

SHEPHERD TO PUSH EXTENSION FIGHT

Has Bill, Given Unfavorable Report Friday, Referred to Committee

REVENUE BILL PASSES FINAL HOUSE READING

House Defers Action On Important Bills and Adjourns in Honor Washington

The part of Wake county's representation in the Legislature coming from the city of Raleigh parted company yesterday on the proposition to extend the city limits. In consequence of the differences of opinion between Messrs. Sawyer and Shepherd, the latter successfully moved for a re-reference of the bill introduced by Mr. Sawyer which had previously gone on the unfavorable calendar after the fight before the Counties, Cities and Towns Committee Friday afternoon.

When the proponents to extend the limits...

Whether he is successful in this or not, it is practically certain that the bill will go to the floor if it is necessary to put it there by virtue of a minority report. And that is the principal reason for the re-reference. Mr. Shepherd claims that he had an understanding with Mr. Sawyer whereby, in case the committee acted unfavorably on the bill, Mr. Sawyer would not do this, but according to Mr. Shepherd, indicated that he did not intend to press the matter of extension further.

Wherein Is Probably A Story.

The opposition coming from residents of Cameron Park, the territory the bill contemplates including in the corporate limits of Raleigh, expects to stand out but those who favor being moved in the city not only expect to carry the fight to the floor but, if they succeed in getting it there, urge an amendment to the bill insuring them suffrage in the 1919 municipal election. Advocates of the extension think the question of giving them the ballot is the one thing that has weakened the fight for extension among Raleighites. They insist upon an opportunity to cast a ballot for good government at the May primary and are bold enough to say that they believe the fear of their suffrage has tempered the original proponents of the measure.

The House made much progress yesterday in getting the calendar clear of local bills. It passed on final reading the revenue bill after adopting an amendment allowing the State to exempt blind people and Confederate veterans from paying the peddler's privilege tax.

Most of the more important State-wide bills went over until Tuesday for consideration, the House adjourning until Monday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock on account of the absence of several members who were away for the weekend. When adjournment came yesterday, it was in honor of the birthday of George Washington.

Matthew's Bill Is Passed.

The House adopted the McCoin amendment yesterday to the Matthew's bill, aimed at auto thieves, and passed the bill on final reading. It makes it unlawful for any person to buy or receive any automobile or motor car on which the identification number is defaced. The amendment excludes innocent purchasers prior to the registration of the bill.

An unsuccessful effort was made yesterday to take the bill requiring railroads to employ only trained and yard workers who can read and write from the unfavorable calendar.

Williams, of Cabarrus, thought the bill had some merit in it but J. Frank Ray regarded it as a serious mistake. The lower branch also refused to pass a joint resolution, introduced in the Senate by Senator Cooper, urging Congress to pass the pending bill providing for preparation of cut over lands for returning soldiers. Mr. Grier thought Congress sufficiently able to cope with own problems but consented for the measure to go over until the New Hanover member returns.

Under a Senate bill the House passed yesterday, State officers and departments collecting license taxes or fees of any kind will be required to pay the same over monthly to the State Treasurer and the salaries for all employees of such departments to be paid by warrant issued by the Auditor. Representative Grant passed a bill for his committee, only requiring traction companies to employ both a motorman and conductor on all street cars operated on city or suburban lines. The Fountain bill to prevent telegraph companies from converting intra-State messages into interstate messages went through carrying a $25 penalty for failure to deliver a message promptly. If the bill is passed in the Senate, it will preclude a message originating at any State point intended for another State point from being sent by an out of the State office.

Child Labor Measure Tuesday.

The Neal substitute for the Neal child labor bill came up yesterday on second reading but went over until Tuesday on account of the slim attendance in the House. The same thing happened to the McCoin bill amending the general insurance laws and to the sanitary privy bill introduced by Mr. Winborne.

The amendatory bill to the law regulating the appointment of boards of selection makes ineligible for member-

TAR HEEL MERCHANTS LEADING THE NATION

The North Carolina Retail Merchants' Division of the National War Savings Committee, led all the other States in the Union in the sale of War Savings Stamps, according to information contained in a letter from Mr. Harold Braddock, Director Savings Division, War Loans Organization, to the State director.

