which some fellow becomes drunk, then the matter will be taken of court, and the jury would have to pass on whether it caused intoxication or not. That is the way the case stands now."

WHY GERMANY PUTS UP A POOR MOUTH

society is founded is to elect a treasurer. Thus as a society of nations is formed a treasurer should at once be appointed by the creation of a financial society of nations. The solution of the problem to my mind is the foundation of a financial society of nations in which all the expenses of every belligerent opposed to Germany shall be compiled into an sum. An inventory of Germany's resources should then be made and she should be made to pay by every mark she can get together. Then there should be international taxation, including the neutrals, to make up the balance."

DURHAM NEGRESS BADLY WOUNDED BY RIFLE

Rocky Mount Asks Bull City To Aid in Fight For Just Freight Rates

By JAMES A. ROBINSON.

Durham, Feb. 6.—Durham last evening, about 11 o'clock, was the scene of a near homicide. The parties involved are colored. It was on Colfax street, Buck Bass, the husband, going home at the hour named above, became inflamed at some act of his wife, Fannie Bass, and from the meager information that can be obtained from the neighbors, it appears that Bass had a fight with his wife, and threw her over the porch railing, and then fired several shots at her. When the police reached the scene, the woman was found in the yard, where she had fallen from the effects of two bullet wounds in the back. She was immediately carried to the Lincoln Hospital. It is reported that she is resting quietly today, and developments are awaited as to the seriousness of her condition. Bass has fled, and made good escape up to this writing.

Asks Durham's Aid in Fight

Secretary Burke Hobgood, of the Chamber of Commerce, yesterday received the following telegram: Rocky Mount, N. C., Feb. 5.—Rocky Mount is engaging in a fight for equitable freight rates, and to end Richmond domination of trade in our territory, urge that you take immediate action in the matter.

Mr. Hobgood, as secretary of the Durham Chamber of Commerce, attended a meeting of representatives of different chambers of commerce in the State, held in Raleigh in January. They had arranged to file their own complaint. Immediately after this the State Corporation Commission got busy and employed an Atlanta attorney to argue the case of freight rates discrimination in favor of Virginia as against North Carolina before the Inter-State Commerce Commission. It had been arranged to have a meeting of local people interested in this matter. But this meeting has been postponed until it is learned how vigorously the matter will be prosecuted before the Commerce Commission. Durham is in the fight for justice, and will be heard from. But just now the matter is waiting on the results before the commissions.

What Old People Say

One of the eldest lady residents of Durham, discussing the weather and gardening prospects, said today: "Old people say that you should never plant anything in your garden that comes up before the 15th of April, and you will be safe." This appears to be pretty

N. C. Man Says "Finest Thing I've Ever Seen"

His Wife Had Constipation, Indigestion, Pains in Her Back, Was Nervous, Easy to Excite, With Heart Fluttering.

DRECO STOPPED IT.

"My wife is in better health now than she has been in many a day. She feels good all the time," said Mr. E. J. Eaton, a prominent and well-to-do farmer who lives on Route 2, Yadkinville, N. C.

"She was troubled daily with constipation; had to be taking physics all the time; stomach did not digest her food well; gas collected after meals and swelled her up, and she had sour belching. She was quite nervous and easy to excite; any quick sharp noise would cause her to jump and tremble, and her heart would flutter something awful."

"Since taking Dreco all these troubles have stopped. Her bowels act regularly every day; she eats hearty meals and low nothing disagrees with her. The food gives her strength instead of lying there forming gas. Her nerves are quieted and she sleeps well, and is never bothered with fluttering of the heart as before. Dreco has been a blessing to us, and we are both glad to give a public endorsement in the papers."

Dreco acts almost like magic in cases of stomach trouble, gas, fermentation, heavy, distressing feeling after meals, and on retching. It attacks and destroys the poisons in the blood; corrects digestive conditions, drives rheumatism from the blood.

Dreco is widely sold throughout the country and is especially recommended in Raleigh by F. W. Parker Drug Co.; also Zebulon Drug Co., Wendell Drug Co., Pope's Pharmacy in Clayton, A. V. Faucet, Apex, Powers Drug Co., Wake Forest.—Adv.

CAPTURES THREE ILLICIT STILLERS IN WILKES

Statesville, Feb. 6.—Deputy Collector R. P. Allison, of Statesville, returned yesterday afternoon from a highly successful raid after illicit stills in Wilkes county, the fruits of his trip having netted him a total of three outfits within a brief space of 24 hours. All the plants were found in the county of Wilkes and were situated within a few miles of each other in the Windy Gap neighborhood. Each of the three stills were of copper construction, one of them being of 110-gallon capacity, one of 85-gallon capacity and one of 65-gallon capacity. All were found set up in the furnace and ready for operation. The factories of them were found in operation around waiting for the first appearance of the "joy-water." However, Mr. Allison was unable to apprehend any of the operators or visitors so quick did they make their getaway. At one place over 4,000 gallons of beer was destroyed and at another, about 1,500 gallons was poured out.

Mr. J. A. Cranfill a highly respected and industrious farmer living near Cools Springs, this county died yesterday morning: from the effects of a stroke of paralysis, with which he was stricken about two weeks ago. Mr. Cranfill was 62 years of age and survived by one son, M. E. Cranfill, one daughter, Miss Minnie Cranfill, and an aunt, Miss Jane Cranfill. The funeral and burial took place today at Rock Springs Church, Rev. J. L. Teague officiating.

POSTHUMOUS AWARD OF WAR CROSS TO LIEUT. MALLOY

Asheville, N. C., Feb. 6.—Posthumous award of the Croix de Guerre is to be made to Lieut. Frederick Fagg Malloy, the gallant young officer who died in a French hospital after successfully fighting in several battles of the great war, according to advices received here. It is stated that the award will be made in recognition of the young lieutenant's marked bravery at Fismes, where he carried instructions to an advanced element of his division, and for his coolness and bravery in reconnoitering the Hun front lines at Juvigny, where he secured valuable information for his division. Lieutenant Malloy was given great praise on the front page of a New York paper in recognition of his efforts at Juvigny. The notice of the award comes from private sources but is practical official. The decoration will be sent to his mother, Mrs. Minnie Fagg Malloy.

FOR NERVOUS INDIGESTION

Quick Way to Stop It. Makes Sleep Come. Removes the Cause.

READ WHAT THIS RALEIGH LADY SAID

"My husband had nervous indigestion so bad that when he ate a meal he would suffer for hours afterwards. His food seemed to lie like a brick in his poor stomach and few men seemed to suffer like he did. Then when he would go to bed at night the slightest noise would wake him up and then he would toss and roll around for hours before going to sleep again," wrote Mrs. O. V. Branson of Raleigh, N. C.

Took Indian Remedy

"Then along came a party who said all you had to do was take an old prescription of the Indians and it would cure such troubles, and upon investigation we found that we knew several people who did praise it to the sky, so we bought a bottle of Pearson's Genuine Indian Blood Purifier, which was the same they gave us, and it was simply wonderful the way he got better," continued Mrs. Branson.

"He can now sleep throughout the night and his nerves are in splendid condition. He eats whatever he likes best and nothing seems to worry his digestion any more. His whole general system is improved and he feels so well and strong now that I gladly recommend Pearson's Indian Blood Purifier myself. I have since seen others use it with splendid results too."

Anyone with a bad case of stomach trouble. A case where you have tried everything and nothing brought relief, will quickly be relieved with this old Indian preparation, which has been handed down by the old Indians and now is being put up by the well-known Pearson's Remedy Co.
