

Our Specialty-

The accompanying pictures illustrate the work in which we specialize. The small picture is a snapshot made by a No. 2 Brownie Kodak, from which the man's likeness was drawn into the larger portrait, measuring 11"x14", in sepro finish. This makes a very valuable treasure for any home, and is especially desirable as a memorial to some departed loved one.

Our specialty is the making of good portraits from poor originals and fine portraits from good originals. Our work has had the highest endorsement throughout this part of the country.

If interested in this class of work, write for our illustrated catalog and price-list. Your inquiry places you under no obligation whatever.

ONE TAR BEEL IN CASUALTY LIST.

Washington, May 10.—Today's casualty list contained the name of one soldier killed in action. He was Corporal George W. Hastings, Shelby, N. C., B. F. D. No. 4.

"Where Style, Quality and Economy Meet"

Right To Enforce Peace Terms As Drafted Not Subject To Discussion

the belligerents has been abandoned. "They were not prepared to find that the promise, explicitly given to the German people and the whole of mankind, is in this way to be rendered illusory.

"The draft of the treaty contains demands which no nation could endure. Moreover, our experts hold that many of them could not possibly be carried out.

"The German peace delegation will substantiate these statements in detail and transmit to the allied and associated governments their observations and their material continuously."

(Signed) "Brockdorff-Rantzau." To this letter the following reply was made today by the allied and associated powers:

Reply of Allies. "The representatives of the allied and associated powers have received the statement of objections of the German plenipotentiary to the draft conditions of peace.

"In reply they wish to remind the German delegation that they have formulated the terms of the treaty with constant thought of the principles upon which the armistice and the negotiations for peace were proposed. They can admit no discussion of their right to insist on the terms of the peace substantially as drafted. They can consider only such practical suggestions as the German plenipotentiaries may have to submit."

Second Letter.

The second letter from the German representatives reads:

"The German peace delegation has the honor to pronounce its attitude on the question of the League of Nations by herewith transmitting a German program which, in the opinion of the delegation, contains important suggestions on the League of Nations problem.

"The German peace delegation reserves for itself the liberty of stating its opinions on the draft of the allied and associated governments in detail. In the meantime it begs to call attention to the discrepancy lying in the fact that Germany is called on to sign the statute of the League of Nations as an inherent part of the treaty draft handed to us, and, on the other hand, is no mentioned among the states which are invited to join the League of Nations.

"The German peace delegation begs to inquire whether, and, if so, under what circumstances, such invitation is attended.

(Signed) "BROCKDORFF-RANTZAU."

The Answer.

The reply of the allies to this is as follows:

"The receipt of the German program of the League of Nations is acknowledged. The program will be referred to the appropriate committee of the allied and associated powers.

"The German plenipotentiaries will find on a re-examination of the covenant of the League of Nations that the matter of the admission of additional member states has not been overlooked, but is explicitly provided for in the second paragraph of Article One."

TO ENFORCE CHILD LABOR PROVISION

ready on the job shaping preliminary plans for the Democratic caucus when he will champion the interests of Champ Clark as minority leader.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Faison and daughter, Miss Margaret, are in Washington on a pleasure trip. O. F. Crowson, postmaster of Burlington, was a business visitor to the national capital today. Col. Walker Taylor, of Wilmington, was here today en route to New York city. Finley Williamson, a cotton mill owner of Burlington, was here today on his way to New York on business connected with his mills. James K. Graham, of Mebane, is in the city. Edward E. Britton has returned from a three day visit to New York.

HE HELPED HUMANITY.

North Carolinians revere the memory of Charles Duncan Melver, the State's great educator and humanitarian; the founder and first president of the State Normal and Industrial College for Women. He appreciated the fact that:

"The hand that rocks the cradle, is the hand that rules the world."

And that in the present and future mothers, in a large measure, is entrusted the education of the sons and daughters, the progress of humanity.

This great man, whose monument, erected by those who were benefitted by his teachings, now occupies an honored place in the capitol grounds at Raleigh, said:

"People, not rocks and rivers and imaginary boundary lines, make a State, and the State is great just in proportion as its people are educated."

The Mothers and Fathers owe it to themselves, their children, the community, the State and country—to humanity everywhere, to see that their children have the best possible opportunity to secure a liberal, useful education.

No child can make proper progress in education without reliable reference works in the home.

No other works are so useful to the student as "The New International Encyclopedia" and "Webster's New International Dictionary." With these two works in the home library, every member of the family can easily acquire accurate, comprehensive information on any subject. Without their use a student is handicapped in his or her efforts.

No one is too poor to buy these works at the reasonable prices, and on the easy terms I offer.

Parents can better afford to economize on something else, rather than rob their children of the birthright of a liberal education.

Failure to properly educate a son or daughter is false economy, a sinful dereliction of parental duty—a crime against humanity.

To high-minded parents, the liberal education of children is a pleasant and paramount duty; and it is also the best and most enduring investment.
