HIDE AND SEEK.

A child, I played the old, old game.

And laughing fied from one who sought Until his hands my own hands caught.

Ah, that was years and years ago; Yet still the thrilling game I know.

For here, in this grim city street, A playmate tags my jaded feet.

I heard his mocking laughter high As that swift motor thundered by.

And felt his breathing stir my hair Just as I gained the crossing there:

By bare two inches did I 'scape, Unharmed, untouched, his stealthy

And yet, unlike the old, old game, Forever new, yet still the same.

I never turn the tables round And hunt my eager playmate down;

He must pursue, as I must flee— For it is Death who plays with me! —Florence Van Cleave, in New York

How To Pick An Employer.

Prom the Forbes Magazine, "The best boss," said Mr. Sabin, presi dent of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, "is the one who is least of a boss ; the one who gives men the full-est opportunities to develop themselves, to grow to the limit of their capacity. The one an concern cannot amount to much in these days of big things. It takes a big, strong, well-organized team to grapple with modern conditions, and to turn the wonderful present-day opportunities to profitable account.

"The active, ambitious young man should try to heek up with an aggressive, progressive organization where he will be given a chance-once he demonstrates that he marits it-to show what ties of the country have approved it as a practicable, cheaply manufactured, is in him, a chance to shoulder responsibilities. The large organization, ceperally speaking, offers the largest oppor-tunities, because it can command the capital, as well as the brains, to accomplish new things, often along new lines.
