

FULL BROTHERS IN ARMS, MONASH SAYS

Australian Commander in Chief of War Forces Pays Tribute To America

GREATEST SINGLE FEAT BY MEN OF 27TH AND 30TH

This Army, He Explains, Overthrew The Hindenburg Defense System at Its "Most Strongly Defended Point"; Americans Had Capacity To "Deliver The Goods"

London, July 4. (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—Australian and American soldiers are "full-blood brothers" in the opinion of Lieutenant-General Sir John Monash, commander-in-chief of the Australian forces in the war, because the Americans were never placed in any position nor called upon to perform any duty, when, as the General expressed it in an Independence Day speech here tonight, they did not "deliver the goods."

General Monash said he first reached this conclusion in the early dawn of the Fourth of July, 1918, when for the first time, Australian troops, fighting side by side with the Americans in the Somme sector won the battle of Hamel and gave to the Allied arms the first success they had achieved since the Germans began their memorable advances on March 21.

"This battle was the turning point of the war," said General Monash. "It was a brilliant and unequalled success, and its effect upon the morale, both of the enemy and of our own men, was electric and astounding. It became the model of all subsequent achievements in France, and it paved the way for the great counter-offensive in August."

An Exciting Two Hours. The American troops engaged, the General said, were 1,000 men from the 33d division, commanded by General John Bell. The 33d division was then undergoing training. General Monash said he had asked and obtained permission to employ 1,000 of the Americans in the battle of Hamel, but on the eve of the battle the permission was withdrawn.

"I passed a strenuous and exciting week at the front," continued General Monash. "So far as I could learn the whole of the American general headquarters as to the state of preparedness for battle of this division."

"I could not afford to have my battle plans ruined at the last moment by the withdrawal of a large fraction of my assaulting infantry, so I went to my commander and delivered an ultimatum. If the Americans were not allowed to remain in the order of battle, then the battle in the morning would be off. Unless a decision was given by six o'clock that night the battle would go on with the Americans in it as planned. We managed to intercept the commander-in-chief and he gave the order, 'Carry on.'"

"Those 1,000 Americans covered themselves with glory, and I can pay them no greater compliment than by saying that from that day on our Australian veterans took them to their hearts as full-blood brothers."

General Monash declared that the 131st American Regiment of the 33d Division, in company with the 13th Australian Brigade, "fought a most gallant and successful series of actions which resulted in the capture of Chipilly Spur" when the great counter-offensive was launched by Australians and Canadians in the Somme sector on August 8, 1918. "This," he said, "made secure my left flank thereby enabling me to get astride of the Valley of the Somme and hunt the enemy clean out of it for twenty miles."

Greatest Single American Act. General Monash had under his command in the closing days of the war the whole Second American Army Corps, more than 60,000 men of the 27th and 30th American divisions. This army, he said, overthrew the Hindenburg defense system at its "most strongly defended point." The share of the American divisions in these operations was characterized by General Monash as "probably the greatest single American feat of arms achieved in the whole war."

The operations were completed on October 5, he said, and it was on that night that "the Germans threw up the sponge and declared their willingness to make peace on our own terms."

"I have been asked over and over again to express my opinion of the American troops," General Monash continued. "I am not going to be so foolish as to attempt to do so here and now, I am only going to say in your own expressive vernacular that at all times and in every place where I have used them, the American troops 'delivered the goods.'"

"You may well believe that this close association in war of such large bodies of Australians and Americans has erected a very real and lasting friendship between our two democracies. The foundations of that friendship had already been laid many years before by the visit of the American battle fleet to Australia.

"I can assure you that Australia attaches much importance to securing and maintaining the friendship of America. We look upon the United States as our big brother in the Pacific, and if any one of you has reflected on the problems of the Pacific, which are going to arise in the future of the future, he will know what I mean by that observation."

TAR HEEL SOLDIER GETS IN TROUBLE IN RICHMOND

Richmond, Va., Aug. 4.—Warying of waiting on the government for the first instalment of his disability allowance as provided in the $10,000 war risk insurance policy carried by him, Meade S. Hoyle, 27 years old, R. F. D. No. 1, Newton, who says that he was felled by a machine gun bullet wound in the hip September 29 last, the same day on which Captain Dickson, Raleigh attorney, commanding Company K, 120th Infantry, 30th Division, of which he was a member, while he was helping to break through the Hindenburg line near St. Quentin, undertook to equip himself with a civilian outfit here Saturday evening with worthless checks but was arrested before completing the trick.

Moved by his story of service overseas, Justice Crutchfield today showed a spirit of leniency and agreed to require only a bond of $300 for six months. Hoyle was remanded in default but he expressed the hope that he could furnish the surety as soon as he could communicate with his brother, O. T. Hoyle, of Lee Hall, Va.

