

PERSHING GIVES MEDALS TO BRITISH

Presents D. S. Medals To Number of Government Officials at London

GUEST OF AMERICAN LUNCHEON CLUB

Presented By Ambassador Davis The American Commander Responds To Toast; Tells of Some Things U. S. Soldiers Did; 200,000 Still "Over There"

(By The Associated Press.)
 London, July 15.—General Pershing went to the British war office today and presented distinguished service medals to a number of prominent British governmental officers, including Viscount Milner, secretary for the colonies; Winston Spencer Churchill, secretary of war; Viscount Peel, Baron Weir, director of aircraft production; Baron Inverforth, former minister of munitions, and Felix Cassel, judge advocate general.

From the war office General Pershing went to the Hotel Savoy, where he was the guest of the American Luncheon Club.

General Pershing was loudly cheered when he entered the dining room, and again when presented by Ambassador Davis, who was toastmaster. He thanked the club for its hospitality to him and the American soldiers when passing through two years ago, and paid high tribute to the British for their part in the war.

"It must have been with a sense of great satisfaction," said General Pershing, "that you Americans living in England learned of America's entry into the war, and with what interest you watched the coming of our expeditions, the first, the naval contingent Vice Admiral Sims, who quickly recognized that the difficulties demanded an increase of craft for destroying submarines and units of command. I give him and the navy thanks for their attitude toward the army and feel safe in saying that never before was there such complete unity of action between these branches of the service.

I won't undertake to tell you what the army did. But I want you to know that its personnel was imbued with patriotism and devotion of the cause liberty and filled with an aggressive determination to carry out the will of our people at home. When that first division entered the battle line and fought a brilliant battle at Cantigny, its success set an example for the future of the campaign and had an electrical effect on our allied armies, which had been fighting for three years, and gave them new hope.

"Then came our efforts in the great counter offensive at Chateau-Thierry and Soissons where with the allies we took the initiative from the enemy and maintained it to the end of the war. I need not recall what this American army did at St. Mihiel, nor how it fought, an historically decisive battle in the Argonne which cut the enemy's line and made further resistance impossible.

"Peace Has Victories" Also.

"But peace has victories no less than war. Now that the end has come it is for us to look forward to a solution of great questions at home and abroad. While carrying on this work and preparing for peaceful years to come, we must insist that our late enemy fulfill every obligation peace has imposed upon him. It must not be understood because we are not leaving a large army of occupation that we will not insist on fulfilling to the letter all the conditions."

Gen. Pershing said that the American army was rapidly being sent home, only about 200,000 being left.

Fine Morale and Splendid Discipline.

"It would do you good if you could see those magnificent troops," he added. "Their fine morale and splendid discipline have been a great pride to me and other officers in the high command. They are returning home with a broadened view of life and its obligations and are determined to fulfill their duty as American citizens. They are entering on a new life with the same patriotism with which they fought the war and made such a glorious record."

CALCULATED TO BREED BAD BLOOD

Carson's Reference To U. S. in Recent Speech Condemned in Britain

(By The Associated Press.)
 London, July 16.—Sir Edward Carson's speech on Saturday has brought the Ulster leader under the lash of the newspapers of all parties, primarily on account of his reference to the United States, which are criticized as tactless and calculated to breed bad blood between the two nations, and secondly, because he reiterated his old threat to call out the Ulster volunteers to resist any attempt to place the home rule act in operation.

The matter came up in the House of Commons tonight when the speaker gave John Robert Clynes, Laborite, permission to move adjournment of the House for the purpose of challenging the government to set the law in motion against Sir Edward for a speech inciting the violence and endangering the safety of the realm. Mr. Clynes said there were many poor illiterate men now in prison for saying less harmful things than Sir Carson said. It was the government's duty to see that the law was equitably enforced.

Mr. Clynes described Sir Edward as the "Arch-Apostle of direct action."

Lord Hugh Cecil and other unionist members condemned Carson's remarks as indefensible.

The Attorney General, Sir Gordon Hewart, declared that the allegation that Sir Carson's speeches incited to a breach of the law and violence, had broken down.

BELA KUN MAY ADOPT SUBTERRANEAN TO GET AWAY

Vienna, July 16.—(By The Associated Press.)—There is a crisis in the Hungarian Soviet. General Boehm, commander of the armies, has been imprisoned. Reports have been circulated that his health required rest in a sanatorium. Strumfeld, second in command, is reported to have fled.

Statements that Bela Kun, the soviet leader, has been invited to a conference by the allies had given rise to reports that he has accepted this subterfuge as a means of escaping from Hungary without the intention of returning. It is denied, however, that he has left Hungary thus far, or even departed from the capital.