"Such an oversale of nearly $1,000,000," he says, "could be made possible only by superior leadership, excellent organization and close cooperation of all merchants in your State. We wish to express our appreciation and congratulations to this division, and through it to every man and woman whose loyalty and efforts have made the sale of $3,238,352.25 worth of stamps possible."

It may be of interest to you to know that in no other State has the Retail Merchants' Division accomplished such gratifying sales. On several occasions the smaller towns also succeeded in overselling their quotas to the amount of four hundred per cent, but no State has made a record to be even compared with yours."

The Fifth, of Raleigh District, of which Mr. William Perlstein was chairman, and which comprised the counties of Caswell, Granville, Person, Durham, Chatham, Lee, Johnson, Alamance, Orange and Wake, sold $421,143.75 or over $75,000 above its quota.

STARTS PROBE OF DETECTIVE AGENTS

Raleigh Merchants Ask Police to Investigate Activities of Fenton Agency.

LOCAL FIRMS PAID BIG FEES FOR PROTECTION

Agents Close Offices Here and Manager States He Has Resigned Job

Numerous inquiries and complaints have started a police investigation of the recent activities here of the Fenton Detective Agency, a northern bureau, agents of which secured a large amount of money from Raleigh merchants and then moved their offices elsewhere. F. M. Parkhurst, who stated that he was North Carolina manager of the New York detective firm, has left the city after telling friends that he had resigned all connections with the agency.

Agency Operates Two Months.

The Fenton Detective Agency opened headquarters in Raleigh about two months ago and solicited business from local firms. Merchants were induced to pay fees for the agency's protection during a period of one year. In exchange for the fees, the agency promised protection from theft, loss through fraud or bad checks and issued a membership card to be displayed in places of business. The amount of fees was based on the volume of business, it is understood. Some merchants paid $25, some $50 and others as much as $100 and $150 for protection. Several firms, it is understood, gave a large number of "bad" checks to the firm for collection.

The agency was started here by Parkhurst and two other men, one of whom gave his name as Fenton. The agents announced that the firm would open headquarters in one of the office buildings here. The only office maintained was in the Yarborough Hotel and later in the Hotel Raleigh.

Says Agency of Doubtful Standing.

With Manager Parkhurst now out of the city and no office in use, the police and others interested in the detective agency fear that the Fenton Detective Agency is not what it was represented to be. Chief of Police Barbour wired New York police officials regarding the standing of the firm. The reply he received indicated that the agency was hardly known in legitimate detective circles. The name of the firm had been changed four times within the past 14 months when the office was first opened in New York city, according to information from that city.

Merchants of Raleigh interested in the agency not only wish to learn if the business of the firm is lawful and above criticism, but they want definite assurance whether or not the offices will be re-opened in Raleigh.

RALEIGH MAN GETS HONOR IN DANVILLE

The Southeastern Implement Travelers' Association at their meeting in Danville, Va., February 21, re-elected their old officers, including E. F. Welch, of Raleigh, as one of the directors.

The officers are W. H. Schurz, of Greensboro, president; F. G. Baldwin, of Greensboro, vice-president; Z. V. White, of Roanoke, vice-president; M. W. Woody, Charlotte; B. F. Welch, Raleigh; J. C. Gregory, Manassas, directors.

The Association is getting to be a factor on the development of better conditions in the hardware, implement and supply business of the Southeast, since it is composed of men who have at heart the greater development of the soil culture upon which business must depend.

Mrs. Mary Warren Dead.

Mrs. Mary Warren died at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. B. Blake, on Wilmington street.

She was about 86 years old and had made her home in and near Raleigh all her life. She is survived by five children, Mrs. A. B. Blake, N. Warren and H. W. Warren, of Raleigh, and Mrs. Howell, of Florence, S. C.

The funeral services will be conducted from the residence of Mrs. Blake at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Interment will be in Oakwood cemetery.