A Clean Cool Scalp

Parisian Sage Stops Itching, Keeps the Scalp Cool—Prevents Dandruff.

Almost everybody nowadays knows that Parisian sage, the invigorating hair restorer, is guaranteed to remove every trace of dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp, or the cost, small as it is, will be refunded.

But you should know more about this marvelous hair grower. You ought to know that it immediately destroys all odors that are bound to come from the excretions of the scalp, and in five minutes after an application, no matter how hot the weather, your head will feel cool and comfortable.

Everyone should have a bottle of Parisian sage handy because it is such a pleasant and exhilarating hair treatment. Ladies use it because they know it is delicately perfumed, not sticky or greasy, and surely does make the hair beautiful, silky and abundant. Here's what a New York woman writes: "I have used Parisian sage two weeks only, yet in that time find my hair has wonderfully increased in beauty, thickness and luxuriance, but what surprised me most was the disappearance of all dandruff."

A large bottle of Parisian sage can be obtained from J. C. Brantley or at any good drug or toilet-counter—it's not expensive. (Adv.)

TOBACCO WORKERS WILL NOT STRIKE

All Differences Between Union and R. J. Reynolds Company Are Adjusted

Winston-Salem, Aug. 4.—There will be no strike by the tobacco workers in this city. All matters in controversy between the local tobacco workers union and the manufacturers have been settled. Not only will there be no strike in the plants of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, prominently mentioned in connection with the negotiations, but an agreement has been reached closing any further discussion affecting the tobacco interests of the entire city.

At a meeting of the local tobacco manufacturers with the representatives of the local tobacco workers union, a proposition from the Reynolds Tobacco Company was received by the union representatives, President A. McAndrew and Secretary E. Lewis Evans, of the international tobacco workers union, of Louisville, Ky., and the local organizer, who have been conducting the negotiations.

Briefly stated, the tobacco workers are granted a 48 hour week, divided into five nine-hour work days, with three hours work on Saturdays. The stipulations as to the wage scale grants an increase of practically 20 per cent.

All work required by the company of its employees in excess of 48 hours per week shall be paid at the rate of time and a half. No discrimination will be made or permitted against an employee because of his membership in or non-membership in a labor union. The proposition also states that the basis and rates proposed shall be in effect until January 31, 1920.

President McAndrew stated that the local branches of the union have determined to start at once with the organization of co-operative stock companies for the purpose of operating co-operative stores under what is known as the Rochdale system. President McAndrew also stated that his organization, and labor generally, is heartily in favor of the improvement of school conditions and particularly endorses the school improvement plan recently launched in Winston-Salem. He further stated that at the meeting of the State Federation of Labor at Raleigh on Tuesday, August 12, a resolution will be introduced, and he has reason to believe it will be carried, asking legislature to enact a law providing for free text-books for the public schools of the State.

WEST LEADS IN CAPITA AUTOMOBILE OWNERSHIP

Nebraska Has One Auto To Every Eight People; North Carolina Forty-four

The West leads the nation in per capita auto ownership, according to figures compiled by the bureau of publicity of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce.

The first nine States are west of the Mississippi, namely, Nebraska, California, Iowa, South Dakota, Arizona and Minnesota.

Michigan, in tenth place, is the leading State east of the Mississippi.

In Nebraska there is an auto to every seven and eighth-tenths people. In other words, if it were necessary for the entire population to leave the State it could be done quickly without the assistance of railroads.

The State of North Carolina is in forty-fourth place, with one automobile to every 40 people. There are 62,072 automobiles to a population of 2,485,000.

It is mighty seldom that a man falls from grace without fracturing some of his morals.

A pertinent query is a kick in disguise.

Constipation Results When Hot Weather Stops Exercise

WHEN the system has become accustomed to a certain daily routine of exercise and food, health is quick to suffer if that routine is interfered with. The bowels are first to notice the change.

Different water is enough to constipate. Changes of food when traveling, much sitting by those accustomed to long walks will do it. It is especially true that when elderly people change their routine they quickly become constipated. Yet elderly people should be particularly careful to keep their bowels open, especially during the hot months.

A better remedy for the purpose cannot be found on a druggist's shelf than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin which trains the stomach-muscles to do their work naturally so that medicines can be dispensed with. Only a small dose is needed, and unlike harsh physics and cathartics, it acts gently and without griping.

A bottle of Syrup Pepsin can be bought at any drug store for 50c and $1, the latter the family size, or a free trial bottle will be sent on receipt of your address to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 400 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.
