OUIMET LOSES TO

Pittsburgh, Aug. 21 .- After a 24-hour reign as favorite for championship honin the 'National Amateur Tournaint being played at the Oakmont Club, Francis Oulmet was late this afternoon eliminated by J. Wood Platt, North Hills Club, Philadelphia, one up on the 38th hole. The defeat of the faas sensational a golfing feat as the con-test that marked the passing of Chick the man who succeeded in concealing Evans yesterday at the hands of Oujmet. as a setting to the match a terrific thunderstorm burst over players and stors just after the New England spert had squared the contest on the home green and the two extra holes were fought out in a pouring rain that drenched contestants and gallery to the

It was the second heavy storm of the lay and as a result the course was badly showed up. Ouimet was in trouble virtually all day, taking 85 for both the forencon and afternoon rounds of 18 holes each.

Platt while not playing particularly brilliant golf was extremely steady and ande every shot count. In addition to steady play Platt brought bursts of applause from the gallery of several of the mob to leave Franklin county bundred golf devotees who trudged and never roturn. Virtually unknown in national tournament circles until today, Platt demonstrated that he must be considered as a factor for the championship title and his match with S. Davidson Herron, of Oakmont, will be watched with exceptional interest.

Two of the four players to win places in the semi-final round are members of the Oakmont Club. They are W. C. Fownes, Jr., a former national champion, who wen today from George Hoff- else and discussed the case freely until ner, of the Bala Club, Philadelphia, and Davidson Herron, who easily defeated W. J.
