BRADSTREET'S REPORT.

New York, July 18 .- Bradstreet's to norrow will say: "Business momentum is so great and demand is so heavy and so eager that geffection is hardly yet visible in either trade or industry, of the more disturbed outlook in the labor situation, or of the further shading of estimates of early planted crops, notably wheat and oats. Of the latter it may be said that winter wheat yields have again been shaded, while drought, scab or other troubles in the West Northwest has cut spring wheat and other crops' prospects and caused very large shipments of half matured eattle from Montana and North containing pair of pants, shirt, few collars and ties. was heavy early under scattered liquidation due to the break in lard and bearish economie conditions, but a fair rally followed on outside support and short couragement to buyers. The opening was at the advance and the rising tendency persisted throughout the session, highest prices being reached in the last few minutes of the day when the trading months were 96 to 105 points up. The close was 91 to 105 up. Initial trades were higher in sympathy with the better Liverpool market than due and the demand was increased by the rains on the weather may and later by private accounts of crop deterioration through heavy showers, both in the Atlantics and in the Western belt. The continued rise in the price of cotton goods helped values to some extent and in the afternoon, shorts covered freely following the marking up of spot quotations by 25 points.
