

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE

ON MY 436 ACRE FARM IN DINWIDDIE county, I have a mill site on the Appomattox river, 3 miles from Petersburg, Virginia, where once a mill was operated and was burned. Most of the old dam remains, and, as history is repeating itself, my land country is again growing wheat. A mill is much needed and water is the cheapest power now. Petersburg and its suburbs, being near Camp Lee and the du Ponts, are growing very rapidly and sadly needs another outing ground for picnics, etc., and this is the spot for same, as the mill site is near the river and can be made an ideal place and produce a good revenue at small cost and the miller can collect the rent. Address the owner: Howard James, Box 134, Petersburg, Va. 24-16

CANTEEN WORKERS HELP DOUGHBOYS

Fifty-seven Attractive Girls Enliven Living For Army of Occupation

Colets, July 9. (By Mail)—The Y. M. C. A.'s canteen company in the Army of Occupation leave areas includes fifty-seven attractive girls from many different cities in the United States. While the boys are waiting for the order to evacuate they are putting on an intensive campaign of amusement exclusive of that staged by a corps of entertainers working under the auspices of that particular department of the association. Time has brought many changes for the canteen girl working overseas with the A. E. F. A year ago she served chocolate and cookies in makeshift quarters along the line in northern France. Many were under shell fire and those who were not experienced the thrills of crawling out of bed at midnight to seek shelter from the Goshes in damp, cold cellars.

Today the canteen girl works under improved conditions and with every modern convenience to facilitate her enterprise. The huts in Germany are spacious structures, beautifully decorated and attractively furnished with wicker chairs and settees. If she serves chocolate—on the chance she doesn't, for ice cream is now the popular refreshment—it is made in giant marmites each built over a stove. There are real kitchens in the new "Y" huts, with running water and sinks and open windows breaking the rows of neatly arranged cooking utensils that hang on the walls. In the old days many a pot of chocolate was boiled over a fire built between bricks piled in a hollow square.

Sometimes the water was a mile away and cups had to be used over again and again, but that's an old story now. The maximum of effort was expended by canteen girls in those days in accomplishing the minimum of result. They worked in rubber boots that protected their feet from the rain and mud of camps near the combat centers. Their supplies didn't always come up. Many, many times the chocolate wasn't as sweet as it should have been, because the sugar gave out. The cookies were broken and moist from the eternal rain.

No doughboy ever gets a broken cookie now. His chocolate is made according to the most improved recipes, and there is always an unlimited supply of ingredients for every dish concocted in the Y. M. C. A. kitchens.

The girl who smiled over the hardships a year ago is still smiling, the doughboys will tell you. They have plenty of time now to leave the counter and chat with the soldiers over Chateau Thierry and St. Mihiel and the Meuse-Argonne fights. They know the country, many of them, as well as the fighter knows it, and they like to talk about the old days as the fighter does.

There are a number of girls in the huts scattered over the Third Army region who came over since the armistice was signed. The new workers are very popular and have helped to make this territory famous for its dances, picnics, boat excursions on the Rhine and other recreational activities.

Czechoslovakia.

Czechoslovakia is a long band of plateau and mountain country lying in the very heart of Central Europe. It divides laterally into three fairly distinct geographical regions: Bohemia, Moravia, and Austrian Silesia and the Tatra region of the Carpathians. As its name implies, the race inhabiting this country is divided into two branches, the Czechs and the Slovaks. The Slovaks settled in the Carpathian mountain region to the east with the Czechs inhabiting the other provinces to the west. The Czechs are much the more numerous branch, amounting to nearly 7,000,000, while the Slovaks number only 2,000,000, the combined race thus amounting to about 9,000,000 souls. The total area of Czechoslovakia is some 50,000 square miles, or a little larger than New York State. The Czechs are not merely the larger branch of the race; they are also the more progressive. Their country is rich and fertile. The Slovak country is poor, and the inhabitants are backward.—Lothrop Stoddard in World's Work.

The WORLD'S HARDEST WORK

How Indiana Trucks Stood the Acid Test

Don't buy a weakening in a Motor Truck. Buy one that can do the world's toughest truck work which is:

- 1—Western Ore Hauling
 - 2—Oil-Field Work
 - 3—Mountain Hauling
 - 4—Southern Lumber Hauling
- In the western ore fields the only truck that consistently for years has stood up and outstripped trucks costing $1000 to $2000 more and stood the gaff like the steel giant it is is the Indiana Truck.

The hardest oil-field work in the world is that in the Wyoming field, some of which is without any roads at all.

The Indiana stands up and does work that no other truck will do. It is easily champion in the Wyoming oil-fields.

In the Tulsa field, in the Ranger field, which are more difficult for trucks than any European battle-ground, the Indians have stood the test where others failed utterly.

For seven years, after every other truck had failed to conquer the wild rocky mountain roads between Campbellville and Columbus, Ky., two Indiana Trucks have been hauling freight, mail and passengers at an excellent profit to their owners. Due to the
