Mr. A. E. Morgan, of Goldsboro, sends this letter to the News and Observer: "The News and Observer stated recently that grocers in Raleigh were required to sell sugar at 11 cents per pound. With a number of others who sell groceries in Goldsboro I would think some of the Raleigh grocers or some of the authorities who required them to sell at that price to tell us how it is done. I have paid 10.50 and 10.65 for the little sugar I have been able to get recently. How to pay that price and sell it for 11 cents is the question."

ORPHANAGE GIRLS HAVE CAMP FIRE CELEBRATION

Absence of the boys of the Methodist Orphanage at Lakeview on a camping trip was the fact that suggested the outing taken by the orphanage girls last evening on the school campus.

Mrs. M. A. Jenkins, "mother of the orphanage," suggested the Camp Fire Girls' idea to the crowd, and as a result some thirty-five girls took out cots for lounging and supper materials on the lawn near the car tracks.

A large bonfire was built in the center and the space around decorated with Japanese lanterns. The fire was used to cook the supper, which consisted of bacon, eggs, white bread, toasted cheese, crackers, pickles and ended up with ice cream, Mrs. Jenkins' own contribution.

Following the camp fire supper the girls devoted themselves to playing games and having a general good time. About 10:30 they cleared up the festival ground and returned to the buildings, satisfied that the boys who went to Lakeview had nothing on them.

There wouldn't be half as many cars lined up for engine repairs, if owners gave a little more heed to proper lubrication. You can ignore the repair man when you pass him if you are a Motul user. Motul is the scientific lubricant that prevents cylinder scoring and piston ring breakage.