SENATE APPROVES OF NEW BUILDING

Bill For Agricultural Structure Went Through Without Hitch Yesterday

STATE-WIDE DOG LAW NOW IN OPERATION

Senator Scales Would Place Firemen's Relief Fund Under Control of Commissioner

Authority to the Board of Agriculture to build a new structure in Raleigh whenever it has the funds available is contained in Senator Davenport's bill which passed its final reading in the Senate yesterday and now goes to the House of Representatives, where it may meet with a rougher journey than it had in the upper chamber. Senator Brown objected to its third reading when it was sent in by the committee, but no one cared to bother about it yesterday and it went through without a hitch.

Passage of the bill providing for a new agricultural building was incidental to the ratification of the State Debtors' bill. The clerk read the bill and the Senators took things easy. In the gallery a solitary woman viewed with interest a Senate at work. It was Washington's birthday; it was a rainy day; many of the Senators had gone home, and hence nothing to induce vigorous discussion.

Ray Dog Bill Passes.

The conference report on the Ray dog bill was adopted without a solitary dissenting vote, and the measure is now a law, as the House had already accepted of the report. Senator Thompson was disposed to raise a point of order about extraneous matter having been introduced by the committee in the shape of a new provision for making it discretionary with the board of county commissioners as to whether the collar and tag shall be required. The chair ruled with him, but he withdrew his motion and saved the Senate the time it would have taken to go through the regular parliamentary procedure of recalling the bill, passing the amendment and then passing the bill on its third reading again. Besides Governor Doughton had held in the House that the procedure was proper and the Iredell Senator was disposed to yield to older heads, even though he is the peer of any when it comes to the law and the constitution.

On the heels of Representative Ray's law, came two bills from Senator Scales who wants Guilford to have a sure enough dog law. One provides that the tag and collar shall be required and that any dog not having it can be lawfully killed and any dog found in the act of punning, worrying or killing sheep, cows, hogs and game may be summarily executed. To make it doubly sure that game shall be protected in Guilford, he put in an amendment to the game law also to the same end.

Amends Insurance Law.

Senator Scales likewise offered a bill to amend the law regarding the firemen's relief fund. This would place it under the control of the insurance commissioner and provides that money shall be paid out to firemen who may be injured for the time they lose, to dependents of those killed by accidents and as pensions to any firemen who may have served for a period of ten years in order that he may never be forced to go to an almshouse. The law is designed to regulate the funds now in the hands of the North Carolina Firemen's Association, which, it is claimed, are amply sufficient, if they were properly distributed. Senator Scales' amendment would provide for the distribution of the funds.

Senator Scales likewise offers a bill to change the existing law regarding insurance companies so that to secure exemption from certain license taxes, it shall be sufficient for them to show that they are home companies instead of having to invest three-fourths of their trust funds in North Carolina securities, as under the existing law.

Amends Primary Law.

Senator Carr put in an amendment to the State-wide primary law providing that a candidate may secure a recount of the vote either from the State board or the county board of elections, depending upon which has jurisdiction in his case, if he files written request and puts up sufficient funds to guarantee the State against any cost for the summing of witnesses.

Senator Carr tightens up the present law regarding the filing of statements, as his bill would require candidates to include in their statement of disbursements all loans, all endorsements on notes made to voters and it further requires that the editor of newspapers carrying advertising shall file itemized statements ten days before and 20 days after each election, giving the source of all receipts, etc.

The penalty for violating any of the provisions of his act is to cause the candidate to lose the nomination which will go to the next highest on the list.

Warren To Push Fight.

When the unfavorable report from the Committee on Education on Senator Warren's bill to require election of boards of education by the people was received in regular order yesterday, he called attention to rule 51 of the Senate which allows any Senator to have a bill reported unfavorably taken from the calendar and placed upon the calendar. Senator Warren was presiding at the time but asked to be allowed the privilege of placing it on the calendar and it is now due to be taken up Monday afternoon.