PASSED THE LIE TO EX-SENATOR WEEKS

John Skelton Angry Over Certain Charges Preferred Against Him

COMMITTEE GIVEN FALSE INFORMATION

Comptroller of Currency Produces Letters From Red Cross Officials Denying Charges That He Had Withdrawn Red Cross Funds From Banks

Washington, July 16.—John Skelton Williams, Comptroller of the Currency, appearing before the Senate banking committee which is considering his nomination today, struck back at his critics, passed the lie to Former Senator Weeks, of Mass., who bitterly opposed his nomination at the last session and denied charges recently made that he had caused the withdrawal of Red Cross funds from certain Washington banks. Mr. Williams announced when the committee adjourned until next Friday that he would at that time reply to allegations made by John Poole and Frank J. Hogan, local bankers, relative to alleged discriminations against certain banks.

Mr. Williams gave his testimony today after A. E. Jones, representing stockholders of the defunct First National Bank of Uniontown, Pa., of which J. V. Thompson, millionaire coal land owner was formerly president, had charged Comptroller Williams with mismanagement of the bank's affairs so as to cause the stockholders a loss of $2,780,000.

Jesse C. Adkins, one of the attorneys for the government in the Riggs bank case, and another witness, refuted testimony given by Mr. Hogan that the Comptroller had persecuted the Riggs bank and charged that the bank had repeatedly violated Federal banking statutes until compelled to desist by Mr. Williams.

The Comptroller read the committee a letter which he recently sent to Senator Owen, of Oklahoma, former chairman of the committee, alleging that the resolution presented to the committee last session by Former Senator Weeks from the Clearing House Association of Winchester, Ky., and Lexington, Ky., were "impositions" upon the committee. Mr. Williams declared no such organization exists in the former city but that the resolutions "were concocted" by two junior local bank officials, apparently at the instance of influence of some person or persons whose identity has not yet been disclosed. "In an effort to deceive the Senate committee and injure me."

The Comptroller quoted Senator Weeks as telling the committee that in five years he had not received a communication which had "not been critical of the Comptroller." In reference to this Mr. Williams in his letter charged he had proof that the former Massachusetts Senator at that time had in his possession a letter from a former president of the Kentucky Bankers Association protesting against the Senator's opposition.

"That statement was made by him (Weeks) deliberately and the record shows that in making it, he uttered an untruth," Mr. Williams in the letter asserted.

Replying to charges that Red Cross funds had been withdrawn at the instance of the Comptroller from the Federal National bank in Washington,

Mr. Williams read letters of denial from Hugh S. Bird, assistant treasurer, and E. C. Kanake, second assistant treasurer, of the Red Cross. The letter of the latter asserted that "Mr. Poole had deliberately given the committee information that is absolutely not true." Mr. Bird explained that the $280,000 had been withdrawn but said this was done owing to the fact the money belonged to a separate division and had been deposited by mistake in that bank.

TROOPS AT DISPOSAL OF SPARTANBURG'S MAYOR

Trouble There Over Strike of Employes of Street Railway Company

Spartanburg, S. C., July 16.—Governor Cooper this afternoon ordered the mobilization of Company F, South Carolina Reserve Militia, a local home guard company and placed the same at the disposal of Mayor Lloyd for guard duty in connection with difficulties that have arisen here as a result of the strike of the street railway employes of the South Carolina Light and Power and Railway Company. Members of the company are detailed to guard the sub-station of the company. The company made no effort to operate cars today. As a result of disturbances last night when a motorman who had refused to join the union was taken from his car and beaten, heavy fines were imposed in the police court today.

Health Talk
By F. T. HOFF, D.C.

During the last twenty-five years, the science of Chiropractic has demonstrated the soundness of its theories, the absolute safety of its methods of practice, its applicability to fully 95% of all human disorders and more than 74% of restorations to health in the largest number of cases handled by any drugless method in this country.

If you are sick and want to get well, can you afford to ignore the fact that Chiropractic offers you not alone a new view as to the real cause of disease, but a wholly distinct method of locating and removing that cause without resorting to any means to effect a cure except the curative properties that are contained within your own body?

Chiropractic attention to your spine and nerves merely puts your body in condition to make full use of the health energy that Nature within you creates and uses to conduct healthy function in every working part.

You can be strong, vigorous, full of life and energy when each vital organ is as Nature intended. You can free yourself from chronic or acute, severe or minor ailments in the sense that you will get entirely rid of your sickness and suffering if you will adopt the sensible method of freeing your nerves of the mechanical obstructions which prevent them from correctly performing their duty of transmitting health energy. Chiropractic adjustments will afford you more help than you have ever found in anything else.
