Smith's Secret. Jones wanted to know. Nobody could blame him for a good stenographer means a smoothly running day's work. Smith told Jones in a confidential whisper. What Smith said was "Sh-h-h-h! Listen! I put a Want Ad in the paper and she was number seven. Seven, you know Jones, is the perfect number." And Smith smiled a smile of satisfaction. And here's more of Smith's secret. The paper was this paper. Why don't you try Smith's plan? Or, if perchance you are a stenographer, a Want Ad may find the particular place you want. The best employers read them. Try one. These Are Effective Little Messages. WANTED—Remember, bright active young woman able to take dictation, shorthand and bookkeeping. This is a real opportunity. Good salary. Write to your copy. ADDRESS: WANTED—MARRIED, experienced stenographer, age 34. Five years experience in dictation and bookkeeping. Can write, penmanship and typewriter perfectly. Capable and energetic generally. Can take dictation rapidly. High school education. This is a real opportunity. Good salary. Write to your copy. ADDRESS: The best Employers and Employees use this newspaper to find each other. It is an excellent practice to Read and Use the Want Ads in THE NEWS AND OBSERVER. "The Best, Not the Cheapest, Want Medium in North Carolina"