Ninety-four counties do not now have members of their boards of education elected by the people, while six do. It has been proposed to make them all

Returned Y. M. C. A. Man Who Speaks Here Today

Mr. S. L. Thomas, of Richmond, Va., who has seen active service at the front in France with the Y. M. C. A. forces will speak at the Superba Theater for men only this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

"A Message from Overseas" will be the subject of the address which will be accompanied by a program of music conducted by Prof. R. Bilan Owen. There will be organ selections, special music and chorus songs.

SUFFRAGE BILLS WILL BE TAKEN UP

Mr. H. S. Ward Scheduled To Meet All Comers at Hearing Tuesday Night

Suffrage bills of high and low degree are to be taken up at a joint meeting of the Suffrage committees of the Senate and House in the Senate chamber Tuesday night at 8 o'clock.

The Equal Suffrage League of North Carolina has come out for municipal suffrage for women and doubts the bills providing for this will receive the most consideration.

News comes from Washington, N. C., which is the home town of Mr. H. S. Ward, recently brought into the limelight as a likely candidate for Congress, that he will be on hand to oppose any and all kinds of equal suffrage, and in fact it is stated that Mr. Ward would likely make the principal speech at the hearing against the whole movement to give women the right to vote.

National Suffrage Soon.

Congress is expected to be called in extra session during the early summer to ratify treaties and at that time the suffragists are confident that the proposed amendment to the Federal Constitution will be adopted. In view of this, it is not considered worth while to attempt to get an amendment to the State constitution, which could not be voted on until the next general election in 1920.

It is true that primary suffrage could be put into effect by statute, but there are numerous objections to this, and hence the women have decided to push their fight for municipal suffrage.

Another Way Open.

The last section of Article 7 of the State Constitution, which relates solely to municipal corporations, provides that the General Assembly shall have full power by statute to modify, change or abrogate any and all of the provisions of the article and substitute others in their places, except sections 7, 9 and 13.

The sections excepted relate exclusively to taxes, the seventh section providing that no county, city, town or other municipal corporation shall contract any debt, pledge its faith or loan its credit except for necessary expenses unless by a vote of the majority of the qualified voters. Section 9 provides that all taxes levied shall be uniform and ad valorem upon all property, while section 13 provides that no taxes shall be collected in aid of or in support of the rebellion.

Couldn't Vote On Taxes.

The proposed statute would give women the right to vote for all officers of cities, villages and towns and upon all questions except those relating to taxes. It is further required that they shall be able to read and write the Constitution.

The measure has been introduced in both the House and the Senate. In view of the rapid crystallizing of sentiment in favor of suffrage in North Carolina, it is believed that this measure has an excellent chance to be passed, though many of the legislators are committed to the idea that it should be submitted to the people for decision.

MANY INQUIRIES ABOUT RALEIGH BOND ISSUE

If inquiries are indications, the city of Raleigh will have no trouble in disposing of its $85,000 bond issue to be sold soon. Yesterday, Clerk Dowell answered no less than 30 inquiries from as many bonding companies. Raleigh has never experienced any trouble in selling its bonds for satisfactory premiums, stated the clerk.

RELIEF CAMPAIGN NOW MAPPED OUT

Dr. J. Y. Joyner, State Chairman, Says That $200,000 Will Be Subscribed

BELIEVES PEOPLE WILL RALLY TO CALL STRONGLY

Appoints His County Chairmen Who Will Direct Local Work

Dr. J. Y. Joyner, State Chairman of the Campaign for Armenian-Syrian Relief, has his forces well lined up for the drive that is to be made during the coming week, and he says that the people of the State will stand with him as they have stood during the many years of his public service. He believes that the $200,000 asked for will not only be secured, but that the people will not be satisfied with giving that sum for the starving millions in the near east, but will probably double the amount.

Dr. Joyner has worked diligently during the past several weeks in organizing the State for the campaign, and he has selected the very best men and women to act as chairmen and to marshal the forces in each county. In fact, the county chairmen are all enthusiastic; in fact two counties of the State did not wait for the drive, but went over the top shortly after organization had been perfected.

Program of Speaking.

A number of the best speakers that could be procured are now in the State and will visit several points during the week, telling the people of the sufferings among the Armenians and Syrians whom the "Turks" have driven from their homes and left them without food or shelter. Among these speakers are Sergt. Alex. T. Coubrough, an Australian, who fought at the battle of Gallipoli, and who bears four wounds. He came in contact with many Armenian refugees, and after his discharge from the army because of his wounds, he volunteered to aid in securing relief for these people.

Sydney J. L. Crouch, who with Gen. Allenby's army in Palestine, is another speaker. He tells the story of the suffering millions. He relates a story of the cruelty of the "Turks" in placing old men, women and children in houses, applying oil and burning them. He says that in one city alone 24,000 men of military age were shot in cold blood.

Mr. Crouch says that to his certain knowledge there were but 150 of 18,000 Armenians survived the journey through the deserts from Van and Sivas to Aleppo.

Desperate Condition of Victims.

These are only a few of the chapters of horrors related by Mr. Crouch, and tend to show just a smattering of the desperate condition of the victims of the cruel Turk.

Ohio is one of the States of the Union that has gone far over the top, having already gotten 112 per cent of the quota. Other States have already gone over.

Dr. Joyner believes that with the leaders he has selected in the counties North Carolina will make an even better showing than Ohio. The chairmen of the counties follow:

- Alexander, A. F. Sharpe, Stony Point; Anson, Rev. J. J. Douglass, Wadesboro; Ashe, J. B. Colvard, Jefferson; Avery, F. A. Edmondson, Newland; Beaufort, Rev. H. B. Scright, Washington; Bertie, H. M. Bell, Windsor; Brunswick, Rev. F. T. Britt, Bolivia; Buncombe, J. A. R. Hight, Asheville; Burke, J. A. Claywell, Morganton; Cabarrus, J. P. Cook, Concord; Caldwell, Rev. A. A. McLean, Lenoir; Carteret, Chas. Wallace, Morehead City; Caswell, Rev. Geo. Oldham, Beaufort; Catawba, Chas. W. Bagby, South Mills; Chatham, J. B. Atwater, Haysun; Cherokee, M. W. Bell, Murphy; Chowen, E. S. Norman, Edenton; Clay, G. H. Haigler, Hayesville; Cleveland, Lee B. Weathers, Shelby; Craven, Mrs. Wade Meadows, New Bern; Cumberland, Hon. Jno. A. Oates, Fayetteville; Currituck, Rev. C. R. Mashburn, Jarvisburg; Dars, Mrs. Rosa Drinkwater, Manteo; Davidson, R. B. Vinson, Thomsville; Davie, Rev. E. O. Cole, Mocksville; Forsyth, Mrs. A. F. Young, Winston-Salem; Franklin, Trelo D. Collins, Louisburg; Gaston, Geo. B. Mason, Gastonia; Gates, Hon. F. F. Godwin, Gatesville; Guilford, Ralph B. Cobb, Greensboro; Harnett, J. R. Baggett, Lillington; Haywood, J. G. Bailey, Canton; Hertford, W. W. Rogers, Asheboro; Hoke, J. A. McLoggan, Raeford; Iredell, Jas. A. Hartsness, Statesville; Jackson, A. C. Reynolds, Cullowhee; Johnston, F. B. Brooks, Smithfield; Jones, J. B. Barker, Trenton; Lenoir, C. A. Jeffrey, Kinston; Lincoln, Geo. B. Smyre, Lincolnton, N. C.

CENTRAL CHURCH TO HOLD LONG REVIVAL

Evangelist McLendon Comes To Raleigh For 6-Week Stay; Will Bring Tent

A six-weeks revival at Central Methodist church in May with Rev. B. F. McLendon, of Bennettsville, S. C., as the evangelist, was announced yesterday.

The date of the revival has not been definitely arranged but the evangelist will bring his tent to Raleigh if the auditorium of the church is not large enough to accommodate the crowds. He is now conducting a meeting in the eastern part of the State. Rev. D. N. Cavness, pastor of Central Methodist church, yesterday received a telegram from Mr. McLendon accepting the invitation to come to this city.

The evangelist has made a profound impression here he has preached and has a wide reputation as a forceful talker.

HELD ON CHARGE OF MAKING ILLICIT STILLS

Pitt County Men Arrested When Officers Find Sheet Copper and Tools in Their Home

The arrest of Ransom and Tom Mobley, father and son respectively, at their home 15 miles north of Greenville upon charges of making copper stills for blockading purposes, yesterday was reported to the office of Collector J. W. Bailey.

A wagon load of sheet copper, numerous tools and two new stills were seized at the home of the Mobleys. The men for some time, it is charged, have been making stills for blockaders of that section.

The raid was made by Deputy Collectors Raines, Richardson, Johnson and Shore. They were assisted by Sheriff Dudley of Pitt county.

MAJ. JOHN W. HARRELSON IN RALEIGH FOR WEEK-END

Major John W. Harrelson, former captain of the Raleigh company of Coast Artillery, who now is stationed at Washington City, is spending the week-end in Raleigh as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Harden on Hillsboro street. He was accompanied by F. B. Wheeler, who has just returned from overseas service of 14 months.

STANDS UP STRONG FOR ASHE RECORD

Only Thirty Deserters During Entire War and Only Six Are Outstanding

W. R. BAUGASS TALKS OF COUNTY'S WORK

Ashe Is Chiefly Interested in Roads Legislation Now, He Says

Mr. W. R. Baugass, of Jefferson, member of Ashe county local board, arrived in Raleigh in time to hear western North Carolina counties rigorously defended from the intimated charge of dereliction in the war. There never has been more than thirty deserters in Ashe, according to Mr. Baugass, and all of these save six have either been induced peacefully to return to the service or have been apprehended by the officers of the law. And this is out of a total registration of more than four thousand.

"You can say that Ashe county is very near if not at the head of the list of counties in North Carolina on the honor roll for loyalty in answering the calls for the nation at war," said Mr. Baugass.

He was United States commissioner at Jefferson when Adjutant General Young and Governor Bickett went to Ashe county upon representations that a number of deserters were hidden away in the hills defying arrest and breathing out threats against their neighbors.

What Brought Notoriety.

The shooting scrape between deserters and civilians who attempted to arrest them undoubtedly was the cause for much of the notoriety that Ashe received. Mr. Baugass himself was responsible for bringing in the first deserter, Green Ham, the boy who met Governor Bickett at Jefferson and who carried back to his pals in the hills the word that they would not be molested if they came in peacefully. As the result of that, the situation was cleared up. But the few deserters in Ashe, with the disturbance they caused and with the spotlight which followed the action of the Adjutant General and the Governor, gave to Ashe a bit of advertisement not received by some other counties with a far longer list of delinquents.

Not Ignorant, Either.

Moreover, he says, western North Carolina mountain people are not the ignorant backward class that the news story in the Provost Marshal General's report would indicate.

"Why, I went in the home of the father of one of the deserters to get him to come in," he said, "and found two State dailies in the house, the father well read and highly intelligent. Of course there are classes in the mountains as everywhere else, but the mountain people are not to be singled out as far below the average."

Ashe Wants Roads.

Right now Ashe county is not worrying particularly about deserters or of bragging about what it has done, Mr. Baugass intimated. Ashe county wants roads, or a railroad by which it can communicate with the rest of North Carolina. Moreover, it doesn't want responsibility left to the county, for in that event its own interest in becoming more closely associated with the folks this side of the mountains may be completely negated by the stubbornness of the slothfulness of other counties which might not see the necessity or the advantage of the above. If roads are not to be constructed then a sentiment which has cropped out in the west for a number of years in the northwestern counties with Virginia will take a firm hold and become a real demand, Mr. Baugass believes.

BELL EDWARDS CAUGHT GUARDING HIS OWN STILL

While doing guard duty at a distilling plant which he admitted was his property, Bell Edwards, a negro, yesterday was surprised by revenue officers at his plant located about one mile east of Apex. The negro was brought to Wake jail in default of $300 bond.

Edwards had two stills at the site and both showed signs of very recent operation. About two gallons of whiskey were found in the negro's possession.

Deputy Collector Ernest Raines, assisted by Chief of Police Ellis of Apex, made the raid.
